FUELING STOP for ducks readying for annual migration, Beacon Hill Park provides constant supply of children with crusts and old men with bags of grain. All they have to do in return is be brave enough to nibble from a human's hand on occasion. The mallards and wood ducks in this flock are smart enough to stay here to breed, but many of the other varieties will head for the Interior or the Arctic soon. Meantime, all varieties use these gatherings as an excuse to jostle closely in hope of finding the right mate. Sure sign of spring. (Photo by Dave Hancock.)

Fugitive Charged As King's Slayer

New Brunswick Seeks Envoy At Paris Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick wrote to his Quebec counterpart proposing that an Acadian representative also be present at the French-language education conference opening in Paris Monday.

The newspaper says in a Quebec story that the letter, written two weeks ago, reminds Premier Daniel Johnson that Quebec is not the only Canadian province interested in developing the status of its French-language population.

It says Mr. Johnson telephoned Mr. Robichaud last week, expressing sympathy for the Acadians desire to adhere to their French culture but adding that Quebec is a guest at the Paris meeting and has not the right to hand out invitations to international conferences.

CLAIMS SAME RIGHT

La Presse quotes Mr. Robichaud's letter as saying that since New Brunswick proclaimed French an official language equal to English the province had the same right to be represented in Paris.

Mr. Robichaud then proposed that Acadians, descendants of French-speaking settlers of the Maritimes, should have equal representation at the meeting.

Mr. Johnson replied that he hoped some agreement could be reached with the federal government on questions of international relations in field under provincial jurisdiction, the newspaper adds.

Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal is scheduled to leave Montreal tonight for Paris. He has said he is representing the province since education is a provincial right.

Mr. Cardinal said today he does not believe Quebec's participation in the conference will lead to a confrontation between the provincial and federal governments.

The minister told a press conference:

"Things seem to be going all right. I don't think there is going to be any confrontation. I hope not. I believe there is a solution to this problem, if a problem exists at all."

The Paris meeting is the second round of talks initiated by 17 French-speaking countries at a conference in Gabon in February. Mr. Cardinal represented Quebec at the Gabon meeting and his presence precipitated a

GALT

Galt Eludes Vast Dragnet

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The mysterious Eric Starvo Galt has been charged with conspiracy and murder in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

The FBI said in a fugitive warrant issued Wednesday night in Birmingham, Ala., that Galt, 36, conspired with a man "whom he alleged to be his brother" to violate King's civil rights.

The state charge of first-degree murder was filed against Galt in Memphis where King, 39, 1964 Nobel Peace Prize-winning civil rights leader, was shot to death on a motel balcony April 4 by a sniper who fled from a nearby rooming house.

DEATH PENALTY

First-degree murder in Tennessee carries the death penalty although the electric chair has not been used in the state since 1960.

The maximum penalty under the federal charge of conspiracy to violate a person's civil rights is a $5,000 fine and 10-year prison sentence.

There was no further mention in the FBI statement about the alleged brother and no charge was filed against him.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced in Washington that the conspiracy to "injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate" King began "on or about March 30" in Birmingham.

The FBI statement said a .30-.06 rifle, equipped with a telescopic sight and found near the rooming house shortly after King was slain, was purchased March 30 in Birmingham.

The statement did not connect Galt directly with the rifle.

The FBI released a photograph of Galt and solicited public aid in finding him. Whether this appeal meant the trail had become cold was unclear, but U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark told a reporter in Washington that he felt this was not the situation.

The FBI started hunting Galt a week ago.

WITNESSES VAGUE

The picture — which had to have the eyes "opened" by an artist brought uncertain responses from witnesses who were acquainted with Galt or saw the fleeing sniper.

"Unless he was wearing a wig or had had a face lift or something, it's not the man I saw," said Charles Q. Stevens, who lives at the rooming house from which the fatal shot apparently was fired.

A source in Birmingham said the photograph was taken within the last three months, although the FBI did not specify when it was made.

"It's very near, but I'm not sure," was the reaction of Peter Cherpes, owner of a Birmingham boarding house where an Eric Galt stayed from Aug. 26 to Oct. 7 last year.

The FBI, relying on witnesses apparently, said the fugitive had been described as a white man, five-foot-eight to five-11, weighing 160 to 175 pounds, with brown hair in a brush cut, blue eyes, straight nose.

Persons who have met Galt, the FBI reported, described him as a loner with a "rural" speech and little schooling, fond of vodka, beer and hillbilly music.

"Galt should be considered armed and dangerous," the FBI release warned.

Galt has used the names of John Willard and Harvey Lowmeyer, the FBI said. The assassin registered at the Memphis rooming house under the name of John Willard.

DETAILS SKETCHY

Details of the alleged conspiracy were missing from the FBI release, as were vital statistics, such as Galt's birthplace, formal schooling, employment. The statement said Galt said he has been a cook on Mississippi riverboats, a merchant seaman and "is said to be an avid dancer."

Galt, the FBI said, is the owner of a 1966 white Mustang with Alabama licence plates abandoned in Atlanta the day after King was shot to death.

Two white Mustangs were parked near the rooming house shortly before the shooting, witnesses have said, and both disappeared minutes later.

The FBI said Galt's car travelled more than 19,000 miles between Aug. 30, 1967, when he bought it in Birmingham and its abandonment last week in Atlanta. There were trips to Los Angeles, New Orleans and Mexico, the FBI said.

While in the Los Angeles area early this year, Galt took a course in bartending and graduated March 2, the FBI said, but refused a job.

END NEAR TO WOODS STRIKE?

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said today he is "hopeful" of an imminent settlement in the seven-month-old strike by forest company employees in the southern Interior of B.C.

The 5,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America have been on strike since Oct. 4 in an attempt to get parity with coastal woodworkers.

Mr. Peterson said provincial conciliation officer Jack Sherlock had been mediating the dispute for the past two days in meetings with representatives of both sides in Vancouver.

"The parties agreed that Mr. Sherlock should make recommendations for settlement of the dispute.

"At the present time Mr. Sherlock is drafting the recommendations and they will be submitted to the parties later today in Vancouver," Mr. Peterson said.

MUST TAKE VOTE

"This is the first major breakthrough that we've had in this lengthy dispute," Mr. Peterson said. "I'm hopeful that this will bring about a settlement and enable an early resumption of operations in the southern Interior."

Both employees and employers will have to vote on whether to accept Mr. Sherlock's recommendations, Mr. Peterson said. It would not be a government-supervised vote but a department official will be on hand as an observer in both cases.

Mr. Peterson said neither party's representatives will be aware of the actual recommendations until they receive them at the meeting.

N. Viets Insist Site Be Cambodia or Poland

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam demanded today that the United States "agree without delay" to Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland, as the site for preliminary peace talks and also stop all attacks on North Vietnamese territory.

The demand, in the official Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan, repeats the charge that the United States is insincere in its talk of peace efforts.

"Once again," it says, "we demand that the U.S. government give up its attitude that shows a lack of goodwill and agree without delay to either Phnom Penh or Warsaw for the site of contacts."

"We demand that the United States stop definitively and unconditionally its bombing and other acts of war on the whole territory of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam so that talks may begin."

HANOI TO BLAME

Nhan Dan says Johnson, in his speech in Honolulu Monday, attempted to blame North Vietnam for the delay in the start of the preliminary talks.

"This is clearly a complete reversal of truth aimed at coping with public opinion which is protesting against the U.S. government," the paper says.

Diplomats in Washington from some of the countries allied with the United States in Vietnam said the U.S. government had objected to Phnom Penh and Warsaw because it had promised the preliminary talks would be held, if possible, in a neutral Asian country to which South Vietnam and its Asian allies could send observer delegations.

U.S. Suggests Pakistan

RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Pakistan today said the U.S. state department has asked if it would be willing to be the site of preliminary peace talks on Vietnam between Washington and Hanoi.

An official government spokesman here said Pakistan expressed its willingness to be the site in reply to the American query.

Paris Wants to Be Host

PARIS (UPI) — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville today offered Paris as a site for eventual Vietnam preliminary peace talks.

The French cabinet reported it had not been approached by either Hanoi or Washington to offer a place in France for the site of the talks.

Goldberg Said Ready to Quit

By ROBERT H. ESTABROOK

UNITED NATIONS (WP) — Arthur J. Goldberg's resignation a United States permanent representative to the United Nations was reliably reported Wednesday to be "very imminent."

Sol M. Linowitz, ambassador to the Organization of American States, and Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco are said to have been under consideration by President Johnson as possible successors.

Linowitz, 54, was chairman of the board and general counsel of the Xerox Corporation when the president appointed him representative to the OAS in the summer of 1966.

Sisco, 48, heads the state department bureau of international organization affairs.

It is thought that President Johnson intends to announce the change soon after his return from Hawaii.

Goldberg, however, is expected to remain at his post through the General Assembly's consideration of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty. The resumed session of the assembly starts April 24 and may run longer than the scheduled three weeks because of opposition to the treaty.

A former associate justice of the Supreme Court and secretary of labor during the Kennedy administration, Goldberg, who is 59, is said to be planning to enter private law practice in New York. Presumably, he would be available for reappointment to the Supreme Court, if a vacancy should occur.

Although he has differed with some aspects of administration policy on Vietnam, Goldberg has remained close to the president as a member of the cabinet. He has been eager to avoid causing any embarrassment to Mr. Johnson.

He intended to leave his UN assignment earlier this year but was asked by Mr. Johsson to withhold his resignation so it would not coincide with the departure of former defence secretary Robert S. McNamara.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Dr. Martin Luther King's successor, announced today that King's planned "poor people's campaign" on Washington would begin May 2.

Pearson Resignation Handed to Gov.-Gen.

OTTAWA—Government House formally announced today that Prime Minister Pearson had submitted his resignation and Liberal Leader Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be sworn in Monday afternoon as prime minister.

The statement said:

"The Rt. Hon. L. B. Pearson has tendered to the Governor-General his resignation as prime minister which the Governor-General has indicated he will accept when Mr. Pearson's successor is ready to assume office.

"Accordingly the Hon. Pierre Trudeau, minister of justice and recently-elected leader of the Liberal party of Canada, has been summoned and invited by the Governor-General to form a government which he has undertaken to do.

"Mr. Trudeau has indicated that he hopes to be in a position to take office on the afternoon of Monday, April 22."

Johnson Back Home After Hawaii Talks

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — President Johnson took off for his Texas ranch today after a two-hour breakfast meeting with former president Dwight D. Eisenhower that produced no immediate statement from either. They had talked about war and peace in the Pacific.

Johnson arrived at this Strategic Air Command base in the middle of the night, slept aboard his plane and, not long after dawn, welcomed Eisenhower for a breakfast meeting aboard the presidential jet.

Their talk followed a Hawaii summit meeting with South Korean President Chung Hee Park, who got Johnson's assurance that South Korea will have a voice in any Vietnam peace negotiations and that the United States will stand by its commitments to help defend South Korea against any Communist incursions from North Korea.

Eisenhower flew in from his winter home at Palm Desert to be briefed by Johnson on the Hawaii talks.

Johnson interrupted a Texas Easter vacation to fly to Hawaii Monday for discussions of Vietnam strategy with his Pacific military commanders and then Wednesday's meeting with Park.

A 1,000-word joint communique and a warm embrace by Johnson of his important Asian supporter climaxed the meeting which grew out of a strain in U.S.-Korean relations following last January's North Korean assassination attempt against Park and seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

South Korea has nearly 50,000 troops with the southern allied forces in South Vietnam, and SAIGON (AP) — Waves of U.S. B-52s hit South Vietnam's A Shau Valley with more than 1,500 tons of bombs Wednesday and today in the war's heaviest aerial blows for a 24-hour period.

At least 60 of the eight-engine Stratofortresses streaked over the valley from bases in Thailand and Guam to bomb North Vietnamese truck parks, storage areas and troop concentrations.

Teachers Fight School Bill Despite Peterson Warning

Times News Services

PENTICTON—Tom Hutchison, president-elect of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, said Wednesday teachers are prepared to risk a clash with the provincial government on education issues.

His statement followed a speech earlier in the day by retiring president Robert Buzza who defended a federation campaign to oppose new provincial education financing legislation.

"We have a legitimate right to tell the public what is best for education, and election time is a good time to do it," said Mr. Hutchison, vice-principal of Invermere's David Thompson School.

"Education should get more play as an election topic.

"It is difficult to avoid the label 'partisan' and delegates fear that the aims of the federation may be identified with the aims of one of the parties campaigning before the next election," Mr. Hutchison said.

"We feel, however, that the teachers have a legitimate right to tell the public how it is.

"If I find that the federation becomes partisan, mine will be the shortest presidency on record," said the new president.

Unlike the press, teachers do not have a vested interest in conflict, he said.

Mr. Hutchison criticized the tendency of the news media to "wait around for blood." It is improper for the media to play up conflicts, he said.

LABOR ATTACKS 'INTIMIDATION'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor Wednesday branded as intimidation a hint by Education Minister Leslie Peterson of legislation against militant teachers.

"In response to a decision by the B.C. Teachers' Federation to launch a public campaign against recent changes in education financing in the province, Mr. Peterson has threatened . . . with reprisals in the form of legislation to weaken the organization," the labor federation said in a statement.

Mr. Peterson, who doubles as labor minister, said in an interview at the teachers' convention in Penticton that the government would act if teachers opposed financing legislation on a partisan political basis.

He said legislation could take the form of not compelling all teachers to belong to the federation.

The interview followed a resolution passed at the convention that called for $57,000 to launch a campaign against school financing methods in use.

TRUDEAU OBLIGES 17-YEAR-OLD

A Kiss? Why Not . . . It's Spring

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — There were all the makings of a prospective love-in on Parliament Hill Wednesday.

Liberal Leader Pierre Trudeau returned to the capital in high spirits after a few days of sun and fancy high diving in Florida.

The word went out that a cabinet meeting was being held and a few female teenagers cut classes to come to the hill for a glimpse of Prime Minister Pearson's successor.

One of them, 17-year-old Gail Fitzpatrick, wanted a souvenir.

As Mr. Trudeau left the cabinet meeting on the run she stopped him and breathlessly asked, "Mr. Trudeau, could I please give you a kiss, sir?"

IT'S SPRING

"Why not," he shot back. 'It's spring," and promptly planted a smack on Miss Fitpatrick's startled mouth.

"No comment," she replied when asked for an opinion, and then let out a peculiarly throaty sound which was described by some as the beginning of a swoon.

Mr. Trudeau then bounded off with a gaggle of youngsters running along beside, chattering all the way.

It was certainly a different style for a prime minister, particularly in view of the fact that he had aged two years overnight.

Mr. Trudeau was not overwhelmed by the thought that one day he was 46 and the next day a record of his birth in Montreal indicated he was really 48.

He said he could not recall giving out his age to anyone, and even his brother and sister could not agree on the year he had appeared on the scene.

SOME CONFUSION

"I think I know, but quite frankly I'm confused," he told reporters with a grin.

Mr. Trudeau obviously was not taking the whole thing too seriously and a recent biography noted that as a youth he paid little attention to such things as birthdays.

The widespread belief that he was 46 came from the material circulated by his headquarters during the recent leadership convention. It said he was born on Oct. 18, 1921.

The Montreal birth record gave Oct. 18, 1919, as the day when Joseph Philippe Pierre Ives Elliotte Trudeau was born.

In Canada-France Squabble

BREACH TALK PREMATURE

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson and Liberal Leader Trudeau were optimistic Wednesday that a reasonable solution will be found to the Ottawa-Quebec-Paris squabble over next week's educational conference.

The controversy over Quebec's rights to send an official delegation to the Paris conference was discussed in cabinet and consultations are continuing with Quebec.

Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Trudeau indicated the present circumstances were not severe enough to warrant a breach of diplomatic relations with France.

"We'll have to wait until next week but there is no reason to contemplate that (breach) now," Mr. Trudeau said.

Mr. Pearson added, "I think it will work out all right—I hope it will."

'Must Update Constitution Now'

MONTREAL (CP) — Unless Ottawa and the provinces sit down and update the constitution now, "negotiable incidents like the Gabon-Paris educational conference could destroy this country," Heward Grafftey, Conservative MP for Brome-Missisquoi, said Wednesday.

"That (Gabon-Paris-Quebec) dispute has done it; it's the straw that broke the camel's back," he said of the conference, to which Quebec, and not Canada, was given the invitation.

Mr. Grafftey said in an interview that two recent conferences on the constitution have yielded no practical solutions to the problems of national unity.

What is needed, he said, is the immediate application of bilingual rights across Canada, a redistribution of federal-provincial powers and better consultative procedures between the two levels of government.

Mr. Grafftey said the lack of goodwill and co-operation between Ottawa and Quebec has given French President Charles de Gaulle an opportunity to meddle in Canadian affairs.

. . . JOHNSON

some of the Asian leaders have been making it plain they do not want to be bypassed in any peace negotiations. Some have also voiced misgivings Johnson may be too soft toward the Communists with his peace bids.

Johnson reassured Park on this score during an eight-hour session much of which featured talks by the two with no one but interpreters present.

Park publicly endorsed Johnson's reduction of bombing of North Vietnam and other efforts —still unsucceesful—to get talks with Hanoi under way.

On Vietnam, the joint statement said:

—"Coupled with continued resolution and military firmness," the common goal of an honorable and secure peace requires "the earnest pursuit of a diplomatic solution"—and they hope "serious talks on the substance of peace could begin in the near future."

—Johnson reviewed developments over the last fortnight since his bombing curtailment to encourage peace contacts and Park "expressed his satisfaction with these developments."

—Johnson reviewed the position that American envoys would take in direct contacts with North Vietnamese representatives.

On Korea, the two said:

—"Further aggressive actions by the North Korean Communists would constitute a most grave threat to peace."

—Johnson "reaffirmed the readiness and determination of the United States to render prompt and effective assistance to repel armed attacks against the Republic of Korea."

—The two presidents agreed on the need for strengthening South Korea's security through modernizing her armed forces and bolstering her counter-infiltration programs.

Johnson has already earmarked an extra $100,000,000 in U.S. military assistance to South Korea in addition to the approximately $160,000,000 previously scheduled for this year.

Kiss Reward Of Politics —Stanfield

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield says the pressures of being prime minister have aged Pierre Elliot Trudeau, newly-elected Liberal leader, even before he has taken office.

Mr. Stanfield was referring at a news conference Wednesday to a Quebec superior court birth record which shows Mr. Trudeau to be two years older than the age of 46 claimed during his leadership campaign.

Asked to comment on the report that Mr. Trudeau bestowed a passionate kiss on a 17-year-old blonde admirer, Mr. Stanfield said:

"What are you trying to do? Take away one of the few pleasures left party leaders?"

Mr. Stanfield, on a swing that takes him to Prince George today and then to Whitehorse, Y.T., said his Tories don't plan to get tough with Mr. Trudeau when Parliament resumes next week.

NOT FOR BLOOD

"We aren't out to draw blood," Mr. Stanfield said. "we will oppose only the legislation that we feel is bad."

Asked to comment on the possibility of a federal election this year, Mr. Stanfield replied: "This decision seems on the mostly up to the government — and even if defeated on a vote they would probably demand a replay as they did not long ago."

Mr. Stanfield also promised to demand a full explanation for the government's renewal of the NORAD agreement when Parliament reconvenes Monday.

He said the government must "frankly state the degree to which Canada will be consulted in important matters of NORAD policy."

. . . TEACHERS

Mr. Buzza, of Burnaby, who leaves the presidency July 1, was replying earlier to a statement by Education Minister Peterson that the government would take action if any teacher campaign became political.

"Our objectives are educational, not political," Mr. Buzza said. "Let there be no mistake about that."

The federation convention has approved a $3-a-head levy for the 19,000 teachers in the province to mount its campaign against new financing which they say will restrict school construction.

FRENCH BACKED

In other business, the delegates endorsed a motion calling for the use of the French language in schools where a French-speaking majority warrants such instruction.

The education department is to be asked to act on the resolution to approve teaching of all subjects in the French language in certain schools.

Dave MacDonald, a Vancouver delegate, moved an amendment that provision also be made for teaching in German, Italian and Chinese "because there are more of each of them than of French in B.C."

Mr. Buzza ruled the amendment out of order as in opposition to the original motion.

The convention ends today when delegates are expected to debate limitation of class sizes and teacher duties.

It quotes Mr. Robichaud as telling one of its reporters Wednesday night that it is very possible New Brunswick will be represented at the Paris conference.

House Arrest Defied By Ex-Greek Premier

ATHENS (AP) — Former premier George Papandreou defied house arrest Wednesday and smuggled out an appeal for international political and economic isolation of Greece's military dictatorship.

The statement from the 80-year-old leftist leader said "solidarity and support" from nations of the "free world" would lead to the immediate overthrow of the junta that seized power in a coup April 27, 1967.

Papandreou and former premier Panayiotis Canellopoulos were placed under house arrest Monday in an attempt to prevent them from issuing statements in connection with the first anniversary of the coup.

He accused the regime of abolishing freedom of the press, freedom of speech and freedom of assembly. He said the coup leaders have so far failed to justify their claim that a Communist revolution was to be launched during the elections scheduled for May 28, 1967, elections which Papandreou's Centre Union had been expected to win.

"The Communist danger was manufactured and the coup undertaken only to prevent our electoral victory," Papandreou said.

CLASHES WITH KING

Papandreou was premier from February, 1964, to July, 1965. He was forced out by King Constantine in a struggle over control of the armed forces. The old man was held under house arrest from the coup until last October.

Canellopoulos, leader of Greece's biggest conservative party, was the caretaker premier in charge of the election preparations at the time of the coup.

Meanwhile, other political arrests were reported, and the government passed the word that any attempt to create a disturbance would be dealt with swiftly.

Jobless Rate Up Slightly During March

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's unemployment rate remained at 6.4 per cent of the labor force in March as the number of persons out of work increased slightly to 488,000 from 482,000 in February.

A year ago, mid-March unemployment stood at 400,000 or 5.3 per cent of the labor force.

When the rate is adjusted to eliminate the influence of seasonal patterns, the unemployment ratio was 4.7 per cent in March. This was up from 4.5 per cent in February and 3.9 per cent in March, 1967.

A joint report by the manpower department and Bureau of Statistics said today that both the labor force and the number of new jobs in the economy grew more slowly than usual in March.

SHOWS 13,000 INCREASE

In the survey period—the third week of the month—total employment was 7,120,000, up 13,000 from February.

There were 26,000 new farm jobs, and 23,000 new jobs in trade, but in forestry and services employment declined by 32,000.

The Manpower—DBS estimates are based on a survey of 35,000 households. They do not include students and housewives who have not sought outside work, persons too old or unable to work, and the voluntarily idle or retired.

UNEMPLOYMENT STEADY

Unemployment rates by region varied considerably. The Atlantic provinces experienced 10.8-per-cent unemployment, about steady with previous winter months.

The rate in Quebec was 8.8 per cent, in Ontario 4.7 per cent, on the Prairies four per cent and in British Columbia 6.6 per cent.

The unadjusted jobless rate was the highest since March, 1964. The adjusted rate of 4.7 per cent was touched twice late last year.

The number of jobs held in March was 31,000 higher than a year earlier. The change was more than accounted for by the women in the work force, whose numbers increased by 45,000 during the year while the number of men at work declined 14,000.

A 'Place' for LBJ If He Settles War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many U.S. newspaper editors think history will judge Lyndon B. Johnson as a good president and, if he succeeds in settling the Vietnam war, perhaps even a great one.

These editors say Johnson's place in history will hinge largely on what happens in the coming final months of his administration.

The opinions were expressed in a random poll of 60 editors at the American Society of Newspaper Editors' 1968 convention, which opened Wednesday.

"Inevitably he'll be a good president," said Frank Angelo, managing editor of the Detroit Free Press. "The measure of greatness will be the perspective of history on Vietnam."

"If he settled the Vietnam war, it will judge him extremely well," said J. Edward Murray, managing editor of the Arizona Republic. "If not, mediocre."

One-third of the editors asked said it was too early to tell, particularly while Johnson is sill seeking peace in Vietnam.

Of the 40 who expressed opinions, 24 predicted history would look quite favorably upon Johnson. Eleven foresaw mixed or average ratings. Five listed the president as below average.

"I think he's been a good president," said Cy King, executive editor of the Buffalo Courier-Express. "I think he's had a rather incredible string of untoward events, including the Vietnam war which he inherited."

"In the domestic field he's done many things that will become part of our permanent social setup," said Vermont Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal. "Only history will prove whether he's been right in Vietnam, but he's been resolute, and I think that required courage on his part."

William B. Smart, editor of the editorial page of Salt Lake City's Desert News, said history will find Johnson a poor president of domestic matters, particularly the economy, and obvious failures in foreign policy."

Robert J. Leeney, executive editor of the New Haven Register, said, "I think he'll turn out to be middle-ground president who had integrity enough to step back when circumstances closed in on him."

Murder Friends

NEW YORK (AP)—Murderers in New York turn out to be a friend or relative more than seven times in 10, city police statistics show. Out of 746 murders in the city last year — up 14.1 per cent — the killer was a member of the family 140 times, a common-law spouse 32 times, a boyfriend or girlfriend 50 times and a friend or acquaintance 321 times. Murders were pinned on strangers in only 203 cases.

REMOVE RUSK —McCARTHY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Senator Eugene J. McCarthy has called for removal of Dean Rusk as U.S. state secretary as a sign of U.S. willingness to change course on the Vietnam war.

The Minnesota senator, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, said he would be satisfied if President Johnson replaced Rusk with someone from inside the administration who has had a part in current war policy.

"Anyone who hasn't been so closely identified as Rusk," McCarthy said in an interview.

McCarthy criticized the way the Johnson administration is handling the current peace effort.

"We must view negotiations not as the continuation of war by other means but rather as a process of joint conciliation designed to end human suffering ing crowd of more than 4,000 on both sides," he told a cheer-persons at a Wednesday night rally.

"In view of Secretary Rusk's commitment to our policy from its outset, an encouraging sign of the administration's willingness to change its course would, I think, be his replacement as secretary of state."

McCarthy meets Senator Robert Kennedy in the Indiana primary May 7 in a test of public popularity for the two Democratic presidential hopefuls.

Legality Of Viet War 'Irrelevant'

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock and four co-defendants charged with counselling young men to evade the U.S. draft were told today they could not question the legality of the Vietnam war in seeking to have the charges dismissed.

"The legality of the Vietnam war is not a relevant issue in this case," Judge Francis J. W. Ford said at a pre-trial hearing in U.S. district court.

With the 64-year-old pediatrician in the courtroom were two other defendants, William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43, Yale University chaplain; and Mitchell Goodman, 44, of New York City and Temple, Me.

Not present were defendants Michael Ferber, 23, of Boston, a Harvard graduate student; and Marcus Raskin, 33, of Washington, co-director of the institute for Policy Studies.

Because of the numerous motions for dismissal filed by lawyers for the five, Judge Ford set time limits on their arguments.

Politics and the Schools

EDUCATION MINISTER LESLIE Peterson has indicated the political defence for the political threat of a $57,000 B.C. Teachers' Federation campaign against the government's recent amendments to the school act. His statement that "we could not compel every teacher to join a federation which used part of its dues money for political purposes", means one thing only: the possible lifting by the government of present regulations which make membership in the federation compulsory for all who wish to to teach in the provincial system. That would be the end of "closed shop" advantages.

The minister's response will do little to relieve the concern felt by teachers over changes in the act which give the government greater control over administration of the schools, at the expense of school boards, and place more firmly in the minister's hands the reins of school financing in relation to operating expenses. Still less will it diminish the federation's wariness of a government which one member called "anti-educational."

But both sides should make very sure that the interests of education in this province do not suffer from any political battles waged by those most closely involved in its administration. There should be no losing sight of the real goal, which is that the youth of this province must have the best education we can reasonably provide. That is a vital key to existence in this final phase of the twentieth century.

The teachers have a distrust of the government, but their own position is not invulnerable. While they are anxious to promote and develop a system most advantageous to their pupils, they also have interests of their own.

As members of the profession they naturally desire to preserve their strength for negotiations on such matters as working conditions and salaries. It is logical for them to assume that they can be more effectively persuasive against individual groups of trustees than against the government. Tighter government control over school expenditure restricts the elbow room of trustees in such negotiations, with a corresponding limitation of the concessions which can be made to teachers.

The protest of the federation does not take into consideration some elements in the school act amendments which could, under certain circumstances, be beneficial. If the government, through the minister, established a "basic program" of very high standard, students would not suffer and school boards could provide reasonable extras within the allowable 10 per cent excess above basic costs.

The provision permitting the school boards to seek approval from the municipalities, the ratepayers, or in emergencies, from the cabinet, for expenditures above the additional 10 per cent does not close the door to improvements beyond the basic program. Ratepayers should have the right to decide what they will pay in cases where a school board might be extravagant.

The nature of the legislation as it is, however, provides no definite assurance that standards will be raised, that educational opportunity will be graded upward instead of levelling off at mediocrity. From this point of view the teachers' protest is understandable. They are familiar with the "brains or blacktop" argument and have not been encouraged by its outcome in recent years. But perhaps the wisest course in the present circumstances is to see how the new legislative provisions work out.

On Parliament Hill

THE DIFFERENCE IN THE significance of the Conservative leadership convention and that of the Liberal Party has been very clear during the last few days. Mr. Stanfield, the winner of the former, had chiefly his own position in the new federal environment to worry about as he settled into the duties of opposition leader. But Mr. Trudeau, the Liberal winner, was plunged immediately into vital decisions of national importance.

First among these were cabinet appointments, to be made with personal and party considerations in mind as well as the needs of the country. And the very day of his taking office next Monday will see the new Prime Minister faced with a sticky problem in the matter of Quebec representation at the Paris educational conference and its significance for relations between France and Canada.

The wonder is that so vast a transference of political power as the change in the prime ministership implies can be made so easily—almost casually. Few elected offices in the world carry the personal power that resides in our government head, and the selection is done by a very small handful of party delegates without regard to the nation at large. The latter has its chance when, inevitably, the government leader must go to the country, voluntarily or through parliamentary defeat. And it is this major event which also engages the serious attention of Mr. Trudeau as he assesses the advantages of postponing an election call or announcing one almost immediately.

As never before, Canada now waits to see what its new leader will do, for Mr. Trudeau represents a choice that is hard to explain within the traditional concept of the cautious Canadian character. What really remains to be discovered is whether the changing tempo of the world has reached the Canadian pulse and conditioned Canadians to accept a new political prototype, or whether the break-away gesture of the Liberal convention will be rejected by the country at large.

That is a large question mark to carry into the government front benches, though Mr. Trudeau appears to be confident that he can handle it. But there is much more on trial than a man in the present situation: the basic nature of the country is also under test. There could be surprises all round.

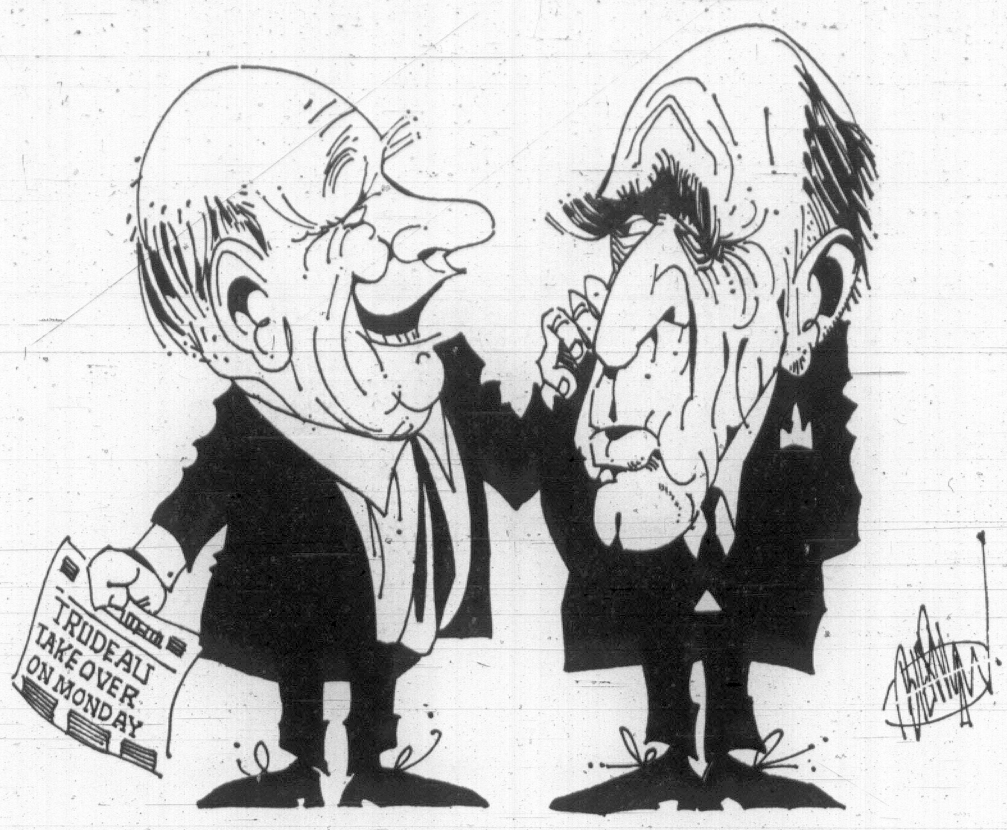

Easing the Trailer Park Demand

THE ENTERPRISE OF A BRITish Columbia company involved in creating trailer parks of high standards for tourists deserves general commendation.

This is a development which should increase the amenities of the province for a particular type of visitor—the one who brings his own home-on-wheels with him and who wants appropriate facilities. In addition to choosing sites close to attractive areas, the company furnishes them with sewer connections, electricity and water, a recreation hall, a laundromat and a washroom for a modest fee.

Development of such facilities in the province will serve a double purpose. In the first instance it will provide what a specialized type of visitor wants. In the second it will free the provincial parks branch from demands for such facilities and allow it to proceed with the development of parks better suited to sleep-out, and relatively short-run, camping needs.

There is a place for high-grade trailer parks in British Columbia, but they should not cut into the resources of the parks branch to a point where other types of campers are deprived of less sophisticated services. At this stage of parks programming, private interests are serving a useful purpose in meeting the specialized need.

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Mr. Hamilton Ignores the Authorities

IN his television address last week Mr. Alvin Hamilton developed in remarkably vague fashion an argument for selectivity in employing monetary and fiscal policies to redress regional disparities in Canada. Such an approach has been hinted at by other public figures in recent weeks, and, given the credit conditions now prevailing in the country, this is not surprising. For it can easily be shown that unemployment is much higher in some regions than in others and that the restraints necessary to curb inflation in growth areas are ill-suited to the requirements of others where conditions are slack.

Western

But what is the practical alternative? Mr. Hamilton did not go beyond generalities and these are of no use. How can monetary policy be made selective so that it is possible to fight inflation in Toronto while stimulating growth in Halifax through an easy money policy? No politician has yet provided persuasive answers to these questions.

There is wide agreement that monetary policy should be reinforced by fiscal policy. In the past the tendency has been to rely too heavily on monetary policy and this is one reason offered for our inadequate economic performance. But although the two sets of policy are generally linked in public discussion, it does not follow that they are alike.

Fiscal policy can and does discriminate. For example, luxury goods, such as tobacco and liquor, are taxed at very high rates. Since the early days of Confederation, special incentives have been offered to promote development in the national interest. There may very well be a case, as Mr. John Turner has suggested, for granting special tax treatment to people who are willing to sacrifice the amenities of the south in order to work in the north. The Russians do so and, considering the importance of the north for our future, we might be wise to emulate them in this respect.

But monetary policy is different; a fact recognized by various inquiries in recent years. Thus the Porter Royal Commission on banking and finance had this to say on the subject:

Difficulties of Difference

"In devising policies appropriate for the country as a whole, the authorities will also have to take account of regional problems. Seasonally adjusted unemployment rates in November 1963, for example, were 9.5 per cent in the Atlantic region, 7.2 per cent in Quebec and 6½ per cent in British Columbia, compared to 3.6 per cent in Ontario and 3.1 per cent on the Prairies. The extent to which both regional and seasonal pockets of unemployment can be eradicated will clearly play an important role in determining how successful we are in attaining full employment levels on a national basis. In this endeavour, general fiscal and monetary measures have little part to play beyond maintaining an appropriate broad level of demand. Federal taxes and services cannot easily be different in different parts of the country, nor is it possible to conceive of a meaningful regional monetary policy given the essential unity of capital markets and the readiness of capital to flow to the centre offering the best return . . . ."

It is to be noted here that regional monetary policy is not rejected because it might be difficult or have offsetting disadvantages; it is ruled out as inconceivable. Nothing could be more emphatic.

The commission did suggest regional development funds in areas where high interest rates were the obstacles. This technique, involving subsidization, is being used now. But the report added: "we did not find significant evidence that an inability to obtain capital was the basic difficulty in regions of the country characterized by high unemployment."

In a speech at Kingston last August, Mr. Rasminsky, the governor of the Bank of Canada, recognized the uneven impact of tight credit conditions on different groups and sectors of the economy. He continued:

Rasminsky's Opinion

"The regional problem is a very real one. It is not possible to have credit conditions tight in the economy as a whole without having them relatively tight in each region, including those where economic activity may be increasing more slowly than the national average. In a country like Canada, which stretches across 4,000 miles and is made up of various economic regions with different economic characteristics and different economic problems, there are bound to be times when the appropriate national monetary policy is not entirely suited to each region. The fact that monetary policy is subject to these limitations . . . means that, if our economic goals are to be achieved, a good deal of reliance must be placed on the other economic policies, including policies which are pinpointed to particular situations that can be combined with monetary policy."

Economic Council Proposal

For some years the Economic Council of Canada has been considering — and it still is considering — this problem of regional disparities. In its second annual review, it devoted a long chapter to the subject and in summary listed six conclusions and recommendations. Nowhere did it suggest that monetary policy could be regionalized. But the last recommendation pointed in exactly the opposite direction.

"The avoidance of self-defeating restrictive and divisive measures which interfere with the free flow of goods, capital, labor and enterprise between all the provinces. Such measures must be avoided if we are to achieve simultaneously the twin goals of more satisfactory growth in every region and a rapid expansion of the national economy from which all would benefit."

Thus the weight of expert evidence against Mr. Hamilton is truly formidable. The Conservative caucus should have another, and sceptical, look at its outline of studies.

Letters

NORAD Waste

Voice of Women notes that renewal of the NORAD agreement by the Liberal government was made on March 29 without benefit of parliamentary discussion in the House of Commons instead being decided by the Cabinet, and Parliament merely informed of the action taken.

In the face of the financial difficulties that have disturbed this nation and the entire western world in recent months, Canada has opted to continue the yearly waste of $200,000,000 on this outdated military alliance.

A more independent and imaginative approach to the question of military alliances and their effect upon foreign policy is required from the Canadian government. The only way to stop the folly and waste involved in the arms race is to stop participating in it and to develop other methods of promoting the national safety.—Mrs. Muriel Duckworth, National President, Voice of Women, 6250 South Street, Halifax, N.S.

Small Minority

Mr. Brereton, our local Humanist said (Times Apr. 6) that the use of the word God "reduces the value" of the Canadian National Anthem. He said "for thousands of Humanists, Indians, Eskimos, Buddhists and Hindus . . . it introduces a completely alien idea."

The Humanists must have had a pretty good membership drive since December when it was reported that they had 50 people in the 150,000 of Victoria (0.03 per cent), 230 in the 2 millions of Montreal (0.01 per cent), and 90 in the 2 millions of Toronto (0.004 per cent). The other minorities all recognize some form of supernatural being which we call God.

It seems that the only opposing "micronity" is the Humanist group which, for its size, is quite noisy indeed.—Geza Benko, 1722 Bank.

He Was There

In answer to a remark attributed to Social Credit B.C. President George Driediger about the Liberal leadership convention in Ottawa:

Mr. Driediger is either quoting hearsay or emulating his boss in snide remarks against the Liberals and the Liberal delegates.

May I point out the number of spoiled ballots were quite below what might have been expected in a first-time machine-voting system. The number grew less as the voting progressed. As for the insinuation that all or most of the voters were half-intoxicated, that implication is without foundation.

As a delegate, in the convention hall for the full voting period, sitting just a few rows above the floor, I saw no signs of what Mr. Driediger would like to imply.

Further to that, a French cab driver with 25 years driving in Ottawa, told a fellow delegate and myself that this was the most orderly convention he had ever driven for.

The only criticism in my own mind is that there might be a less cumbersome and expensive way of choosing a party leader. — Len Skelton, 4068 Grange Road.

FROM WASHINGTON — By CHARLES BARTLETT

China Poses a Riddle in Negotiations

SO precious little is known about what is really in the minds of the men who rule Red China that assessments of Peking's potential to deter negotiations on the war in Vietnam are almost meaningless. Multiple signs of a flourishing state of anarchy in many Chinese provinces supply one reassurance that the big nation could not at this moment contemplate any elaborate foreign adventure. More subtle signs of an unresolved power struggle in Peking make the same point.

Bartlett

However the familiar Chinese view that the war must go on was firmly and publicly restated at a curious observance called "Anti-U.S. Day" in Peking on March 18. Possibly staged to rally the Viet Cong against the temptation to negotiate, the affair featured a speech by Premier Chou En-Lai, who stressed his belief that they can win final victory.

Chou cited the duty of the Viet Cong to demonstrate that the United States is a paper tiger as an inspiration to the "oppressed people" now waging revolutionary struggles in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. He condemned the Soviets for plotting with the United States to end the war.

An even sterner note was struck by Red Guard representatives who declared themselves ready, as soon as Chairman Mao gives the word, to fight shoulder to shoulder with the Vietnamese. The visiting Viet Cong were moved by the flow of oratory to promise that they will win "still greater" victories.

No one knows how much leverage Peking still has in Hanoi. The urgencies of the past two years have fused the split in the Politburo between the pro-Chinese and pro-Russian factions into a concentrated courtship of goodwill and supplies from all Communist countries.

The North Vietnamese turned a deaf ear to the Cultural Revolution's theme that opposition to American imperialism requires opposition to Soviet revisionism. They were clearly dismayed by the Red Guard rampage, which left a chaotic situation on their borders.

China's external influence would seem to be limited by the awesome dimensions of her internal class struggle so long as the chaos exists. And there is no sign that it is abating. In fact some cities are being shelled by artillery in the persisting struggle between the old party cadres and Red Guard insurgents for control of the local government.

Primary schools are open, but the teachers still balk at facing their truculent students in the middle level schools which have been closed for 18 months. City dwellers are restless and they go at will on strikes and holidays.

Power Struggle Crisis

Some believe that the long, shadowy power struggle has reached its critical phase. Mao is still on the scene and his rabble-rousing wife and friends still stir the ferment in the provinces. Outsiders cannot fathom Chou's complex loyalties but he is plainly the man most trusted by Mao, the intellectuals, and the army.

Chou is a seasoned and flexible specialist in the rhythm of revolutions. His favorite proverb is said to be: "no destruction, no construction" and he is presumed now to be seeking ways to fashion a new China from the ashes of the Cultural Revolution. This is a highly intricate task in a volatile political climate.

A clue to his progress came recently in the replacement of three high officials, all named during the revolution's radical phase. The new appointee as acting Army Chief of Staff, Huang Yung-sheng, was bitterly denounced by the Red Guards last fall because he set out to restore order to the Canton region.

These changes are the first hints since November that the balance of power is moving into less doctrinaire hands. However, the slowness with which the post-revolution leadership is taking shape is a clue to the difficulty of restoring cohesion to a society which has been stirred against itself.

Mao has had his revolution but it could mean that he will not have his dream of a long war in Southeast Asia.

MARKED for READING

SYMBOLIC

The beauty of the symbol in literature, when successful, is that it can be tied down to no one single meaning; its richness and its continuing life lie in its ambiguity. Some could have as many reasonable and acceptable interpretations of the chase in Moby Dick, the confrontation and the destruction of Ahab as there are readers of the novel. It has been described as the best handbook on whaling ever written. That is true. It is also the best tragic epic of modern times. And its power derives from the fact that these two aspects of it cannot be separated.

The powerful men who guide the destiny of the United States in a search for peace in Vietnam—or who could abandon the search—are shown at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Maryland. Left to right, seated, they are Presidential Adviser Walt Whitman Rostow, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford, Ambassador to South Vietnam Ellsworth Bunker, President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and General Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

WASHINGTON—President John F. Kennedy occasionally used to recall the ancient Chinese proverb: "A journey of a thousand miles must begin with a single step."

Despite many years of bitter hostility, the United States and the Communists of Vietnam today are poised to take that first important step. But the distance that both must travel to close the gap between them is very great and the road is strewn with dangerous pitfalls.

The way for making a start on the long journey ahead was cleared by the yielding from previously intractable positions on the part of both sides.

President Lyndon Johnson took the first initiative by announcing a decision on March 31 to restrict U.S. bombardment of the North despite the absence of reciprocal de-escalation by the Communists, which he had been demanding as a quid pro quo for such a move.

The gesture took on immensely greater significance because it was coupled with his announcement that he would not seek re-election this fall, thereby reducing the suspicion that he was merely engaged in a manoeuvre for domestic political purposes.

Astonished

To the astonishment of most observers, including administration officials, Hanoi responded with an offer to enter into discussions with the United States about cessation of all hostile activities against its territory, to be followed by actual peace negotiations once this had been done.

This represented a major retreat from its previous unyielding refusal to hold discussions of any kind with U.S. authorities so long as North Vietnam was under attack, a retreat that was made all the more notable after it developed that Mr. Johnson's restriction still permitted bombing as much as 225 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

Despite Mr. Johnson's repeated assurances in the past that he was prepared to have representatives of his administration go anywhere at any time to discuss any aspect of the Vietnam situation with North Vietnamese officials, Washington received Hanoi's offer to talk with deep distrust, apparently fearful that it was in danger of being led into a trap of its own making.

Suspicious

"The administration is eager to talk to North Vietnam about Hanoi's latest peace proposals, but it is frankly suspicious that it is merely being invited to talk about ending the war on the enemy's terms," New York Times columnist James Reston reported.

The reaction of the administration only served to underline the yawning gulf that separates the United States and Communist authorities, for the North Vietnamese and their allies in the South have had equally good reason to suspect that they are being invited to talks about ending the war on U.S. and South Vietnamese terms.

As The New Republic magazine observed recently, Mr. Johnson's repeated professions about his desire for peace in Vietnam tend to be irrelevant. "For what is in dispute is not the president's desire for peace, but the terms on which he is willing to settle," the magazine said in an editorial. "His asking price for an end to the fighting has been, and is, capitulation by Hanoi and victory for 'our' Vietnamese, a price higher than Hanoi will pay."

In his announcement last month of the restriction in the bombing of the North, Mr. Johnson warned that the United States would not accept any "fake solutions to this long and arduous struggle and call it peace." To date, however, the administration has provided little indication it is prepared to settle for any solution short of the kind of victory that would eliminate the military and political power of the Communists in South Vietnam.

For its part, the South Vietnamese government has insisted that it would reject almost any concession to the Communists, other than perhaps a willingness to accept into the fold present members of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, who rejected their allegiance to that organization.

Writing in the current issue of Foreign Affairs magazine, Chester L. Cooper, a former White House aide and advisor on Vietnam negotiating questions, who is now a director of the Institute for Defence Analyses, maintained that the United States and its allies had the skill and leverage to work out a satisfactory settlement.

The essential condition, however, was that "we are, in fact, talking about a negotiation and not a surrender ceremony, and provided, too, that Hanoi is willing to engage in serious discussions."

While he dealt at length with the complexities of negotiations, Mr. Cooper unfortunately did not indicate clearly what he considered might provide even a framework for a political settlement.

Based on Geneva

In his own address on March 31, Mr. Johnson did suggest that "peace can be based on the Geneva accords of 1954, under political conditions that permit the South Vietnamese — all the South Vietnamese — to chart their course free of any outside domination or interference."

Mr. Cooper agreed in his article that certain of the principles of the 1954 Geneva accords would still be acceptable today, although the policing and supervisory mechanism would have to be strengthened.

"There are certain provisions, such as those dealing with amnesty, the sanctity of the DMZ (demilitarized zone), the integrity of the two national entities, and elections leading toward eventual unification, which are still applicable," he wrote.

Although Mr. Johnson and Mr. Cooper refer to the Geneva accords as a possible basis for a new peace, it is clear that what Mr. Johnson suggests, if not Mr. Cooper as well, bears almost no relation to that agreement.

The essence of the Geneva accords was that Vietnam was to be considered one country, not two national entities as Mr. Cooper asserted and Mr. Johnson implied. The withdrawal of the two opposing Vietnamese forces to either side of a temporary ceasefire line was to be followed within two years by the election of a national government for the whole of Vietnam.

This is a fact that is as clear as the English language can make it, although the United States has persisted in attempting to distort the interpretation which even it originally accepted in a State Department white paper a few years ago.

Now the official administration line is that what the accords provided for was only the election of national governments in North and South Vietnam, which subsequently could discuss the question of unification of their countries as they chose.

Within the United States there has been a growing chorus of voices urging that a peaceful settlement of the conflict be sought on the basis of a coalition within the government that provided significant representation for the National Liberation Front, which today is the effective government in a substantial part of South Vietnam.

No Coalition

The very thought of a coalition government makes the present South Vietnamese authorities shudder, however. Nor are they alone. The United States and all the other allied countries involved in the war also adamantly reject such a solution.

But so far none of them has come up with any indicated political settlement that would begin to provide a practical basis for even starting negotiations with the North Vietnamese.

Despite all the emphasis from Washington on the desirability of peace talks, it still remains highly questionable whether the United States, let alone South Vietnam, has anything of any substance to talk to North Vietnam about.

Liberals May Find Turner Handy Man for the Future

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

Some months ago one of us chatted with John Turner about rivals in the leadership race. It came to Pierre Elliott Trudeau. His summation was vivid, and will surprise those who see Turner himself as a much-advantaged lad.

Fisher

It went like this: Trudeau has had several inestimable advantages which, taken together, make him unique and potent in politics. Firstly, he has no hostages to fortune in wife and children, even to neighborhood, to community.

Secondly, he grew up in a home where bilingualism was taken for granted and where his intellectual precocity was early recognized and given play.

Thirdly, he's never had to worry about money, either about the lack of it or about the burden of having to manage too much of it.

Crowe

Consequently, John Turner believed Mr. Trudeau had a rare kind of absolute individual freedom from normal concerns. No need to prove himself. No need to make his way. No fretting whether his actions might harm his career. And he used this freedom and confidence to travel, kibitz, play, think, write, study, experiment — to get a kind of liberal education and a personal detachment possible to few men in any age.

Many would see a mirror image here from Turner to Trudeau. Certainly, the view of Turner which the public has had is "born with a silver spoon" — looks, physique, brains, money, and Princess Margaret.

Turner looks backward to his childhood with a different judgment. He sees it in terms of struggle, perseverance, proving himself, pushing, driving, always rather haunted by a lack of confidence, a wonder about himself — could he make it?

It's no mystery. Turner is less sure of himself than Trudeau, more highly-strung, a "quarterhorse," almost febrile in energy and twitch.

We've been pushing hard here and perhaps too analytically, partly to put the new leader into a comparative frame but more to set up an appreciation of what may well be a major tension within the Liberal Party in the next few years.

Repeatedly since he came into politics Turner has proclaimed himself a pragmatist. Since this can, by definition and usage, be an invidious label, Turner must not mean one who is over-busy in affairs of state and thus a man without plan or theory or perspective.

★ ★ ★

He means a man less or little concerned with an overarching system of ideas or ideology and determined to be practical and useful in an ad hoc, unemotional process.

It was most interesting that Pierre Elliott Trudeau, post-elevation, gave us some of his own views of himself. "Essentially," he said, "I'm a pragmatist."

There's one good reason (perhaps excuse is a better word) why a young politician, like Turner and Trudeau, vouches himself a pragmatist.

His elders are less likely to consider him dangerous. There's that tendency of the older and more experienced to become less idealistic and cynical about idealism and radical undertakings.

An idealist brings a synoptic view and some principles to political action. Usually, his view is global, and, at the least, national in scope. His belief is often doctrinaire or systematic, stemming from theoretical foundations, say in Marxism or Christianity or from a belief in the tribal or national group. He couches his ideals in emotion and feeling, as well as in axioms.

Now: Remember John Turner proclaiming, "I am a Canadian nationalist" to the convention. Remmber his vibrant talk of "heart" and "guts."

Remember his emphasis on youth and drive and determination and change. These are preconceptions of the idealist: At the least, they are not the words of the thoroughgoing pragmatist. The pragmatist is a pretty static guy.

He's neither trying to convert anyone to a set of ideas nor wishing to imbue them with any deep emotions.

Cool it, man. The irony of the pragmatist is that he has no real function in most political situations unless he is set between two contrary or contending set of set of ideals. For example, a pragmatist has no set approach to a nationalistic problem such as the enormous and continuing American investment in Canada. This is either the worry of Canadian nationalists (e.g. John Turner) or a right and encourageable course for those who believe in continentalism.

It seems to us that the consistency of the leadership campaign went to Trudeau. He was just what he said he was, a pragmatist. We are left with a man for whom the dead centre, perfect equilibrium, is correct — for the individual, for society, for government. The exercise of power is only needed in order to get back to balance.

Mr. Turner sloughed off his pragmatism more and more as the campaign developed. By the last nights, Friday in his speech, Saturday in staying on the ballot to the end, he was out on a limb, much more alone than any of his Cabinet colleagues.

If he keeps to this posture and these determinations in the months ahead with any consistency, and if he does it with some care, he will be an alternative, another pole, a rival while working as a colleague of Mr. Trudeau in the government. If — and it is possible — someone has to pick up the pieces from Trudeau failure in a few years, Mr. Turner will be right handy.

GALBRAITH AS NOVELIST

By WILLIAM WALTON

A review of "The Triumph" by John Kenneth Galbraith (Houghton, Mifflin). Mr. Walton is chairman of the U.S. federal Commission of Fine Arts.

Keeping up with John Kenneth Galbraith is a mind-blasting business. He is, among other things, an economist, Harvard professor, sometime ambassador, adviser to presidents and aspirant-presidents, essayist, political activist, tireless lecturer, ballroom dancer and much-quoted wit.

And now with the publication of "The Triumph" he asks consideration as a novelist.

Such diverse activities seem almost too much for one man. But Dr. Galbraith, whose typewriter is as trenchant as it is busy, brings off these myriad activities with a style sufficient to disarm all but his ideological critics who are, I suppose, legion. The style, ironic and satiric, clothes ideas which are often grave and nearly always entertaining.

No wonder, then, that his books — "The Affluent Society," "The Scotch" and "The New Industrial State" — follow one another on the best seller charts. And now "The Triumph" is likely to have an even longer run because Galbraith acts out his ideas in an inventive plot and counterplot which are comic and too, too true to the realities of the U.S. State Department.

He has invented a Central American republic with the salubrious climate of British Honduras, the political freedom of Nicaragua and the stability of the Dominican Republic. Galbraith's state is called Puerto Santos, ruled by a president-general, Luis Miguel Martinez, no more corrupt than many real-life figures who are propped up by American aid dollars.

Pethwick, the American ambassador accredited to Martinez, is a character so richly comic that he may well enter our language the way Scrooge, Pecksniff and Uriah Heep did.

If you hear a State Department man referring to a colleague as a Pethwick he means a small-minded bureaucrat whose ineptitude is outweighed only by the tenacity with which he protects his career status.

●

In the Galbraithian order of things a Pethwick who fouls up in Puerto Santos is certain to be kicked upstairs to an embassy in either Portugal or New Zealand, so strong is the foreign service's protective association.

Pethwick may be a clown but his superior, Worth Campbell, assistant secretary of state, is a mordant creation who symbolizes all Galbraith detests in the real State Department. A stuffed shirt, to be sure, but one so well versed in connivery, manipulation and the ways of shaping power that he snatches victory from defeat in Puerto Santos. Or is it the other way around?

In any event, at the close of "The Triumph" Worth Campbell is moving up to be under secretary and it is typical Galbraithian irony that no matter if American policy failed, the bureaucratic fabricator of that policy emerges triumphant.

●

The policy-making process, as practised by the State Department, White House, CIA, Defence Department and other agencies, is the true theme of Galbraith's novel. The White House scene climaxing Worth Campbell's connivery is the richest in the book, rich both in insight and significance. Galbraith's scalpel has uncovered more about policy-making than many a congressional investigation.

Perhaps the plot creaks a bit. Girls are almost totally absent and so are emotions. Still, "The Triumph" remains an eminently readable and enjoyable exercise in mirroring Washington rather than Puerto Santos.

Curiously, Washington has never been the setting for a really first-rate novel. Still the best, by all odds, is the short novel "Democracy," which Henry Adams first published anonymously in 1880. A measure of its remarkable quality is the fact that it continues to sell to this day, now in paperback editions, after 88 years.

The Prolific Garden Slug Accidental European Import

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Where do slugs come from? A few weeks ago I removed 123 from my garden at one time but they seem to be as numerous as ever. How do they breed?—A.C.

Like a number of garden pests slugs are imports, having been accidentally brought into this country years ago from Europe. As they are capable of living for prolonged periods of time in damp surroundings they are rather easily transported in clumps of soil clinging to roots of shrubs or other plants being moved from one place to another. Undoubtedly they arrived on this continent by this means long before an efficient plant inspection service was set up.

Carl

Now they are pretty well spread and well established wherever horticulture is carried on particularly in coastal settlements where the winter weather is not too severe. Slugs are present in most gardens in the Victoria area, though they are often overlooked by an unsuspecting gardener because these molluscs remain under cover during daylight hours except in damp weather.

★ ★ ★

Normally they hide under trash, in loose soil and rock piles or wherever they can find a moist retreat. Perhaps the only sign of their presence by day will be the silvery path of mucus that usually marks their route. However these slimy trails are not always visible.

The damage these pests do to seedlings and to young plants in general is considerable. Since they regularly shear off new growth slightly below ground level seedlings sometimes fail to show afove the surface and the gardener is likely to blame his crop failure on intertile seeds rather than on the real culprits. The only relatively sure way of dealing with this situation is to apply plenty of slug bait to the area just before the plants are expected to appear and to renew the bait frequently, especially after a rain.

Several kinds of slugs are involved. The commonest one is the Brown slug which grows up to two inches in length but is usually much less by the time it makes its first appearance in the back lot. Despite its small size it is capable of doing considerable damage because it is so numerous and widespread.

Two of the largest are the Great slug and the Black slug, either one of which may be five inches long. The former is distinguished by the longitudinal streaks or rows of spots on the body and by the breathing pore (on the right side only) being positioned in the rear half of the body shield. The Black slug is a uniform dark color with a yellow border edging the foot and with the breathing pore in the front half of the body shield.

There are also several species of slugs native to British Columbia but these are seldom found in gardens. The "domestic" kinds are almost certain to be descendants of imports.

Slugs are hermaphroditic, that is, each individual is both male and female. Any two may mate after which each will lay eggs. The ova are beautifully translucent spheres about half the size of a pea deposited in little piles in some damp recess, often just beneath the surface in loose soil or in a compost heap. They produce miniature slugs in a few weeks which soon glide off in search of whatever the garden has to offer.

Flickering TV Screen Kills Boy

MANCHESTER (Reuters) — A seven-year-old English boy was killed by the flickering light from a television screen, an inquest was told Wednesday.

Carl Renfrew was watching television in his home when he suddenly blacked out and choked to death, despite his mother's frantic efforts to revive him.

A pathologist told the inquest that a small minority of normal people—as opposed to epileptics—can be induced into a fit by a flashing light or "photic stimulation."

The coroner said Carl had suffered from seven similar blackouts before and there was no doubt his seizure was brought on by the flickering screen.

He added that sunlight flashing through closely-spaced streets along a straight road could have the same effect on some motorists.

FOR FIGHTING SC POLICY

Unions Commend Teachers

British Columbia teachers were commended by the Victoria Labour Council Wednesday night for their "spirited fight" to improve the education standards and system in the province.

Unions delegates, in supporting the resolution, also voted to invite a member of the B.C. Teacher Federation executive to a future labor council meeting.

E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labour, commended the teachers for acting "not only for their own profession but our children.

"It is very interesting to note that the labor and education minister actually threatened to bring them under the jurisdiction of Bill 42.

"It seems to me the minister and the government are so afraid of constructive criticism that the first thing they think of is suppressing it.

"Surely this is not the kind of society we want to live in and the kind of government we want in B.C."

The teachers, meeting in convention at Penticton, voted to spend $57,000 to oppose new school financing legislation.

Education-Labor Minister Leslie Peterson replied that the government will act if the teachers federation opposes the legislation on a partisan political basis. He indicated this would be done by withdrawing the closed shop that makes all teachers belong to the federation.

Bill 42, a 1961 amendment to the Labour Relations Act, specifically prohibits trade unions (the teachers federation is not legally a trade union) from making financial contributions to any political party or any political candidate for office.

A suggestion that a house-to-house campaign be conducted to raise money for the A. W. Toone Memorial burns unit in St. Joseph's Hospital ran into a cool reception from delegates.

Council president Jack Groves said the first appeal to trade unions, which adopted the unit as their Centennial project in 1966, was "not very successful."

An appeal by a joint labor-management committee to Vancouver Island companies last month was "not very encouraging."

About $70,000 was needed to be raised before federal and provincial grants would make up the total.

He said "we have come to the conclusion we have got to raise the money by other means. The only means left to us is a house-to-house campaign."

But he stressed it had to be successful and needed 3,000 canvassers. The decision was up to the delegates.

The delegates made no decision and comments indicated no support for the idea.

Council secretary Larry Ryan said labor's contribution to date is $1,780 which he described as "not consistent with the commitment we made."

But during the meeting new donations of $375 were announced from several unions.

One delegate said the council's original commitment was $20,000 and the money should be raised by urging each of the 70 affiliated unions to get $1,75 or $2 per member.

"Miss Nissen also teaches the Hausa language to new missionaries and teachers arriving in Nigeria," says Pastor A. J. C. Johnson of Victoria's Lutheran Church of the Cross.

Miss Nissen will speak at a meeting in the church, Cedar Hill and Cedar Hill Cross Road, at 8 p.m.

Bridge Sale To Arizona Confirmed

LONDON (AP) — London Bridge is going west—to end its days as a tourist attraction in Arizona.

London City Corporation today confirmed sale of the 136-year-old bridge to the McCulloch Oil Corp. of California for rebuilding at Lake Havasu City, Ariz.

The sale price was $2,460,000.

It is being shipped to the United States later this year to be re-erected at a cost of $240,000.

A London Bridge has spanned the River Thames in one form or another since Roman times, 2,000 years ago.

The bridge has been immortalized by children down the years in the popular nursery rhyme "London Bridge is Falling Down. . ."

The present bridge is too narrow for today's heavy traffic and is being replaced by a wider bridge at a cost of $9,600,000.

Takeover by UN Council Blocked

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — The United Nations council on South-West Africa conceded today that its attempt to take over that territory from South Africa has no chances of success at this time. It announced it would return to New York tonight.

The Egyptian president of the group, Mostafa Rateb Abdel-Wahab, said the council might try to get into South-West Africa by road after the flood waters of the Zambezi River subside.

South Africa seized South-West Africa from Germany during the First World War and governed it under a League of Nations mandate. South Africa refused to recognize a resolution of the 1966 UN General Assembly terminating the mandate and naming the 11-nation council to take over the territory.

The South Africans said they would not let any commercial airliner land in South-West Africa with the UN council aboard. The council tried to charter a plane from Zambia, but the Zambians wanted a $45,000 deposit in case the South Africans seized the plane.

Ex-Agent Must Face Theft Trial

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (CP) — Wilfred Desmarais, former Indian agent in this Cariboo community, was ordered Wednesday to stand trial on charges involving theft of canned meat.

Magistrate Douglas McNeil isaid there was sufficient evidence to warrant a Supreme Court trial.

Desmarais, agent here three years, is charged with stealing about 100 tins of canned meat intended for Indians and to have sold it to beer parlors and other outlets.

He is charged with theft over $50 and with breach of trust by a public officer.

Safeway Official Denies Packaging Gimmick to Extract Larger Profit

EDMONTON (CP) — The Edmonton zone manager for Canada Safeway Ltd., R. W. Curell, Wednesday denied charges by Highways Minister Gordon Taylor the company used deceitful methods of packaging.

Mr. Taylor told the legislature earlier that Safeway and other companies had "designed a subtle and cleverly conceived campaign to extract the largest possible profit from people and to reduce their own cost by transferring it to the general public."

The minister's comment came during debate on a resolution urging an anti-litter campaign on non-returnable soft drink bottles.

Mr. Taylor said the bottles were not only a litter problem but also a packaging gimmick employed by companies to boost profits.

A six-pack of 10-ounce returnable bottles cost 70 cents while a similar pack of non-returnable bottles costs 65 cents. When the returnable bottles are taken back, 12 cents is refunded, cutting the cost to 58 cents, he said.

He said canned soft drinks sell for 18 cents each or $1.15 for 10, and said similar soft drinks in returnable bottles are $1.10 for 10 or 90 cents after the refund.

"We're paying for modern packaging right through the nose."

Mr. Curell said Canada Safeway Ltd. has never pushed the sale of non-returnable bottles and considered canned soft drinks—six 10-ounce cans for 50 cents—the best consumer value.

However, he added, there is an obligation to cater to customers and there is a demand for non-returnable bottles and cans.

He said the problem lay not with the distributors, but with the litterburgs and said Mr. Taylor "picked the wrong end" on which to centre his campaign.

Meanwhile, a Social Credit MLA suggested a provincial tax on non-returnable bottles as a control factor.

James Henderson of Leduc said the province should set a five-cent deposit on returnable bottles and the tax on non-returnable bottles or cans should be equal to this.

Mr. Henderson said this would encourage people to buy returnable bottles and "if not, it would provide the revenue necessary for cleaning up the mess."

Inco Plans $31 Million Development

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. confirmed Wednesday that it will proceed with a $31,000,000 development of a nickel-copper mine at Lower Shebandowan Lake, 50 miles west of Port Arthur.

It will be the company's ninth new mine under development in Canada in Inco's current expansion program in Canada.

Company chairman Henry S. Wingate told the annual meeting that the new mine, to come into operation in 1971, will employ between 400 and 500 persons.

Plans call for a shaft to be sunk to a depth of 1,975 feet, with 14,000 tons of ore to be handled weekly. A concentrator is to be built at the site, with the concentrates to be shipped by rail to the Inco smelter at Copper Cliff, near Sudbury.

Housing for the employees will likely be built at the village of Shebandowan, 10 miles away from the property, officials said.

Mr. Wingate, who described the Shebandowan property as a small-sized operation but one with a long-life potential, said it is part of the company's plans in increase total output by 1971 to 600,000,000 pounds of nickel annually from the current level of 450,000,000 pounds.

Total capital investment during the next two years in Canada to help bring these new facilities to production will be about $320,000,000, he said. Another $80,000,000 would be spent outside Canada, primarily in Guatemala and New Caledonia.

The company's previously announced plans for new Canadian mines include five in the Sudbury district and three at Thompson, Man.

PROVIDES EMPLOYMENT

The new operations will provide an estimated 3,200 new jobs, the company said. Of these, 1,200 would be in Manitoba and 1,500 at Sudbury.

The rest would be needed for the Shebandowan project. The company indicated at last year's annual meeting that the property was economically feasible.

Allan Lawrence, Ontario mines minister, said the announcement was of major importance to all northwestern Ontario.

Mr. Wingate told shareholders that continued rapid expansion is needed to meet expected consumption demands during the coming years.

He said the company recently has reached agreements for exploration and possible development of nickel prospects in New Caledonia and Indonesia, as well as the company's nickel-copper leases in Minnesota.

Proposal To Split Shares

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. proposed Wednesday splitting the company's common stock to create 2½ new shares for each one now existing.

The proposal, by the company's executive committee, is to go before the board of directors at a meeting May 6. If approved there, it would go to a special shareholders' meeting in July.

Inco now has about 29,700,000 shares outstanding, held by 64,000 shareholders.

Announcing the proposal at the company's annual meeting, chairman Henry S. Wingate also said the executive committee was recommending the quarterly dividend of 70 cents a share be raised to 75 cents.

If approved by the board, the increase would be effective in the regular June payment. Under the proposed share split, the dividend would become 30 cents.

Mr. Wingate said earnings in the first quarter of this year are estimated at $37,000,000 or $1.24 a share, compared with $33,000,000 or $1.11 in the similar 1967 period.

UNDER PRESSURE

In announcing the proposed split, Mr. Wingate noted the company had been under pressure for some time to take such a step because of the high price of the stock.

Inco shares closed Wednesday on the Toronto Stock Exchange at $121.25, down 12 cents on the day's trade. Announcement of the proposal split, dividend increase and earnings was made after the market closed.

Mr. Wingate said Inco's shares were priced higher than those of any major Canadian company and that could be considered a deterrent to wider ownership in this country.

Ottawa Will Study Fish Industry Woes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Newfoundland fishing industry will have to live with its troubles a bit longer before getting federal help.

A delegation from the industry came away from a three-hour meeting with Fisheries Minister Robichaud and other officials Wednesday with assurance their woes are being studied but that solutions won't be forthcoming just yet.

The delegations' proposals for various forms of federal aid to the industry, hard hit by stiffer competition and surpluses of unsold fish, were set out in a 15-page brief which formed the basis of Wednesday's talks.

Mr. Robichaud said in an interview later: "I could not be expected to come up with definite answers as I must submit these proposals to the government."

This didn't satisfy Pat Antle, general secretary of the Newfoundland Federation of Fishermen. His reaction:

"I had hoped for a straight yes or no to the points in the brief. But we were told to sit back and wait.

"However, we did get some assurance on the salted cod problem that measures are being taken now and that an announcement may be made in the near future, possibly by May 1."

The industry has proposed that the federal government purchase Newfoundland's backlog of salted cod left over from 1967 and dispose of it at reduced prices, or give it away under the external aid program. There has been an 80,000-quintal increase in the unsold surplus in Eastern Canada over the last 12 months — a quintal is 112 pounds.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Chamber Clears Industry Stand

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Anyone who thinks the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce is trying to discourage local industry is doing his thinking in left field.

Kent

As chamber president William Armstrong comments, the record shows just how interested directors are in developing a more stable economic base in the capital.

The chamber is about to publish a new brochure for wide distribution showing the advantages to living and working in Victoria. Recently the chamber presented a brief to a symposium on Victoria's future, outlining its views on the nature of new industry for this area.

The chamber has had close liaison with industrial businesses over the years, and two years ago manufacturer John G. Wallace, of Yarrows Ltd., was B.C. president.

"Anyone who says we are not interested in industry, or that new industry can't be developed here, is dead wrong," Mr. Armstrong said.

Such existing heavy industry as remains in Victoria — Victoria Machinery Depot, Yarrows, British America Paint, B.C. Forest Products Ltd., Smith Cedar Products, to name some major ones — will never be discouraged.

But the kind of industry to develop here for sustained, long-term economic gain should be the kind that meets changes in technology and living standards, the chamber feels, not, perhaps the traditional ones that can be subject to short term unemployment and market declines.

When vice-president Eric Mallett recently outlined some chamber views on industry to members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association he said Victoria did not want "smokestack industry."

He was quite right. People do not want to see new industry of a type that will conflict with the other side of Victoria's face — the government administrative centre, home of service industries, tourist mecca, a place of natural beauty enhanced by parks and gardens.

But he certainly did not mean that what is already established should go away. These are contributing valuable jobs and spending power to the community, and if some have been objectionable in the past, they are overcoming such problems as air pollution.

Mr. Armstrong and his directors are convinced that new industry must be attracted to the city and its environs, to keep Victoria a workable economic unit. The point they wish to make is that it could be the sort that is easy to live with and in great demand — light manufacturing of electronic equipment, or an extension of the administrative field to a "decision-making industry" of head offices for major corporations or executive counselling firms.

That makes sense and is worth campaigning for. It need not entail throwing the baby out.

Full year's utilization of its Boeing 707 and Lockheed Hercules aircraft will add substantially to its 1968 revenues, says Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. According to a report by chairman Bruce C. Samis and president R. H. Laidman the company will continue adding jets to its fleet this year.

The two planes mentioned did not serve PWA through the whole year past and therefore revenues did not show the level they might have.

The Hercules went into use late in the spring flying such heavy freight as bulldozers, prefabricated buildings, bulk fuel, lumber and ore concentrates out of Yellowknife and Churchill.

Private industry and the department of Indian affairs and northern development both used the big plane.

★ ★ ★

PWA sold its last piston-powered aircraft three months ago and new turbine engine planes are being put into service progressively. Three charter bases and five Beaver aircraft were sold in the last year.

Character of the company's service is changing from small and medium planes doing charter flying in remote areas to much bigger planes on charter and scheduled routes.

There was a 21 per cent improvement in passenger loads on mainline service and 15 per cent increase in cargo in 1967.

The six turbine planes of three different types which were added have a gross value of $17 million.

Note to clean-up-campaigners and city hall: For two years in the Swedish province of Skane, 60,000 volunteers have been picking up from the southern countryside what measures up as 26,000 cubic yards of scrap and litter.

They had a $120,000 budget and help from packaging companies, other industries and local authorities donating trucks and disposal equipment. Half the money came from industry.

Oil Industry Fights Threat Of Inflation

By BORIS MISKEW

MONTREAL (CP) — The oil industry has been fighting off the challenge of inflation by arming itself with the most modern technological equipment available, an oil executive said Wednesday.

John R. Patton said upon his appointment as president of Canadian Petrofina Ltd. the oil industry has managed to keep its prices down for years despite steadily rising costs.

Mr. Patton succeeded A. F. Campo who was named chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Canadian Petrofina.

He said his oil company's price of gasoline has actually gone down since it opened its refinery just east of Montreal in 1955.

The 1968 wholesale price of gasoline in Quebec was down to 16.8 cents a gallon from 20.3 cents in 1955.

Despite this drop the current retail price of 44.9 cents a gallon for regular-grade gasoline is the same as it was in 1955 although it had fluctuated downward during the early 1960s.

The 1955 retail price included a 13-cent Quebec provincial tax and a federal tax of 1.6 cents. The 1968 price includes a provincial tax of 19 cents and a federal tax of two cents.

M. Patton said the lower retail price of gasoline in the 1960s has been increased to the 1955 level through increases in the provincial tax.

Mr. Patton, a native of Amherst, N.S., received a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry from Mount Allison University and a Doctorate of Philosophy from the University of Toronto before entering the oil industry.

He said the industry has undergone tremendous scientific and technological changes since the 1920s and attributed its growth without price increases proved facilities."

'Appalled by Increase'

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of the Canadian Manufacturers Association said Wednesday he was appalled by the large size of the 74-cent hourly wage increase given to 8,000 members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in B.C.

"I am appalled at the size of the wage settlement, coming as it does, at a time when every responsible segment of our society is crying out for restraint in the face of spiralling inflation," said William Hamilton, chairman of the B.C. division of the association.

"The increase is economically indefensible and I believe it will have very serious repercussions on our economy in B.C.," he said in a statement.

FOOD HEIRESS ADMITS IN COURT

$3 Million Share Offer Rejected

VANCOUVER (CP) — Food company heiress Frances Mildred Douglas said in court Wednesday she still is trying to regain control of Kelly Douglas Ltd., the food firm co-founded by her father.

"I am still buying all the Class A stock I can afford," she testified in B.C. Supreme Court in her action against a group of former shareholders in the company.

Miss Douglas' action claims these shareholders sold a controlling interest in 1958 to Loblaws Groceteries Ltd. in violation of a shareholders agreement. She seeks reversal of the sale.

Miss Douglas said the agreement was that none of the shareholders would sell unless other shareholders were notified. She claims the $8,574,000 sale was carried out in secrecy.

Hohn Farris, counsel for Victor MacLean, one of the shareholders named in the suit and grandson of co-founder Robert Kelly, asked Miss Douglas about an offer for her 500,000 Class A shares.

"You were offered $7 a share, which would have meant more than $3,000,000 you would have received," the lawyer said. "I suggest the shares actually weren't worth half of that."

"Presumably," replied Miss Douglas.

She said she had not turned down the offer in hopes of receiving a better one but because control was a factor.

Miss Douglas said she wasn't prepared to sell at any price. She made a counter offer of $7.10 a share to other shareholders to keep control and had arranged $5,000,000 financing for this offer.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre was told this offer was not accepted because the Loblaw purchase, through National Trust Co., already had been carried out.

Kelly Douglas was founded by Mr. Kelly and Miss Douglas' father, Francis Ross Douglas, in 1896. It had sales last year of more than $173,000,000 through 80 Super-Valu markets in B.C.

Miss Doublas said she has resisted attempts to take over the company as early as 1950 when a U.S. firm proposed acquisition. She also opposed a move to make Kelly Douglas a public company.

Banks Plan Credit Cards

TORONTO (CP) — Four Canadian chartered banks are working on a plan to issue credit cards, it has been announced.

The banks are the Royal, Canadian Imperial, Toronto-Dominion and Canadienne Nationale.

The announcement said a feature of the cards will be an interchangeable agreement so merchants will accept cards issued by any of the banks.

Earnings Jump

MONTREAL (CP)— Chemcell Ltd. has announced 1968 first quarter net earnings of $2,162,000 or 15 cents a share for the fiscal period ending March 31, compared with $1,939,000 or 13 cents a hare for the corresponding quarter last year.

Sales were $29,945,000 against $27,714,000 in 1967.

Spring or Fall, Handicappers Find Fun in Figures

By BILL WALKER

Wednesday being a fine day and with little else to do but get to the job of picking winners, the story naturally evolves about Sandown Park, near Sidney.

This is where the current spring Thoroughbred racing meeting is being held.

It readily will be recalled that this is the same place where the annual fall meet used to be held, and much more successfully.

However, that is beside the point.

Who really cares, except the operators, the horsemen, and the punters.

The operators know it will be better in Vancouver. The horsemen may hedge, but they believe in the same principle; and the punters (the horse players if you like) don't really care. They'll be there, in the spring or in the fall.

Which brings us up to the subject of handicapping, or picking winners.

It is noticeable on occasion that various news and sports media will select for the patrons the probable order of finish of the competitors in certain events.

This is not an invitation to wager, it is explained, nor should it be, but rather it is the considered opinion of the by-line writer that he sees the result in such a manner as predicted.

★ ★ ★

Also if is a known fact that books on picking winners appear in the mails, and in the display ad section of your daily newspaper.

Everybody reads these selections, then attempts to beat the top one, also the odds board, goes home a winner and decries such amateurs as appear in the press.

So be it, or as the sinner, sitting in the sunshine, might say to the man in the shade, "I had six today."

Whereas the loser might remark: "They race again on Saturday, don't they?"

At any rate, this is not meant to be an epistle, be you in the sun or the shade.

The point is that, if you are a handicapper and can appreciate figures, you can have some fun to go with the running of the events.

Take yesterday's first race for example.

Beau Bunnie figured to win, by almost everyone, with Indian Puddin' ready to dispute the fact, and that's the way they ran.

★ ★ ★

Strictly handicapping, but no price: $3.50 to win and $6.00 for the quinella.

Then came the second race.

This was for maiden two-year-olds. There was no form until Trucy Star, a dark brown filly won at 4-1 and paid $10.30.

Trucy Star, it now can be recalled, was purchased for $100 at last year's yearling's sales.

So what price the cost?

Now to the third race.

The experts (that's fellow away from home) had Copper Eagle as the good thing, but a look at the workouts would have disclosed that first starter Simontime, by Simonworth (for the benefit of the old-timers hereabouts) had had a sharp work.

Copper Eagle went to the lead, but Simontime came well equipped and would have been going away by more at the finish except for the fact that he wanted to lug in.

That little bit of extra figuring was worth $15.90.

And now for the fourth:

This was the exacto.

Sandripples figured. Best bet on the handicap in the Times and a narrow loser in his debut.

★ ★ ★

No disappointment there for chalk players as the win price was $3.80, but on the other side of the coin was Jokellina a 6-1 choice who had slipped in for second and a $36.90 exacto.

For the purists, the indisputable fact is that Flying Dave, with Jack Phillips up, should have been there.

Phillips, not by choice, had nothing but trouble on the outside and with his horse lugging in . . . was a trifle shy.

And this is what we mean, this is handicapping.

The fifth, with favored Non Challenge declared, was a toss-up.

Could Chicago Mike take the lead and hold up?

Was Ellabhai good enough from the outside, or would Katsie Chief or Foxy Bud run back to their first starts?

It was close, but Katsie Chief got the nod through a strong ride by Phillips. The payoff was $9.30.

The sixth, at six furlongs, presented a slightly different picture.

★ ★ ★

El Tajo liked it on the lead. Prince Nagea and Glencar loved to run down the lane, while Little Bit of Sugar was also at home on the front end.

What to do?

It may not mean much, but one experienced handicapper worked it down to El Tajo and Prince Nagea, with El Tajo getting it because Prince Nagea's rider was two pounds over weight.

Who won? El Tajo. Glencar, with a surge, was second, The Sugar piece ran third and Prince Nagea was fourth, but closing fastest of all at the finish.

Then the seventh and the final race on the abbreviated card.

All selectors, but one, said Dark Bug. Most put Donmard as the most likely to succeed if Dark Bug failed, while the sentimentalists leaned towards Pils Friday, at age 11, a loved campaigner.

★ ★ ★

The chalk players had the right idea and Dark Bug and Donmaid emerged as the second favored quinella of the day at $13.00.

And now, more seriously, if you haven't absorbed what went before.

Here are some very good tips on handicapping if you would like the work of experts (and in this category we are immediately dissociated).

From a well qualifed expert, Bob Hebert of the Los Angeles Times, who has successfully published a book on the subject:

(1), If you are undecided between two horses, one with a good recent race, and the other with a good workout, take the one with a race.

(2) When you must decide between a speed horse and the come-from-behinder in a sprint, take the speed horse (Example: El Tajo as opposed to Prince Nagea).

(3) Don't let the consensus fool you. If 10 experts, instead of two, pick a horse to win it doesn't increase its chances of winning, it just lowers the odds.

★ ★ ★

And if you really are a member of the figure filbert society, perhaps this may be of some help:

Most racing secretaries figure that four pounds in weight is equal to one length in a sprint race. At one mile, three pounds equal one length at a mile and a quarter it is one pound to one length.

The other fundamentals in regard to speed are simple, until the race is run:

The length of a horse is equivalent to one fifth of a second, and so on until five lengths equal one second.

Or as the man in the shade said:

"Did you get the overnights?

They go again on Saturday in the Times Handicap.

IT'S MY VIEW . . .

By Ernie Fedoruk

It's hard to tell if Lew Matlin came unprepared, or if he was being polite. The cigar-chomping general manager of the Vancouver Mounties' baseball team was one of the guest speakers at Tuesday's beef-feed.

Matlin spoke well, but didn't steal the show from main-eventer Annis Stukus. Matlin has quite a reputation as a speaker, and it must be suspected he "lay low" out of respect to Stuke.

Most of the cash customers understood him, and that is not up to Matlin's usual standards.

About three years ago, Prime Minister Lester Pearson quietly slipped into a box seat at Vancouver's Capilano Stadium to watch a Pacific Coast League game. Few knew anything about it until Matlin dropped the hint:

"The old second baseman was in our store a couple of days ago to watch our troops in the first of a double-dip."

For the benefit of intellectuals and such, that means that Pearson, a good second-baseman in his youth, had been at Capilano Stadium to watch the first game of a doubleheader.

The next time Lew pops into the store, get in line and listen . . . but carefully. He gets a lot more wood on the ball than he did Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Stukus, the locquacious Lithuanian, batted at his usual average although Stanley Leonard insisted the main speaker disposed of his original speech upon discovering women would be present.

Stuke objected to Andy Stephen's introduction as "an ex-coach of the B.C. Lions' football team."

"An ex-coach," said Annis, "is one who is fired in mid-season.

"I am a FORMER coach.

"A former coach is one whose contract is not renewed at the end of a season."

★ ★ ★

Hitting a serious streak, Stukus, now the general manager of Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, predicted the lower mainland "will have an NHL franchise within two or three years."

He came, he said, "not to speak but to remind you . . .

"To remind you that Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle all have won the Stanley Cup. . . .

"To remind you that the first artificial ice arena was built right here in Victoria. . . .

"To remind you of the hockey history of this area. . . .

"They can't keep Vancouver out (of the NHL). . . ."

Leonard, a 12-time campaigner in the Masters, touched on the subject of Roberto de Vicenzo's scoring error last weekend that cost the Argentine a chance to play off, with Bob Goalby, for the coveted golf prize.

The mistake, said the Vancouver professional, "has to be one of the saddest things that has ever happened in sports."

"But rules are rules," added Leonard, "and it would be a greater tragedy to bend the rules."

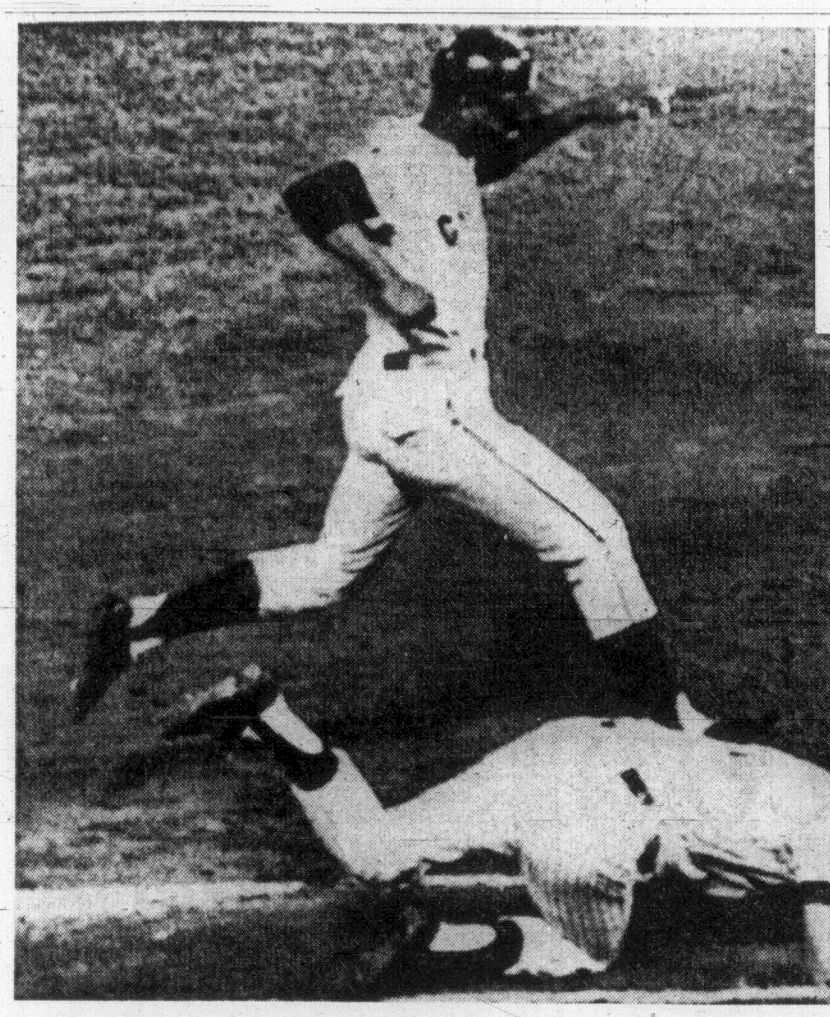

The best-kept secret of the evening was Leonard's illness. He almost passed up the invitation to visit Victoria two weeks ago and again Tuesday morning when he felt very poorly.

After delivering his speech, Stan quietly slipped out and retired to his room.

Finally, officials of the sponsoring Saanich Kiwanis Club and the Victoria Sports Council expressed a view that the dinner was a success. They bucked a Stanley Cup playoff game on television and encountered other unexpected problems, but seemed satisfied with the inaugural dinner.

It can be assumed another dinner will be held next year. It will probably include entertainment by performers who perform without the benefit of commercials. The singing group that started it off Tuesday would have been better received had it hummed its melodies and hawed the in-between commercials.

MAKING PUTOUT hard way is Atlanta first baseman Deron Johnson who crawls to base ahead of Chicago's Ernie Banks for putout after diving for low throw in National League game Wednesday night at Atlanta. Deron's dive helped snuff out attempted rally. Braves went on for 2-0 triumph.

Four in Six Is Too Much

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Billy Reay, of Chicago Black Hawks, yawned, threw his copy of the local newspaper across the room, stretched and yawned again.

"Four games in six days is too much even for the management," he said Wednesday night after arriving here for the start of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals against Montreal Canadiens tonight.

The Western Division semi-finals conclude tonight at Philadelphia and Los Angeles where the Flyers meet St. Louis Blues and the Kings are at home to Minnesota North Stars. Both series are tied 3-3.

Tonight's opening game of the Eastern Division final between Chicago and Montreal will be telecast on channels 2 and 6 starting at 5:30 p.m.

"And if you think I look beat, you can imagine how my hockey players feel."

Reay coached his club Tuesday night to its fourth straight victory over New York Rangers to win the best-of-seven quarter-finals 4-2.

LAUDS VETERANS

"There were so many factors involved," he said. "We got superior goaltending when we needed it from Denis DeJordy. We got great efforts from the big guns like (Bobby) Hull and (Stan) Mikita. And we got bonuses from others like (Gilles) Marotte and (Pit) Martin."

Ken Wharram, who missed the fifth game, is a questioned starter in tonight's game because of rib injuries.

Reay's skepticism isn't shared by the members of his club.

"From now on it's all the way," said Mikita, the National Hockey League scoring champion who leads the playoffs with three goals and six assists.

The Black Hawks are in much the same situation as Toronto Maple Leafs were at the same time last season. Montreal had defeated New York in four straight games to win the first series, while Toronto came off a third-place regular-season finish to topple the league champion Black Hawks in six games.

The Leafs retained that momentum and knocked over the Canadiens for the Stanley Cup in six games.

LACKS DEPTH

"But those Leafs had a lot more depth than my club has today," Reay said. "The only thing I can count on is that anything can happen in this crazy business and I'm hoping it will."

Meanwhile, coach Toe Blake, who will not bring his team out of its mountain retreat until just prior to game time, isn't optimistic about his chances of disposing of the Hawks.

He says that the weeklong layover his club gained by knocking Boston Bruins over in four straight games has done nothing except aid his club.

Cookie's Clout Rescues Phils

By The Associated Press

When the wind shifts his way, little Cookie Rojas can blow up a big storm.

"I hit home runs only in hurricanes," said the slender second baseman, who cracked a game-winning, two-run homer Wednesday night as Philadelphia Phillies ended a six-game tailspin by edging Don Drysdale and Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2.

Rojas' fifth-inning shot off Drysdale enabled the struggling Phils to pull out of their home opener and snap their longest losing streak since 1964, when a ten-game September skid cost them the National League pennant.

New York Mets and Pittsburgh Pirates also captured their home openers in impressive fashion, the Mets trimming San Francisco Giants 3-0 behind rookie left-hander Jerry Koosman and the Pirates smothering Houston Astros 13-4 with a 17-hit barrage. Cincinnati Reds nipped St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 12 innings and Atlanta Braves blanked Chicago Cubs 2-0 in other National League action.

The Phillies trailed 2-1 when Tony Taylor stroked a two-out single in the fifth and Rojas slammed a 3-2 pitch into the lower centre field seats.

LIFTS FRYMAN

Manager Gene Mauch lifted southpaw Woody Fryman with two Dodgers on in the eighth after centre fielder Tony Gonzalez raced to the wall and gloved Lefebvre's 400-foot drive. Reliefer Dick Farrell then came on to preserve Fryman's first victory as a Phillie.

Koosman scattered seven hits and struck out 10 on the way to his second successive shutout before 52,079 Shea Stadium supporters.

A six-run uprising in the third inning keyed the Pirates' romp over Houston before a Forbes Field crowd of 30,779. Ex-reliever Al McBean, given a commanding early lead, went the distance for his second victory without a loss.

Maury Wills and Jerry May led the Pittsburgh atttack with three hits apiece.

Phil Niekro, the Braves' knuckleball artist, stopped the Cubs on four hits for his second triumph in as many decisions. Felipe Alou's third inning single drove in the only run Niekro needed and Hank Aaron provided insurance with a seventh inning homer.

BIRDS NIPPED BY COLUMBUS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Columbus scored in the last four minutes Wednesday night to defeat University of British Columbia Thunderbirds 1-0 in Province Cup soccer action.

Victory moved Columbus into semi-final play. George Wyma booted home the lone goal before 538 fans.

All Stops Pulled In West Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League's Western Division playoffs have reached a showdown.

All stops will be pulled at Philadelphia and Los Angeles, where the Flyers are host to St. Louis Blues and the Kings entertain Minnesota North Stars.

For two clubs, the game marks the end of the current season. The two series will have gone the seven-game limit and tonight's winners enter the divisional final starting Saturday.

And the odds appear to favor Los Angeles and Philadelphia Flyers.

In the Minnesota-Los Angeles series, home ice has been a deciding factor. Added to this, the Kings will have Mr. Playoff back in goal for them after a two-game layoff.

Terry Sawchuk, who's been in more NHL playoffs than any other active goalie, sat out for two games while Wayne Rutledge handled goaltending chores for the Kings. Sawchuk was suffering a bout of the flu.

And the Flyers have the edge in momentum, having won their last two games after trailing St. Louis Blues 3-1 at one stage of the playoffs. And tonight's rubber match is in the Flyers home Spectrum.

Both the Flyers and the North Stars went into overtime Tuesday to extend their series, Philadelphia winning 2-1 on a fluke goal by Don Blackburn at 11:18 of the second overtime.

The North Stars won 4-3 when Milan Marcetta scored at 9:11 of the first overtime in their game with Los Angeles to send the deciding game back to the coast city.

Both Philadelphia and St. Louis were comparatively subdued in their Tuesday encounter after the clubs had been assessed a total of $3,800 in fines following a 20-minute free-for-all Saturday.

POILE OUT

The heavy fine led to manager Bud Poile of the Flyers tendering his resignation in protest. Of course it was refused out of hand by Philadelphia management, but is an indication of the high feeling between the clubs.

National League May Make Expansion Leap

CHICAGO (AP) — National League baseball club owners will meet Friday, apparently intent on selecting two new franchises and deciding whether to catch up with the American League on start of a 12-club circuit.

The American League last fall approved expansion to 12 clubs in 1969, reviving a Kansas City franchise to compensate for the Athletics' switch to Oakland this season and adding Seattle as a second new member.

Warren Giles, National League president, earlier this week said the meeting was aimed only at setting down ground rules to five cities seeking the two new franchises for operation not later than 1970.

But one NL club executive said "there could be some definite action because time is getting short."

MONTREAL BID

The franchise applicants include Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal and Buffalo.

Although Giles said he expected no major action by the NL club owners, urgency could be prompted by the fact the American League has a special meeting scheduled in Chicago next Thursday. Approval may be given then to a proposed controversial divisional split of the 12-club lineup in 1969 with a championship playoff.

This would confront the National League with an overshadowing of its own pennant race by the AL playoffs and mess up of scheduling, particularly the World Series buildup, under the present 10-club NL lineup.

The National League previously voted to expand not later than 1970, but this could be reconsidered by the three-man expansion committee which will report to the club owners Friday.

GALA SOCCER SHOW . . .

Caribbean Visit at Stake

Victoria entries from the Gorge Soccer Association set their sights on provincial championships, but the biggest reward of all will go to B.C.'s first division champions.

All honors will be at stake in the 16th annual "Tournament of Champions" — minor soccer's greatest show which draws the honor of being the first athletic event to be staged in the new Centennial Stadium at the University of Victoria.

The two-day gala gets under way Saturday at 11:30 a.m. and winds up Sunday with the parade of champions at 3:30 p.m.

Four games will be played Saturday and three on Sunday.

2:30—Division IV—North Shore Burdette Beavers vs. Burnaby Cliff Avenue United.
3:30—Parade of champions and awards presentation.

The Gorge teams, finalists in the second and fifth divisions, both will draw the benefits of playing before hometown supporters.

It is the Division I players who seem to have the most at stake however — a possible expenses-paid trip to the West Indies.

Vancouver Southern Slope faces North Shore Burdette Beavers at 12:45 p.m. on Sunday in the crucial tussle.

Winners become B.C. champions and advance to the Western Canadian playdowns. The western champs then play host to an eastern team in the Canadian final.

The Canadian juvenile champions have been extended an invitation from the West Indian government to visit the Caribbean.

Players Select Mikita

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News announced Wednesday that Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks, a 40-goal scorer for the first time in his National Hockey League career, has been named East Division player of the year.

Mikita, four-time scoring champion in the NHL, was voted the honor by fellow players. Derek Sanderson, Boston's 21-year-old centre, was named the league's rookie of the year.

The weekly sports publication placed Mikita on its East Division all-star team. Others named to the team were Detroit's Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull of Chicago and defencemen Bobby Orr of Boston and Tim Horton of Toronto. New York's Ed Giacomin was named the East's all-star goalie.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Making a first appearance in Times' "Bowler-of-the-Week" awards list is Bev Quinn after claiming women's tenpin honors in 26th week of 27-week competition. Also qualifying for May 12 rolloffs, Bev's 156-179-232-567 series was rolled in Northridge League at Mayfair Lanes.

Casper Is the One They Fear Despite 'Worst Score' Award

LAE VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Billy Casper slammed a succession of tremendous drives off the practice tee. Fellow golfer Chi Chi Rodriguez asked amiably.

"Why don't you take the week off?"

Rodriguez was referring, not so indirectly, to the fact that two other great golfers, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, are sitting out the Tournament of Champions, which got under way today.

Casper, although never a winner in the 15 previous tournaments of champions, is favored to haul in the top $30,000 prize from the $150,000 purse over 24 rivals.

Gusty winds plagued the tournament site, the 6,625-yard, par 36-35—71 Stardust Country Club, the last two days. However, the weatherman promised winds of only eight to 10 miles an hour for the opening round.

MIXED AGGREGATION

The field is a varied one that ranges from two 23-year-old challengers, to 48-year-old Julius Boros, the only entry who played in the first Tournament of Champions in 1952. The youngsters are Marty Fleckman and England's Tony Jacklin, playing here for the first time.

This is the 12th straight appearance here for Casper, who Wednesday was given a dubious honor. A bronze plaque was positioned on the 15th hole where Billy unceremoniously required 11 strokes to get down on the 536-yard par-five test.

Billy hit three shots outs of bounds for his 11. The plaque says it was his worst score "of a brilliant career."

Frank Beard, the 1967 winner, Boros, Tom Weiskopf and Masters champion Bob Goalby were generally regarded as leading threats to Casper.

Others in the field are George Archer, Miller Barber, Bob Charles, Gardner Dickinson, Randy Glover, Lou Graham, Laurie Hammer, Dave Hill, Don January, George Knudson, Johnny Pott, Charley Sifford, Dan Sikes, Dave Stockton, Dudley Wysong, Bert Yancey and Kermit Zarley.

TOM IS OFFICIAL LEADER BUT BILLY MAKES MORE

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf is pro golf's top tournament winner this year, but Billy Casper has won more money.

Weiskopf has won $64,122 on the sanctioned professional tour and picked up unofficial winnings for a total of $70,465. Casper is almost $11,000 back in the official column at $53,219, but other winnings give him a total of $71,162.

George Archer is the third man in the list of the Top 10 released by the PGA. Archer has $46,464 in official winnings and a total of $49,307.

George Knudson of Toronto, who has won two of the major tournaments this year, is fourth on the money list with $45,407 in official winnings and a total of $52,055.

Others on the top 10 list, with their official and total winnings, are:

Al Geiberger $40,545, $41,676; Tony Jackoin $38,490, $41,452; Gardner Dickson $33,994, $35,352; Dave Marr $32,221, $32,459; Kermit Zarley $30,850, $34,443; Dan Sikes $30,014, $31,341.

A constitution was drafted, league format approved and officials elected by representatives of the four teams.

Myrna Harris was elected president with Marg Billinger as secretary-treasurer and Jean Deslippe as vice-president.

Players or groups interested in taking part can contact any of the executive or receive further information from Wally Yeamans at 384-6159.

Polyester tire cord. We started working with it three years ago, and the highly sophisticated version of it we have developed, we call Polytex 'A'. Our tires have been going around with it for quite a while, although some other manufacturers haven't even struck up an acquaintanceship yet. But sooner or later everyone will be using it. It lasts longer and stands up better under impact and stress than any other tire cord. It is not affected by heat, cold or moisture. It will give your car a smoother, more stable ride.

We know . . . our Supreme 150's have been going around and around and around with polyester longer than any other tire.

And now it's time for the WT70 Sportster to have a turn.

This is our newest tire. It's wide and two faced. It has the new seven rib tread, a racy looking low profile with a red stripe on one side and a narrow ribbon whitewall on the other. You can switch from swank to sporty, depending on your mood. It will give you better traction, better cornering and faster stops. And we built it with Polyester cord, because we don't think there's anything else that can give you the strength, stability and durability you want in a tire.

Get more fun out of driving ...ride the wides.

The tires people choose to go around with.

Disputed Tally Beats Hotspur

LONDON (CP) — Leeds United moved to within one point of Manchester United at the top of the soccer league First Division with a 1-0 victory over Tottenham Hotspur Wednesday night.

In an incident-packed game Alan Gilzean, Tottenham's Scottish international centre-forward, was sent off after a clash with left-back Terry Cooper. Peter Lorimer scored the only goal from a hotly-disputed 64th minute penalty award.

Leeds has one game in hand over Manchester United.

Glasgow Rangers missed the chance to regain the Scottish first division leadership when they drew 3-3 with Morton.

LLOYD PERCIVAL
. . . resigns as coach

LLOYD PERCIVAL

Bitter Coach Gives Up Fight

TORONTO (CP)—Lloyd Percival, of Toronto, says he has given up a lifelong dream to make Canada a world power in sports "because I can't fight the establishment any longer".

"All my life I've wanted to promote Canada through athletics, but I guess I was too far ahead of my time and it's been one of the great disappointments of my life," the 54-year-old physical fitness expert said.

Percival became interested in training techniques during the Second World War and decided to go into it full time. In 1945 he started a national radio program—called Sports College—to discuss his training techniques.

Later he began the Fitness Institute, which has conditioned such well-known professionals as hockey player Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto and professional golfer George Knudson of Toronto.

RESIGNS AS COACH

He announced Tuesday he has resigned as coach of the Don Mills Track Club in Toronto and will concentrate all his efforts on the institute.

"I was never recognized in Canada the way I've been accepted in other countries," he said. "I was working with European players, promoting their games and all the time I wanted to teach the Canadians how to beat the Russians."

He freely admits that the Canadian establishment was not ready for his techniques.

"I was in a controversial situation right from the start," he said. "I set out to study conditioning and training methods from all over the world and apply them to Canadians.

"I was involved in controversy when I began training track people with weights. I was in trouble when I announced that putting ice on a charley horse was better than rubbing it.

"Both those methods have been accepted over the years, but right up to this day many others have not."

Esquimalt Collects School Golf Trophy

Esquimalt took the inter-high school golf tournament under the shotmaking skill of Cec Ferguson and Dave Mick Wednesday at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Esquimalt's team of Ferguson, Mick, Ron Howard and Graham Brown captured the Bill McColl trophy with a net 238 as the best three scores counted toward the total.

Ferguson and Mick tied for individual low net honors with 78's but Ferguson took the playoff on the 19th hole when he shot a par four to Mick's bogey five.

Rob Anderson and Bill Morrison, also of Esquimalt, tied for low net laurels with 70's, but no playoff was held.

Victoria High's team of Ken Nott, Brian Gandy, Ken Kulai and Larry O'Malley took the low net title with 229.

Tennis Body Awaits Hosts' Bids for Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bids for 1968 open tennis tournaments in the United States close tonight. Robert J. Kelleher, president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, says he expects no more than four will be sanctioned.

Plans call for a U.S. Open championship but it will not supercede the historic U.S. amateur tournament held annually at Forest Hills, N.Y.

The international body has approved three categories—amateur, registered players and professionals. The USLTA has not sanctioned the category of registered player—one who can receive money but who does not make his livelihood from tennis.

Asked about possibilities of Forest Hills holding the U.S. Open this year, Kelleher said that club already had contracted for the National Amateur.

"Before it could hold the Open, some substitution would have to be made for the amateur," he added.

A decision on a U.S. Open site is expected within a few weeks.

SUING BASEBALL . . . . . FOR RIGHT TO WORK

Lady Ump Goes to Court

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernice Gera, the Long Island housewife who wants to add a little sex to the national pastime, said Wednesday she is suing organized baseball for the right to be a lady umpire.

"I have retained a lawyer and we are taking our case to the courts," the thirtyish matron from Jackson Heights, N.Y., announced. "The commissioner, Gen. William D. Eckert refuses even to let me take out an application."

Bernice's lawyer is Mario Biaggi of New York, who said he intends to bring the case first before the State Commission on Human Rights.

"Mrs. Gera has been thwarted and wronged at every turn. She has written to all the proper authorities, taken the necessary steps and received nothing but rebuffs," said Biaggi.

Mrs. Gera, wife of a free-lance photographer, graduated magna cum laude from an umpires' school last year in West Palm Beach, Fla., the only woman enrolled, and later umpired the National Baseball Congress in Wichita, Kan.

"I didn't have too much trouble," Bernice explained. "The chest protector didn't fit very well — those things aren't made for women. And the players tried to give me a hard time.

"They wouldn't make a pass directly but a man at the plate might carry on a conversation with the catcher that would go something like this:

" 'Hey, Joe, some chick behind the plate — wonder if she'd go out to dinner with me?'

" 'Forget it, Butch, I already got her booked.' "

"I ignore the remarks and continued to call them as tough as I could. Several times players would rush at me with their faces flushed and fuming, but I would just ignore them."

★ ★ ★

Eckert's office acknowledged that correspondence had been received from Mrs. Gera but a spokesman said:

"It is a matter up to the league presidents and Ed Doherty in Columbus, who is in charge of umpires' development."

Doherty's office in Columbus said that, yes, Mrs. Gera had made application and the application was being treated normally.

Mrs. Gera said that umpiring is strictly a matter of judgment—not of strength or physical prowess — and a woman can exercise this judgment as well as a man.

PILOTS FOUR PROS

Female Fight Manager Can't Visit 'Back Room'

By ROBERT DOBKIN

MILLVILLE, N.J. (AP) — The fight manager closely scrutinized the two boxers sparring in the gymnasium.

The manager gave the fighters a few instructions and told them to take a breather.

Then the manager walked up to a mirror, checked her lipstick and makeup and hurried home to cook supper for her husband.

Mrs. Bonnie Coccaro, an attractive grandmother, is the manager who began her unique career two years ago.

Mrs. Coccaro says she heard of only one other woman fight manager—in California.

DREAMS OF TITLE BOUT

She is licensed by the Pennsylvania and Virginia State Boxing Commission, and like all fight managers, Mrs. Coccaro dreams of the day when one of her "boys" will win a title match.

She has four pros under her tutelage.

"On the day one of my boys fight, I cook his meals," she said while watching fighters working out in her husband's gym.

Being a woman in a man's world has its drawbacks.

Mrs. Coccaro recalled the day when she took one of her fighters to the boxing commission's office in Philadelphia to prepare for a match.

BARRED FROM WEIGH-IN

"When the boys went into the back room to weight in, I was politely stopped and told, 'You can't go in lady, the boys strip.' "

Mrs. Coccaro, a former beautician, is no stranger to boxing, having been an avid fan since she was a girl in New York City. Her husband, Tony, fought in the 1930s, winning 100 of 117 amateur and professional bouts. Tony now runs the Millville Athletic Club and manages several amateurs who Mrs. Coccaro watches closely.

"When they're ready to turn pro, that's when I take over," she explained. "My husband takes care of the amateurs."

TIME OUT By JEFF KEATE

"I don't know much about baseball, but wingin' him that can of corn with the sacks jammed, he should be chased!"

Robbins, Ellis Top Oak Bay Competition

Renee Robbins, scoring a net 78, topped the silver division in a medal and pin competition at Victoria Golf Club.

Ruth Leach, Bessie Wilson and Claudia Morrow tied for second with 80's while Helen Ellis, with a net 78, led the bronze division.

Lil Thirlwell captured "A" division honors in a women's par competition at Uplands Golf Club. Sue Gill topped "B" division while Iris Parr and Freda Blythe tied for "C" division laurels.

FLOP-EARED FILLY . . . . . MAY STILL RUN IN DERBY

Don't Give Up on Annabelle

TORONTO (CP) — Annabelle lovers take heart. The three-year-old, flop-eared filly may yet keep her date at the Kentucky Derby.

Injured in a collision with a green two-year-old during a practice gallop Wednesday, it was feared for a time that she had suffered a broken pelvis and would have to be destroyed.

But later, about four hours after the accident on the Woodbine training strip, veterinarian Dr. Donald Fishman said that if she continues to show improvement during the next four days, Annabelle could still run in the Kentucky Derby.

DERBY NOMINEE

The horse, nominated for the Kentucky Derby by co-owners Paul Rinstead and Fred Ross, a pair of Toronto newspaper men who purchased her for $1,100 at an auction, raced four times as a two-year-old without winning.

She was to have run for the first time this year in today's fourth at Greenwood race track.

Dr. Fishman's preliminary examination indicated a fractured pelvis and her destruction was being considered. But four hours later the horse was walking around her stall and the doctor said a more thorough examination indicated no serious damage.

Trainer Jim Santha said he was galloping the horse down the stretch "when I saw a couple of horses about 1-16th of a mile ahead."

"I yelled 'Heads up, I'm coming through' and the other rider who had the other horse in a canter, pulled it up."

Mrs. Sam Dixon, wife of a trainer, edged her mount toward the rail.

"We collided heavily. Annabelle went down and I jumped clear," Santha said.

"I made several attempts to get Annabelle to her feet but each time she fell again. Finally I led her to a stable. She was hobbling badly and obviously in great pain."

One report was that the horse suffered a sort of whiplash injury twisting as it fell.

SAYS LLOYDS SHIPPING CHAIRMAN

Cape Route May Replace Suez Canal Permanently

LONDON (Reuters) — The Suez Canal may remain permanently closed and even if it is reopened the alternative route around the Cape of Good Hope is more favorable under present conditions, a world shipping authority said Wednesday.

Chairman Anthony Grover of Lloyds Register of Shipping, in a luncheon speech, said many people now apparently thought the canal would never be reopened.

His forecast gave added weight to two annual shipping reports made Wednesday.

Sir Maurice Bridgeman, chairman of the partly government-owned British Petroleum Co., declared in his annual report that "it would not, in present circumstances, be prudent to base any of our future plans on the reopening of the canal."

An annual report by Lloyds Register of Shipping noted increased building of giant tankers which would be too big to navigate the canal.

"It seems that the oil industry has gone at least halfway toward dispensing with the Suez Canal altogether," it added.

The canal has been closed since the Arab-Israeli war last June.

SPECIAL STATUS VETO 'SHATTERING'

Trudeau Less Flexible Than PM on Quebec?

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebecers see Pierre Elliott Trudeau as "sort of inter-planetary, beyond being international," says nationalist Jacques-Yvan Morin.

Mr. Trudeau's "feet are not always down to earth" and his election as prime minister will probably make a Quebec constitutional consensus more difficult, says Mr. Morin, 36, president of the Estates General of French Canada.

A growing consensus toward a "moderate" solution on the basis of special status for Quebec was shattered first by the February federal-provincial conference and now by the Trudeau accession, in the view of Mr. Morin.

"We're entering a period of intense agitation and manoeuvring, probably a period of great instability in federal-provincial relations as between Ottawa and Quebec."

Mr. Morin was interviewed as the privately-organized Estates General opened a new "in-depth" study—a long series of meetings—to ascertain constitutional views in Quebec and throughout French Canada.

This could lead to the setting up of "sub estates general" in the minority French-language regions—the West, Ontario and the Maritimes, he said.

MORIN
. . . studies new PM

TOOK RADICAL LINE

Regional meetings of those groups would perhaps be held before another full-scale national assizes here in the late fall along the lines of last November's meeting, which amounted to a giant constitutional festival of nationalistic fervor. Many outside-Quebec French-Canadians were shocked at the radical tone of resolutions.

The Estates General is made up of French-Canadians elected from within the ranks of intermediary organizations such as school boards, professional groups, nationalist societies, trade unions, municipalities and chambers of commerce. The November meeting was attended by delegates from all provinces except Newfoundland.

The organization is patterned after the Estates General first established in France in 1302 to advise the government on various problems, particularly those dealing with planned changes in the constitution. Associate professor in law at University of Montreal, Mr. Morin is a former professorial colleague of Mr. Trudeau and retains a personal admiration of the new prime minister. They share a common interest, human rights, on which they both have written.

FACES BIG PROBLEMS

"Mr. Trudeau's bid certainly constitutes quite a challenge," said Mr. Morin. "He will try to rally around his ideas part of Quebec public opinion."

The new prime minister was trying to make the Quebec slogan maitres chez nous —masters in our own house— apply to the whole of Canada and "while of course this is an appealing idea, it is difficult to put into action."

"Probably the people in Quebec will be torn between the two ideas, building Quebec or, so to speak, invading Canada. . . . What will be the outcome is hard to say. But I venture to say the difficulties encountered by Trudeau will be far greater than he expects. . . ."

Mr. Trudeau had to show Canada could be politically and economically independent of the United States. But "he is not alone in the game." He had to convince his cabinet colleagues and, anyway, Mr. Trudeau's own pronouncements were "ambiguous."

In the past it was sufficient to state that French and English were equal but "now he must not only state it, he must show it."

"English Canada is going to find that Trudeau will be quite a nuisance," said Mr. Morin.

'IN ORBIT'

Would a rejection of the new prime minister by English Canada have a profound effect on Quebec?

"It depends on whether he is accepted by Quebec," said the nationalist.

"He's regarded as not an average Quebecer or average Canadian. He's jet set, sort of inter-planetary, beyond being international, in orbit, feet not always down to earth.

"Personally I think he is profoundly French-Canadian, but one with means, financial and cultural, which the average Quebecer lacks. A wonderful specimen of an educated man. Perhaps this makes him a little impervious to the problems of the average man."

Mr. Morin said Lester B. Pearson was more "supple and subtle" than his successor The Ottawa conference in February, in which Mr. Trudeau played a leading role, resulted in the Quebec government adopting a toughening "let's-just-do-it" policy regarding matters in dispute with the federal government.

BELATED AWAKENING

Examples included establishment of an immigration department and Radio Quebec, and the Gabon incident.

"These show a definite tendency to use unilateral measures," said Mr. Morin. "I'm afraid we're in for a lot of that. We're getting into an internal cycle of unilateral action followed by unilateral gestures."

Lecturer in international law at U. of M., Mr. Morin comes from a long line of lawyers.

Educated at U. of M. and McGill, he took post-graduate work at the Law School of the Amerioas, Dallas, Harvard and Cambridge. Having lectured at University of Paris in 1962 and 1967, he was the first teacher of law exchanged between Canada and France.

The lean lawyer with the neat, trimmed beard was becoming a familiar figure to Montreal audiences even before the emergence of the Estates General six years ago.

"This is the tragedy," he said. "English Canada is awakening under pressure, but it took so long that it's probably too late."

BACKS SPECIAL STATUE

French-Canadians would have been immensely grateful in long-past years for the new concessions on bilingualism and biculturalism but today the question is:

"What powers will Quebec need to become a strong centre of French culture?

"No amount of biculturalism will smother this issue. As the French saying has it, 'il ne faut pas laisser la proie pour l'ombre' —do not let go the prey for the shadow, the shadow being bilingualism."

To a direct question on whether he is a separatist, Mr. Morin replied that he has defended the special-status option for five years. He added:

"I see Canada now as reflecting two opposite tendencies and needs—the tendency of English-speaking Canada toward greater centralization, and French-Canada towards broader self-government.

"The only rational way to solve that short of independence is special status. I have the impression, however, that this solution requires more rationality and generosity than can be found in English Canada, especially at the federal level."

POLITICAL PRISONERS SET FREE

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek government today released 100 political prisoners detained on the islands of Yaros and Leros since the army takeover a year ago.

Panayotis Tzevelekos, minister of public order, signed a decree for their release to mark the Greek Orthodox Easter this Sunday.

A statement by Press Minister Michael Sideratos earlier this month said there were 2,137 prisoners, mainly avowed Communists, held on the two islands. They are considered dangerous to public security.

A total of 6,848 persons were arrested following the army takeover but many were subsequently released by security committees and the authorities.

Abduction Charge Dismissed

Magistrate Ostler Wednesday dismissed an abduction charge against an Ontario doctor.

The magistrate said evidence led in the trial of Dr. Glen Gold Stewart "in no way supports the charge."

Dr. Stewart was charged with unlawfully detaining Craig Stewart in Oak Bay betweeen Dec. 26 and Jan. 3.

Court was told Dr. and Mrs. Stewart were divorced this year. A court order earlier awarded custody of their four children to Mrs. Stewart.

Dr. Stewart was given visiting rights.

Mrs. Kathleen Stewart testified her former husband took the children from her Oak Bay home Dec. 26.

"I next saw the children in the London, Ont., airport March 29," she said.

Dr. Stewart now practises in St. Thomas, Ontario.

Magistrate Ostler said "the Crown might have drafted two or three charges which the evidence might have supported, but this is not one of them."

Dr. Stewart was represented by Alan Bigelow.

Job-Finders Kept On Local Payroll

HALIFAX (CP) — The federal manpower department has cancelled its plans to eliminate 10 field workers employed in its pilot project in the city's north end, William C. Stewart, Atlantic regional director for the department, said today.

The decision to replace the 10 local citizens with professional counsellors raised a storm of protest in the city.

The Halifax Neighborhood Centre, which encouraged the experimental project to find jobs for persons living in a low employment area, was organizing a citizen's mass protest meeting and planning representations to various levels of government.

Mr. Stewart said today there had been some misinterpretation of facts about the situation.

He said he was conscious that it is most important that organizations which serve the public recognize the views and needs of the public they serve and adjust services accordingly.

A department spokesman said professional counsellors would work along with the 10 field officers. Three counsellors were already at work in the area.

The project, first of its kind in Canada, was set up by Manpower last July on a six-month trial basis with the understanding that if it succeeded similar centres would be established in other cities.

Eight men and two women, living in the community where the project was set up, were chosen as field workers on the basis of their initiative in trying to find jobs, personality, intelligence and potential.

Their average educational qualifications were not above Grade 8 and they were unemployed. They were trained by Manpower counsellors.

The field workers first made a house-to-house survey of the community and found more than 1,000 persons unemployed, many of them deemed unemployable because they lacked education and skills.

Employers in the area were approached, and by the end of March the field workers had placed 1,011 persons in jobs. In the meantime the project was extended another six months.

Robert J. McCleave, Halifax Conservative MP, says the advantage of the field workers is that they speak the same language and understand the problems of people in the community.

Mr. Bourgeois says the personal touch will be lost if professional counsellors take over.

John Arnott, executive director of the John Howard Society, agrees with Mr. Bourgeois that the ideal would be a combination of professional and community workers.

CANADIAN-BORN FLYER GETS HIGH U.K. POST

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian flyer with a fondness for skiing and bobsledding will be given a key position in Britain's new Air Strike Command April 30.

Air Commodare David George Evans, who joined the RAF as an airman in 1942, will be in charge of trials and tactics at strike headquarters at High Wycombe, about 40 miles west of London.

One of the youngest air commodores in the British service, Evans, 43, is a native of Windsor, Ont., where his father worked in an automobile plant. The family later moved to Toronto, where Evans got his schooling.

"My parents were British emigrants who decided to take up life in Canada," Evans recalled in an interview Wednesday. "Just before the Second World War they decided to come back to England and of course my sister and I came with them."

Power Boaters 'Predict' a Victory

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

The top competitive event for Northwest Power Boat skippers, the Gulf of Georgia Predicted Log Race, is set for Saturday, April 27.

Hewett

Four Victoria entries will be among the 40 anticipated starters in the 70-mile annual race, which starts in Vancouver Harbor and finishes at Nanaimo.

Perhaps the most demanding aspect of this ultimate test of navigational and seamanship skill is the pre-race strategy.

The night before the race, each skipper files his predicted log with the committee. This has involved a detailed study of charts and tide tables, combined with a thorough knowledge of his boat's performance under all conditions.

The log states intended starting time, intended speed and throttle setting (once set, the throttle cannot be touched) and estimated running time for each leg of the course. (The proposed course is plotted in ink on the charts.)

Boats will set their course to Point Atkinson Light, Porlier Pass, Trincomali Channel, Stuart Channel, through Dodd Narrows, to finish abeam Gallows Point Light. Skippers must pass within a stated distance of five control points along the route.

Starting times are staggered, depending on individual boat speeds, with the earliest departures before 8 a.m. Finish deadline is 4 p.m.

Each boat carries a neutral observer during the race. He checks the accuracy of the predictions, and has custody of all watches and timepieces except at the start of the race and within a five minute period after passing a control point.

The wisner of the Cromie Memorial Trophy will be the skipper completing the race with the lowest percentage error in his pre-race calculations.

The race will mark a double debut for Victoria Power Squadron skipper Ed Bergeron and his brand new 32-foot Grand Banks cruiser.

The first of her kind in Canada, the boat is designed primarily as an all coastal cruiser, with stress on utility and safety, particularly in rough waters.

She has a full displacement hull, constructed of 1⅛-inch mahogany planking.

Powered by a 120-h.p. diesel engine, the cruising range of the Grand Banks 32 is 1,000 miles, with speeds averaging 10 knots. For this race, however, skipper Bergeron will run at a constant eight knots.

Accompanying Bergeron on the Predicted Log Race will be Les Hale as navigator, and Jack Saywell as co-pilot. They will take Al Price with them to Vancouver as a neutral observer, but he will be assigned to another boat in the mainland city.

FIRST of her kind in Canada, this 32-foot Grand Banks cruiser will participate in the Gulf of Georgia predicted log race from Vancouver to Nanaimo on April 27. The boat is owned by Victorian Ed Bergeron.

Other Victoria entries are H. D. Middleton's Datopa, Jim Beattie's Doken, and John Bailey's Fascination.

SHORT TACKS: Winner of last year's Georgia Gulf race was Royal Vancouver Yacht Club's Len Sewell, who had a record low total error of 0.69 per cent ... Grand Banks Navigator Les Hale was neutral observer last year on board Bill Killam's second-place Porpoise III ... Archie McBride is the Victoria rep on the race committee ... Navigator for Jim Beattie will be Oliver Summers, who taught navigational mathematics to the RAF during the Second World War. Oliver is chief training officer for the Victoria Power Squadron ... Saturday is launching day for shore-stored sailboats at Royal Victoria Yacht Club ... Wind-up race for Turkey Head skippers goes on Sunday for the Colony Cup. The long-distance race is set for Albert Head or James Island, depending on weather ... Victoria Canoe and Kayak Club will voyage down the San Juan River this weekend.

CONSUMER ACT STIFFENS AD REGULATION

Consumer Protection Act amendments tightening up mortgage money advertising come into effect June 1, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday.

Under the amendments passed at the last legislative session, amoung of mortgage money received in cash by a borrower, amount of each instalment and total instalments must be set out by lenders.

A number of other provisions aimed at strengthening the act will also take effect June 1.

Two-Year Term

TORONTO (CP) — George Cressell, 37, of Edmonton, pleaded guilty to five charges of passing stolen cheques and one of possession here Wednesday and was sentenced to two years concurrent on each charge.

Free Atmosphere Blamed in Riots

RALTIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's top prison official says his efforts to build a progressive correction system were partially responsible for Wednesday's Central Prison riot in which six prisoners were killed.

But Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds plans no change from his relatively new policy of collecting the worst offenders at the maximum-security unit in Raleigh.

"We have to face up to the fact," he said, "that collecting trouble means trouble is going to occur."

The advantage of the regrouping, Bounds said, outweighs the risks.

He said that his system ensures that the "bulls"—extortionists, racketeers, assaulters, sexual offenders and other prisoners who have been terrorizing their fellow convicts—are removed from medium-security facilities throughout the state, allowing more rehabilitation in those units.

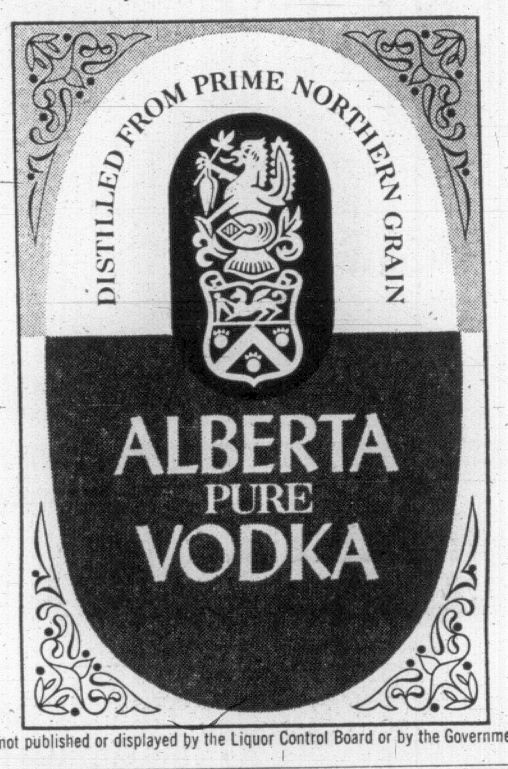

Five prisoners were killed and 78 wounded early Wednesday when guards fired shotguns into a crowd of more than 400 rioting prisoners. One of eight critically injured prisoners died late Wednesday night in hospital.

Bounds said the "root cause" of the trouble was administrative take-over of the prison handicraft industry. The system was operated by prisoners as a revenue source by making wallets and other leather goods for outside markets.

For the last 18 months Bounds' department has been classifying the prison system's 10,000 convicts. The worst offenders and those with the least potential for rehabilitation are collected at Central Prison here.

'KENNEDYS DON'T LOSE'

RFK Victory Theme Holds Seeds of Doubt

By DAVID S. BRODER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Among the unthinkable thoughts of American politics is the notion that somewhere, somehow, a Kennedy might lose. Practically speaking, that has never happened.

Once, back in 1956, John F. Kennedy lost the Democratic vice-presidential nomination to Estes Kevauver. But that was a freakish contest within the Democratic convention, occasioned by Adlai Stevenson's quixotic, last-minute decision to throw the office up for grabs. It was a fight that no one had time to prepare for, and within a few months, John Kennedy was being congratulated for his good luck in having no part in the defeat of the Stevenson ticket. So, in the folklore, it became not a defeat but a narrow escape—and thus the record is intact.

And what a record it is! From 1946, when John Kennedy won his first House primary, through 1964, when Robert F. Kennedy won election to the Senate from New York on the same day that Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy won re-election to the Senate from Massachusetts, the Kennedy men have gone before the voters, in primaries and general elections, at least 24 different times—with never a defeat.

In a good many of those contests, the Kennedy in question started as an underdog, but always, in the end, it has been the other man who has been shoved aside. Thus, the axiom: Kennedys don't lose.

And yet the subversive thought is stirring in the capital and the country that success is not inevitable for Robert Kennedy in his quest for the presidency this year.

Kennedy himself and his spokesmen have been spreading gloom about his chances of winning the first presidential primary he has entered, in Indiana on May 7.

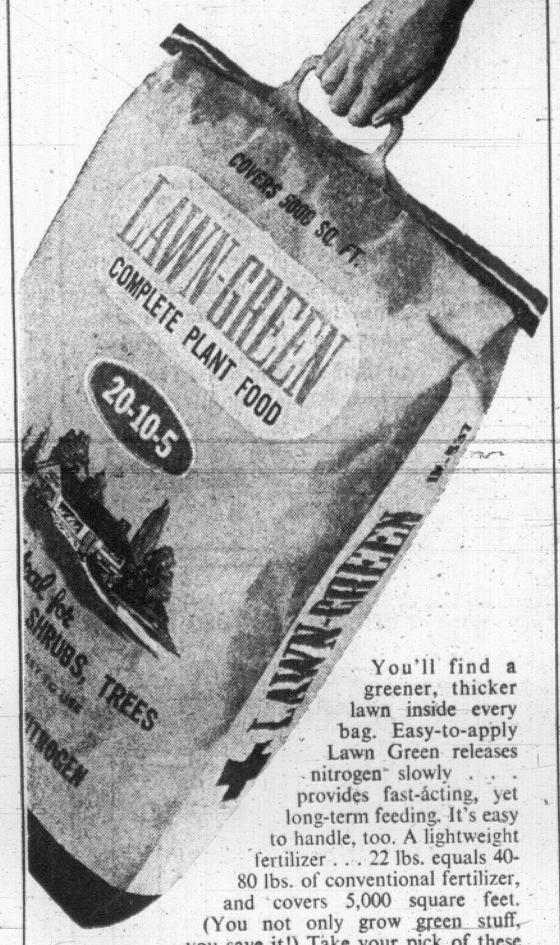

Fleet Air Arm Party Fizzles

LONDON (CP)—Newspapers reported today that plans for a cocktail party for Prime Minister Wilson at a fleet air arm base were dropped when only 48 out of several hundred personnel said they would attend.

The Daily Telegraph blames the cancellation on resentment against government spending slashes in the naval air service.

Pope's Hope: Youth Will Integrate World

VATICAN CITY (AP) Pope Paul voiced hope Wednesday that youth would lead the world toward racial integration.

In a letter to an international youth congress in West Berlin, he said that respect and guarantees for individual rights were basic if true peace in the world is ever to be achieved.

He described the wave of indignation that followed the killing of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., as a sign "of a better awareness by the man of today of the demands for universal brotherhood."

Although he praised modern youth for their strivings for peace and encouraged them to continue, he sounded a warning against the kind of student violence that has been sweeping Europe, most recently in Berlin itself and other West German cities.

"Peace is not built with violence," he said. "Christians cannot forget that Christ reconciled heaven and earth not by spilling the blood of others but of Himself."

Tomato Plant Yield 'Doubled'

The dwindling $475,000 hothouse tomato industry in Saanich has been given a shot in the arm by the Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton.

The two research officers responsible are Robert Adamson and Ted Maas who developed over a period of five years a method of growing tomatoes in sawdust instead of soil.

The plants are fed automatically by chemical nutrients.

Growers said today the commercial application of the sawdust culture has proved a success and may give Saanich the lead over the mainland in growing hothouse tomatoes.

The yield per plant is higher and losses from disease almost nil, they said.

Most operators have, or are about to change to the new method of greenhouse farming. Cucumbers are also expected to be grown in the same way in the next few years.

Clyde Snobelen, 3260 Shelley St., one of the largest operators of greenhouse sawdust culture, said the new method will make the industry one of the most efficient in the province.

SETS PATTERN

"The research station has set a pattern for growing tomatoes not only here but for the mainland," he said. "It's a revolutionary trend and its impact will be felt in the next few years."

Saanich is the only district in B.C. which has so far adopted the new method.

But it may not be long as mainland growers will visit the research station on May 1 to see and discuss the station's experiments.

Hothouse tomatoes was one of Saanich's most thriving industries, but it declined sharply in the '50s due to diminishing returns. This was mainly due to poor plant yields.

'SOIL WENT SOUR'

Soil used over and over again was the cause of the trouble. It gew sour and the plants became more susceptible to diseases.

Five years ago Mr. Adamson and Mr. Maas decided to remedy the situation. They started experimenting with growing plants in sawdust, feeding them with chemical nutrients.

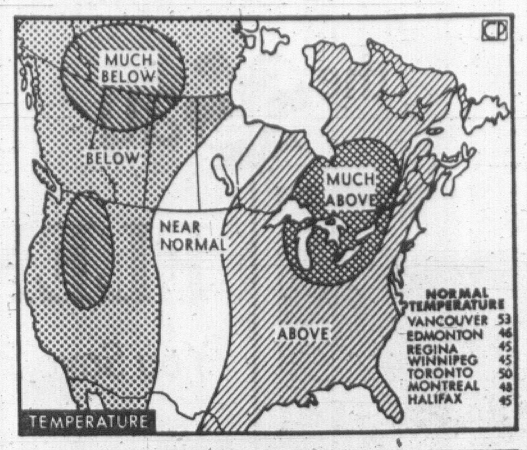

The results of the tests were outstanding. The yield per plant was between 10 and 14 pounds of tomatoes as compared with five and seven with those grown in soil.

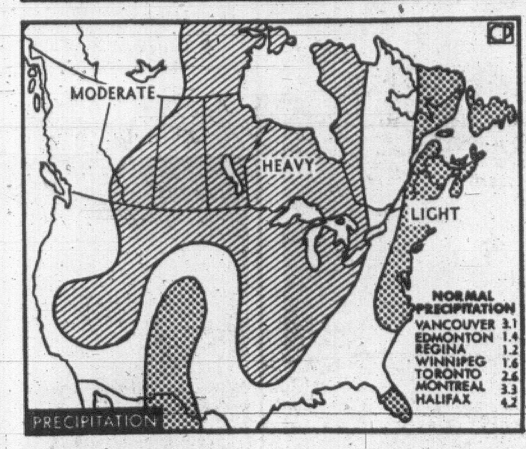

Plants given special care yielded 17 pounds per plant.

At first growers were reluctant to accept the findings of the two research officers because it meant switching to automatically operated greenhouse. Each plant would have to be fed individually by small plastic tubes attached to a main plastic pipe.

But the new method gained ground as it became apparent it was a more efficient way of growing tomatoes.

"Production is up about 60 per cent," said Mr. Snobelen. "We have had no trouble with diseases. It's cleaner and efficient."

WEST COASTERS can expect continuing cool spring days for the weeks to mid-May, according to long-range forecast of United States weather bureau. But easterners will have it warmer than average, as Canadian Press map shows. Rainfall will range from moderate on the west coast to heavy on the prairies and northwestern Ontario, to light in the Maritimes.

AT ESQUIMALT ARENA

Enthusiasm Runs High For Sportsman Show

Opening day crowds at the sportsman show Wednesday indicated the four-day run will be highly successful, sponsoring Saanich Kiwanis members said.

Enthusiastic crowds poured into Esquimalt Sports Centre for the displays, stage shows, movies, exhibitions and midway of the annual show.

A stage show of professional calibre entertained the audience.

Headlining the show were the Del Rios, a man-and-wife team from Australia who specialize in knife and hatchet throwing and rope twirling.

Magician Rudy Hayden and his wife Beverley put on a bird act, Fantasy in Feathers, that captivated the children.

The final professional act was a brother-and-sister unicycle act.

A gymnastic display by the Victoria Boys' Club was climaxed by a human pyramid.

Jailed for Year

VANCOUVER (CP) — Charles Huhtala, 59, who claimed he was too drunk to intend carrying on with a $1,080 bank robbery, was jailed for a year when he appeared in magistrate's court Wednesday. Magistrate Darrell Jones said Huhtala acted in a planned and premeditated fashion in composing a holdup note.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1968—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

One morning at breakfast on a day when Victoria's unique dewfall was bouncing about three inches off the driveway, we noticed that the water wasn't gurgling down the storm drain as it should.

"Hey," I said, "quite a little lake out there." Then, carefully skirting the edge of the overflow, I got into my car and went off to work.

It was still raining when I came home, but the lake was gone.

"Drained itself, eh?" I said to my dear one.

"Well, not exactly," she replied.

Later, I found a curious contraption in the garage. It looked to be a primitive sort of 'adle, made by lashing an empty soup can to a yard-long stick with a length of string.

It wasn't the sort of rig a man would whack up, so I took it indoors and asked Win if she knew anything about it.

"You know our lake," she said. "It kept spreading, so I phoned a plumber. He waded around for a while, then said we might have to take up some blacktop and maybe a strip of lawn to get at the trouble."

"So?" I asked.

"So I fixed up a dipper and dipped out a lot of mud and fir cones and twigs and stuff, and the lake drained in no time."

Me, I'd have grumbled, growled, and finally agreed that the blacktop must come up.

It's nice to have a woman around the house, and all the more so if, like me, you happen to be a man who has never mastered the practical approach to life's problems.

The other morning, for instance, I spent several minutes wrestling with a ketchup bottle top.

"No use," I said. "Wait while I find my lock-grip pliers."

The pliers had gone walkabout from their usual place in a kitchen drawer. I finally located them in my car trunk and returned to deal with the ketchup top.

It was off, and my partner was pouring a neat little dab beside my scrambled egg.

"I think you'd loosened it," she said with nice diplomacy. "All I had to do was hold it under hot water, then give it a few taps."

She had done the tapping with the handle of what used to be one of my screwdrivers. It's a milk can opener now, and has been since the day Win asked me if I would file it to a point for her.

She has several other improvised tools of this sort, and all have one thing in common . . . they work.

★

There are times—quite a few of them, in fact—when man's projects stand to benefit from the built-in practicality of his opposite number.

To her, no plan, procedure or detail is sacred. The end, not the means, concerns her.

Off and on for years, we discussed putting in a basement room-and-bath but never got to the point of action. Our basement wasn't shaped right, I insisted. The windows were in the wrong places, the idea wouldn't work. Finally we called in a smart builder. He took one look around, said, "No problem," and proceeded to do a bang-up job.

But there was one little problem, and it didn't show itself until the construction was well along.

The size of the bathroom was dictated by the space we had at our disposal . . . and to squeeze a tub that would accommodate anyone larger than a midget into it seemed entirely impossible.

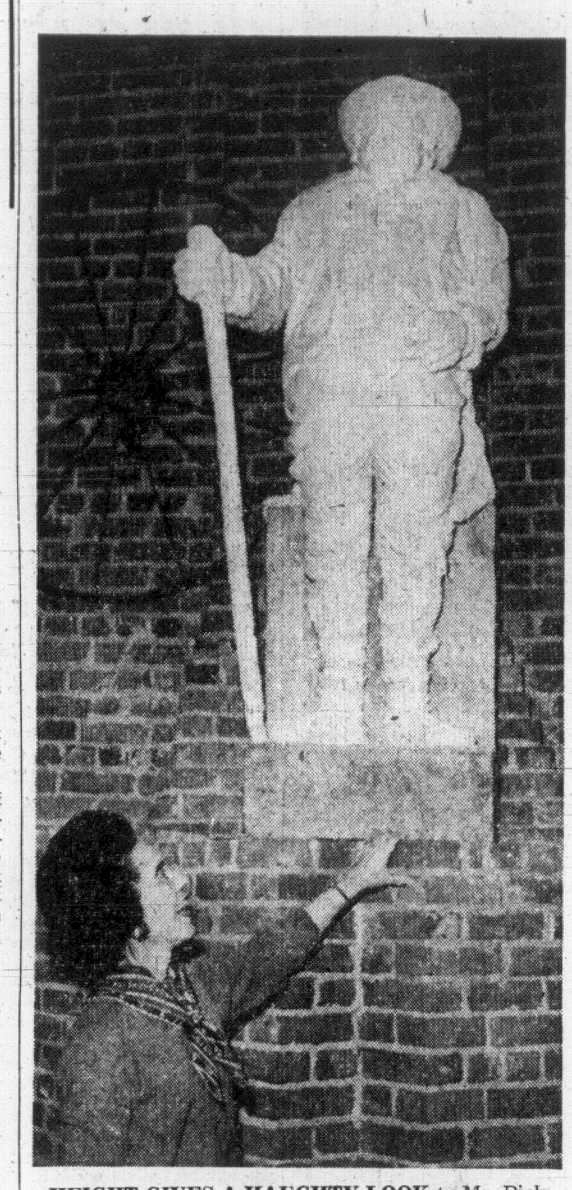

The builder, frowned, muttered, and drew frantic sketches on a handy scrap of lumber.

I stood around making foolish suggestions, like couldn't we maybe tilt the tub up at one end.

There was a way, but we didn't see it until female ingenuity, unconcerned with male planning but determined on results, trotted downstairs.

Why not, said she, just borrow a couple of feet off the end of the clothes closet?

We did, and it worked like a charm.

HEIGHT GIVES A HAUGHTY LOOK to Mr. Pickwick as Esther Leyden of Village Fair's Treasure Chest admires the sculpture. (Times photo).

Gentle Old Man Has Found a Home

By ALAN WHITE

Mr. Pickwick has come home. That indomitable old gentleman of fiction a century old is in his final resting place.

He stands serenely on a brick ledge overlooking the entrance to the Village Fair in Bastion Square. The concrete gentleman's dignity is unruffled despite his unceremonious treatment at the hands of city officials.

Left mysteriously at night in the doorway of city hall two weeks ago, the sculptured Dickens character was hauled straightaway to a city storage yard.

There he sat amidst machinery and dust, while city hall debated his fate. The sculptors at first declined to come forward.

Then Jerry Boultbee and Clinton Hull, students at the University of Victoria, disclosed their identity.

They had left Mr. Pickwick, a work of diligence and 1,200 pounds of concrete, because they didn't know how to present him to the city.

No one at city hall wanted the work. A motion to place it in Beacon Hill Park was also turned down — officials were afraid vandals would poke holes in the concrete, spread over a wire mesh frame.

Finally officials of London Wax Museum, who operate the Village Fair, decided they would take the vagrant gentleman.

The sculptors were happy to have a place for their work at last.

John Cockrill, sales manager for the firm, made the arrangements.

"We bailed him out of hock." (Cost of hauling and storage charges to the city yard—$25.)

"Then we had a neat job moving him," Mr. Cockrill said.

This morning a cartage firm brought the statue from its storage place. Workmen built a huge wooden platform in the lobby of the building and raised the work five feet to its shelf with a hydraulic lift.

At 11 this morning Esther Heyden of the Treasure Chest was vacuuming the last of the concrete dust from the floor.

Now Mr. Pickwick stands with his portly mien gazing over the pool below.

LOOK AROUND ALL YOU WANT BUT LEAVE CAMERAS AT HOME

It will be "open gangway" for the public who wish to visit the Australian missile-armed destroyer Brisbane Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m.

But no cameras will be permitted.

Brisbane, newly built at Boston, Mass., at a cost of $45 million, will arrive at Esquimalt base at 9 a.m. Friday.

Many social and sports events have been arranged for the 333 crewmen under Capt. A. A. Willis, prior to sailing time 9 a.m. Monday.

Subsidized High-Rise Rents Needed by Area Pensioners

Many pensioners are going short on food so they can pay rent increases, Mrs. Catherine Horn, executive director of the Victoria Silver Threads Service, said today.

"It is terrible that the pioneers of our country should have to starve themselves in order to live."

A high-rise apartment building for senior citizens with rents subsidized by federal and municipal governments would answer the problem, she suggested.

It should be downtown because old people like to be near the centre of things and don't want to take long bus journeys every day.

Mrs. Horne said the average pensioner lives on $120 a month and can't afford more than $50 for a room. Yet many today are paying $70 and $80 for inferior accommodation.

After this situation was reported in the Victoria Times recently, three families offered spare rooms to old people at less than $50 a month.

"We are most grateful for their generosity and we only wish there were more of them. But most people are out to make money these days.

"It would be wonderful if some imaginative statesman could get this going," she said of a down-town highrise for the elderly.

"It would have to be subsidized so that no room would be rented for more than $50 and no apartment for more than $70."

One 74-year-old widower, a member of the Silver Threads Centre, put it this way:

"The rent for my room has gone up three times since I retired nine years ago and I'm eating less than half of what I used to — mainly toast and cornflakes.

"But don't use my name — I've still got my pride, y'know."

City Firemen 'Highest Paid' In Canada

Eight Per Cent Increase in Pay

Victoria city firemen are now the highest paid firefighters in Canada.

But in gaining a close to 8 per cent pay hike they also lost $31 a month in statutory holiday pay.

City manager Dennis Young told the city's personnel committee this morning that a binding decision of a majority conciliation board award would boost the city's budget by $54,000.

"This award (6.76 per cent effective Jan 1. 1968 and 1.24 effective July 1) results in Victoria firemen being at this time the highest paid firemen in the whole of Canada," Mr. Young said.

But the high award will not mean a complete cash increase to firemen.

TAKE TIME OFF

In an attempt to hold costs in line Mr. Young said a $30,000 saving could be made this year and a $42,000 saving in subsequent years by forcing firemen to take time off in lieu of statutory holidays rather than receiving pay in lieu of official holidays.

"To date the city has chosen to pay the firemen for statutory holiday time, but as the cost to the city is extensive this approach can no longer be justified.

"The statutory holiday pay for 1967 amounted to $31 per month per man."

Mr. Young added that by cutting off statutory holiday pay as of April 1 the $54,500 wage increase would be reduced by $31,000 this year and $42,000 next year.

REDUCE STRENGTH

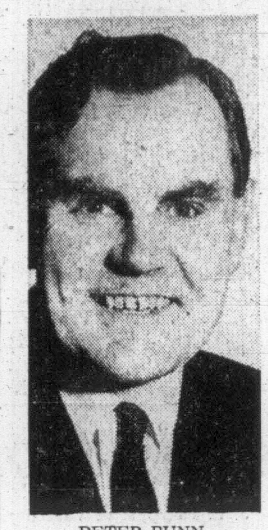

The holiday pay cut would reduce the number of men on shift by 1.5 men said Mr. Young but he stressed that such a reduction would not reduce the efficiency of the fire department.

With the pay increase versus the statutory holiday pay cut the actual increase in this year's fire department wage budget will be $23.500.

In making his report to the committee Mr. Young urged that in future years Greater Victoria municipalities exercise greater co-operation in wage negotiations.

"I cannot but stress the absolute necessity of co-ordinated wage negotiations if the interests of the taxpayers in the Greater Victoria area are to be adequately protected and the vicious practice of playing one municipality against another is to be prevented," Mr. Young said.

Saanich settled its labor negotiations with its fire department ahead of the city granting a 6.76 per cent increase to fourth year firemen and a considerably reduced award to ranks below fourth year.

Public System Would Get 1,500

Roman Catholic church and school authorities here are considering the curtailment of separate school operations in Victoria.

The most drastic result—closure of existing Catholic elementary and secondary schools—could mean the diversion this September of up to 1,500 pupils into the already crowded public schools system of the capital area.

However, although this step is being mooted in some church circles, Monsignor Michael T. O'Connell today said the matter is still an open question and beyond official comment.

"The whole thing is being discussed this week and next. We're studying the whole situation and we've been working on it all week."

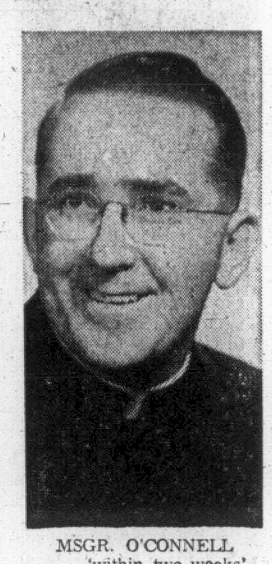

Msgr. O'Connell, speaking in the absence of Bishop Remi de Roo, who is in Montreal, said he anticipates a decision may be made "within two weeks."

He said he regrets necessary delays in broaching the matter with local school board officials, who could be faced with a need for emergency provincial assistance. He thought full closure should still be regarded as a "remote possibility."

Background his comment are these reports from other sources:

Two weeks ago the parent-teacher association at Sacred Heart, one of the larger separate elementary schools, voted to close the school after pupils are released for summer holidays. Parents said the school is costing more money than they can afford.

(Under the B.C. school system, church and private schools receive no government subsidies. Government grants and local property owners, including Catholics, support construction and operation of public schools.)

MSGR. O'CONNELL
. . . 'within two weeks'

'Decision in Hands of Senate'

A school spokesman, Jim Wood, would not confirm the outcome of the vote and said the whole matter "is in the hands of the senate."

It was also unofficially learned that plans, announced last year, for renovation of St. Louis College, have also met difficulty.

Bishop De Roo announced one year ago that a new high school for 500 boys would be created on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy and the student body from St. Louis would transfer there.

The 16 to 20-room school would cost $500,000 in its initial stages, the money to be raised by voluntary donations. St. Louis, which has operated here since 1864, would assume a new role, as St. Andrew's Cathedral elementary school.

But donations have been slower than anticipated and it is now thought unlikely that either project would meet the target date for opening in September.

Some church people believe that if Sacred Heart and the St. Louis-St. Andrew's projects are dropped, there is a likelihood that St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's, St. Ann's and St. Andrew's (an earlier school using that name), also would close.

The Catholic school system here now instructs 1,000 children in elementary and about 400 in high school classes.

The possibility of full closure was mentioned also today by Michael J. Griffin, chairman of St. Andrew's Cathedral board of directors.

This week it was decided that all church schools should come immediately under a regional authority in hope that by sharing services and consolidating space, Sacred Heart might be retained, he said.

He said a new financing formula has been established with regard to the St. Louis project.

He added, "Should this new financing formula be unacceptable to the Diocesan Senate, and soon, then indeed the grim prospect of closure must be faced up to and our children forced to find other accommodation."

Sufficient to Warrant Proceeding

He said the St. Louis building fund campaign was now drawing to a close and "while not as successful as had been hoped, has been of sufficient substance to warrant proceeding.

"The architects' working plans and specifications are practically complete and the vast majority of the Catholic people want us to get on with the job.

"To abandon St. Louis College and with it (experience) the departure of the Christian Brothers of Ireland, is unthinkable."

He said St. Andrew's Cathedral has over the years acquired sufficient acreage to permit the contemplated school expansion and the board has every intention of lending full financial and moral support to the school. Much depends on acceptance of the board's financing formula by the senate, he indicated.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn today said that District 61 trustees had been aware of the decision reached by parents at Sacred Heart. But the possibility of a complete closure of separate school facilities was a new consideration.

"If such a possibility exists there would have to be immediate high level discussions with the department of educations," he said.

He described the local public school accommodation situation as "tight as a drum."

Administrators are anticipating an additional 800 pupils in the system next September resulting from normal growth. The provincial government's current slow-down on school construction has led the Greater Victoria district to predict it will be short 28 classrooms next fall.

Mr. Bunn said the board will not really know what it is up against until schools open in September because of population shifts over the summer.

"Our own situation is very much dependent on whether or not we get successful tenders on the 13 portable classrooms we have out to tender at this time."

The department of education has set a cost limit of $15,000 each on these and there is some doubt whether they can be built for this.

The board chairman said that in the event of a major influx from the separate school system, "the sooner we have some firm information to go on, the sooner we can act. Time is of the essence."

Initially the school board might talk in terms of renting the existing separate school facilities as a stop-gap measure. But it would be up to the board's senior administrators to assess the situation and make recommendations.

Her Wish Comes True In Colombia

Dr. Pauline Beregoff-Gillow, formerly of 3295 Beach Drive, Victoria, has established a preventorium at Colombia, South America, in memory of her late husband, Arthur Stanley Gillow.

Mr. Gillow died at their Victoria home in 1965.

Dr. Beregoff-Gillow, who was born in Russia, campaigned ceaselessly for the establishment of preventoriums in Canada, but was unsuccessful. She left here for South America in 1966, declaring she would carry on her mission there.

"They have had preventoriums in Russia for years," she said, "and they have more than proved their worth. They are clinics where people receive periodic check-ups, treatment and advice without the need for entering hospital.

"In other words, they are taught how to cure themselves."

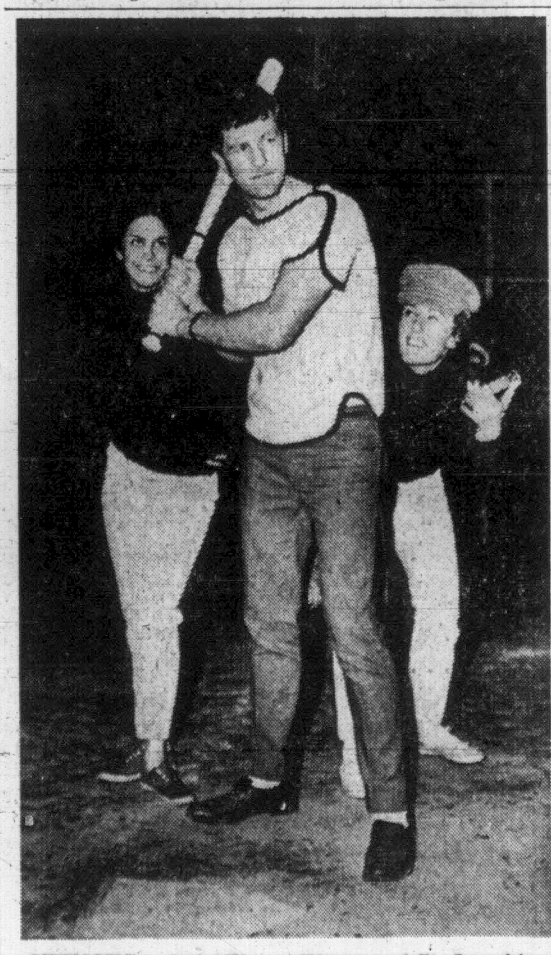

Greater Victoria, she delcared should have preventoriums in every municipality to ease the load on the hospitals.

The preventorium which Dr. Beregoff-Gillow has established at Colombia will be opened by the president of the republic on May 5 at 10 a.m.

Woman Driver Hurt In Downtown Crash

A woman was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and released this morning after a rush hour crash at Blanshard and View.

Police report Vera Rogers, 3191 Admirals, received ankle injuries when the car she was driving north collided with a southbound car driven by Bruce Olson, 113 Gorge Road East.

Dolores Smith tries charm but Donna Trueit takes a more basic approach. Game, which was played last night at Beacon Hill Park, may become an annual event if hospital doesn't run out of thick-skinned orderlies. (Times photo by Robin Clarke.)

City May Sell Several Lots At 'Castle'

Tentative agreement to proceed with the sale of city-owned land to pave the way for a town-house apartment development was made today by the Victoria city land's committee.

The property involved includes part of the Spencer Castle grounds and several city-owned adjoining lots.

Spencer Castle will remain intact if the development goes through.

Ald. Robert Baird said he shuddered to think of a garden apartment-type development on top of a mountain. (The area involved is close to the Smith's Hill reservoir.)

He described an artist's impression of the development as looking like "a pile of junk," and added that he would rather see high-rise towers built than a three-storey apartment block housing "cliff-dwellers."

ASKS GUARANTEE

Ald. Lily Wilson said she would go along with the proposal providing the city could be guaranteed a quality building.

"I would never agree to high-rise apartments in that area," she said.

Ald. Ian Stewart assured the committee that with the sale of city land involved the city could insist on standards of design.

"We are not talking about cheap accommodation here, but high-quality accommodation," he said. "We should not confuse this development with a row housing development — which many garden apartments turn out to be. This is an interesting type of living which is just coming to the west coast. The city can build in safeguards to make sure the design and the whole layout is of the highest quality."

Before the project can go ahead the city will have to conclude the land sale transaction and change the zoning for the area.

NINETY-NINE GUIDES AND RANGERS RECEIVE TOP HONOR

Lieutenant-Governor Presents Gold Cord Awards

Juan de Fuca and Greater Victoria Divisions of Guides and Rangers have produced a bumper crop of eight Gold Cord candidates this year, who, along with members of the movement from other parts of British Columbia, attended the annual Gold Cord ceremony at Government House Wednesday afternoon.

The ceremony followed a luncheon at the Empress Hotel at which Mrs. George R. Pearkes was guest of honor, along with Mrs. K. B. Clysdale, Canada's chief commissioner of Guides, and J. S. Kendrick of Vancouver.

Mrs. Clysdale, is making her first official visit to British Columbia.

Later the Lieutenant Governor presented the coveted awards to 99 guides and rangers from all over the province, including local guides, Kathy Mann, Jane Oliver, Peggy Lazaruk, Linda Miller, Levica Brook, Diane Clarke, Heather Hobbis and Linda Sanford.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Clysdale met members of the local Guide association, area committee, and guiders at a coffee party in the new Guide Hall on Mason Street.

During the party she presented the Medal of Merit to area commissioner Mrs. H. P. McKeever, who has had many years of experience in guiding both in Ireland and in Victoria.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Itching, Rash Often Caused By Unsuspected Allergies

Puffy red eyes, sudden rashes or red blotches on the skin, or itching skin may come from unsuspected allergies. Of course any such symptoms should be investigated by your physician because there are many other causes.

Lowman

It is amazing how many different items can cause certain sensitive individuals trouble. Some are allergic to wools, a small percentage to nylon, some to dyes of different kinds, others to various foods, some to most soaps, some to the metal used in earrings or necklace fastenings. The list is endless!

Fortunately, only a small percentage of women are allergic to the usual cosmetics. However, when they are it is most disturbing and often difficult to pinpoint without extensive tests. For this reason I believe that any of you who need help will be interested in the following information.

According to the noted dermatologists Sidney J. Robbins, M.D. and Stephanie H. Robbins, M.D. in their book "1001 Questions and Answers to Your Skin Problems" (published by Harper and Row), the following items are some of those you should suspect.

If you have rashes on your face suspect hair sprays, rubber sponges used to apply makeup, hair dyes, rubber bands in hair nets, mouth washes, toothpaste, toothbrushes, cigarette holders, nosedrops and sprays and ointments. Also nail polish, because you often touch your face with your fingers. Eyeglass frames may also be the troublemakers.

On the neck, jewelry, furs, scarves, hair dyes and sprays may cause trouble.

On the armpits, deodorants, anti-perspirants and dress shields.

On the hands, beware of soap and detergents, rubber gloves, plastic (fountain pens and steering wheels) and various cleaning materials.

On the feet and legs, nylon or rubber stockings, rubber garters or their nickel fastenings, depilatories or soaps used in shaving the legs, leathers, dyes and glues and cements used in shoes.

Many women do not realize that they can use the same cosmetic for years without any difficulty and then suddenly develop a sensitivity to it. In that case try another brand, for a while anyway.

Those of you who have trouble with allergies would be wise to try one of the cosmetic lines whose products are designed especially for you. There are several good ones.

If you would like the names of good cosmetics designed especially for people with allergies, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the list to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Gift of Water-Pipe Just a Pipe-Dream?

By Penny Saver

What the girls thought I could do with a water-pipe is quite beyond my understanding. My eldest and her best friend snuck into the house one day last week carrying a small, but obviously mysterious box. For the next few hours they burst into muffled laughter every time I looked their way. I decided that to be curious would put me at a disadvantage and heroically kept myself from asking what was wrong. However I kept my eye on the mysterious bundle — especially when it suddenly broke in half and half disappeared. The solution to the mystery came on Easter Sunday when I was presented with a superbly wrapped gift by a still giggling daughter. Both she and her friend, in collusion with the rest of the family, had bought their mothers water-pipes for Easter.

As I have said, I have no idea what I should do with my pipe, but my husband had a novel suggestion — smoke it! This pipe is much more dainty than the average water-pipe or hooka. The body of the pipe is made of amber glass moulded with a tube running down the centre and another coming off the side. A briar bowl with a rubber gasket to give it a tight seal is placed on the top while a nylon or hard plastic bit, also fitted with a gasket, attaches to the side tube. When the body is partly filled with water and a fire started in the bowl, the smoke can be forced through the water, cooking it and removing some of the tars. These hookas stand less than a foot tall when assembled and can be held in the hand to smoke. They cost $5.95. My husband filled mine with tobacco right away and insisted I try a puff. Admittedly it is much better than one of his pipes, but I refuse to be a convert to the ranks of pipe-smokers.

This Cuts Down Smoker's Budget

While I'm on the subject of smoking, I noticed one of my husband's friends "rolling his own" the other day and was intrigued by the little device he used. "Once I found out I'd never qualify as a cowboy, I stopped attempting to roll with my fingers," he told me when I asked about it. "But I still thought home-rolled were better and cheaper than packaged cigarettes." The solution to his problem came with the little 35 cent roller he now owns. Consisting of a metal frame and rubber apron, it makes just one cigarette and fits easily in the pocket. I was surprised to find that a similar model, also 35 cents, will roll a filter into a cigarette. The roller comes with an initial supply of filters.

The children bought their father an Easter gift that pleased me as much as him. It was a leather travelling case for his pipe. When he travels he takes two, one in his mouth and one in his suitcase. At least one shirt always used to end up marked with tobacco ash. This Portuguese import has a zipper around the bowl end of the case. It is fairly rigid to protect the pipe from pressure that might crack it. The case costs $3.95.

Determination to Paint Again Helps Artist After Accident

By JOANNE DREWRY

"I feel quite convinced that had it not been for my painting I would not have made the recovery from my accident that I did."

In 1961 Mrs. T. A. Walters studied art at the Instituto Allende in the city of San Miguel d'Allende in Mexico. Painting for the past 16 years, she was a student at this school for the better part of four years.

Her studies were brought to a sudden end when one day while swimming, she dove into a Mexican river, hit a rock and broke her neck.

For three years she was in hospital in Montemorelos, Mexico, then in McAllen, Texas, and then at the Richmond Heights nursing home in Victoria. And during all these years it was her love for painting that gave her the major impetus to recovery.

Paralyzed from the neck down ("and even the tip of my nose" she adds) it would appear that the obstacles to her painting again would be insurmountable.

FIRST PRIORITY

She explains, "The doctors always told me that if I would exercise I could comb my own hair and clean my own teeth. My reply was, 'I want to paint and nothing else will satisfy me.' I guess my order of priorities was a little different from theirs."

"The doctors at the Mexican hospital encouraged me in every way possible. The principal doctors and physicians were American and very alive to the idea of rehabilitation. They devised ways to support my arms so I could paint with a minimum of effort.

"I used to paint rather quickly. I paint very slowly now and it takes me several days to do a painting instead of my being able to do it in one quick swish."

"I had to develop my own system. As long as a painter knows how much she can do at one time—doing one section that won't interfere with the rest—it's not too difficult."

Describing her painting as "realism filtered through a personal vision" Mrs. Walters has had to make many changes in style and technique as well as in methods of painting. "I had to learn to think left-handed! After the accident I could use only my left hand anyway, so I didn't have much difficulty learning to work with it. But when you're planning a picture, I don't suppose you'd ever realize it, but you "think" right-handed. I still can't work from all my old sketches because sometimes I find that I'm painting myself into a corner and I can't extricate myself. It's frustrating at times, but very interesting."

"Prior to the accident I did black and white drawings with much finer detail than I use now—much more controlled work. I still concentrate on landscapes, buildings, and scenery but I work entirely in water colors, concentrating more on color, and form than on intricate detail.

"I go on sketching expeditions every chance I get in the summer. My favorite spots are Saxe Point, I love to go out to Ten Mile Point, or the top of Mount Douglas before it gets too hot, or the waterfront at Beacon Hill. You could go to a different place for a year in Victoria and always find something new to paint.

"I'm lucky to have such marvellous nurses. They're truly my other hands. We've just moved house and I haven't been painting much the past few weeks with all the activity, but it's just an interruption, not a halt. As soon as the apartment is organized I'll be working again."

Fashions of Yesteryear Revived in Italian Shows

FLORENCE (AP) — Italy's designers appeared to have spent hours pouring over their fashion history books in preparation for their boutique shows in the Pitti Palace Wednesday.

The models swayed down the runway costumed like a crowd of extras from the movies of 30 years ago.

In their clinging crepe gowns, white fox furs and platinum blonde wigs, they might have been so many stand-ins for Ginger Rogers, Veronica Lake and all the other movie queens of yesteryear. Even such details as the tilt of a hat or the snap of a buckle were faithfully reproduced.

Billy Ballo's collection was the '30s through and through—grey squirrel clutch coats worn over drape-bodice dresses in soft printed silks. Sleeves were set in with the raised shoulders to keep long-strapped handbags from slipping off the shoulder.

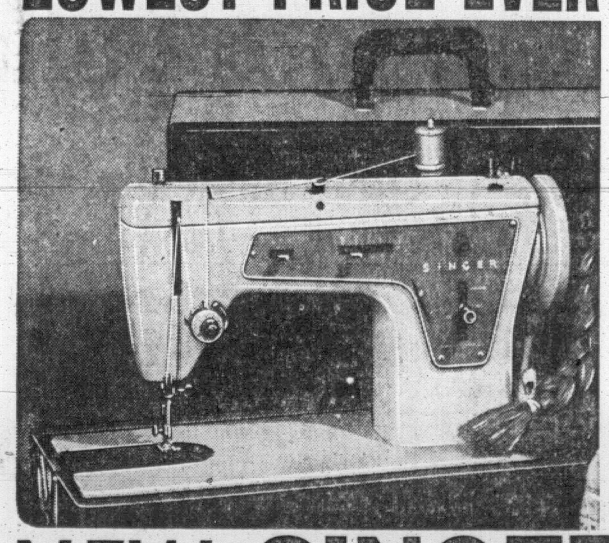

More wearable were Eguzquiza's simple V-neck jumpers with a row of bride's buttons running down the front. With them were turtleneck shirts in white nun's veiling with jewel buttoned cuffs.

Valditevere chose rust and indigo for handsome hand-woven fabrics fashioned into lovely layabout clothes that were perfect for leisurely weekends—tweedy jump suits, tunics belted over maxi-skirts or those new calf-length pants that have cropped up continually at these Italian showings.

Grey and white with a flash of flag red starred at Ferragamo.

SURVIVAL OF FITTEST?

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

A recent Canadian Press story from London reports that a British food firm has published a report on holiday eating habits in Britain, "and what it all adds up to is that Britons will put up with almost anything."

Visitors to the land of soft-boiled cabbage and dishwater coffee have known this all along, but, generally, manage to keep politely silent until they leave.

One traveller writing from England warned:

"I would advise anybody who wants to drink coffee in England to mention beforehand how many cupfulls should be made from half an ounce, otherwise he will get an atrocious mess of brown water set before him, such as I have not yet been able to avoid in spite of all my admonitions."

The traveller was C. P. Moritz, a German pastor, writing nearly 200 years ago. And English restaurants are still serving the same revolting brew.

Pastor Mortiz, who was on a walking tour of Britain in 1772, also describes the mid-day meal:

"Here they content themselves generally with a piece of half-boiled or roasted meat and a few green cabbages boiled in nothing else but water, on which is poured a sauce concocted of flour and butter. This, I assure you, is the general way they prepare vegetables!"

Pastor Moritz obviously doesn't expect to be believed, but most present-day visitors will agree. Cabbage is still a thing to be avoided. (It isn't EASY to avoid, but one can push it daintily to the side and concentrate on the edible things, if any.)

In all fairness one must admit it is possible to get a very good meal in Britain — occassionally even in a restaurant but more often in homes of those rare English-women who care about cooking.

Even Pastor Moritz found one delicacy on his travels:

"The slices of bread and butter given to you with tea are as thin as poppy-leaves, but there is a way of roasting slices of buttered bread before the fire which is incomparable. One slice after another is taken and held to the fire with a fork until the butter is melted, then the following one will always be laid upon it so that the butter soaks through the whole pile of slices. This is called 'toast'."

Our family made no such exciting gastronomical discoveries, except that the children considered English iced lollies superior to Canadian popsicles. I believe this was because the rewards for sending in wrappers were greater.

One more similarity between 1772 and 1967, when we were in England. The British don't like people to be hungry except at certain times of the day, mostly inconvenient.

In 1772 Pastor Moritz was rudely refused service late at night at an inn, and had to walk another five miles before finding food.

In 1967, a British solicitor was suing a hotel which had refused to serve him and his wife after a car accident had unfortunately delayed them beyond regular dining hours.

Work of Organization Demands Further Expansion

VON TO APPLY FOR MORE SPACE

Need for extra office space for the board of management of the Victorian Order of Nurses has resulted in application for offices on the second floor of Spencerhouse when it is vacated later in the year, it was announced at the board's monthly meeting.

Senior nurse Miss Betty Short reported that nurses had made 2,204 visits to patients in March, including 70 night calls. Other duties included conferences at hospitals, lectures on mental health, instruction to student nurses and regular counselling at the Silver Threads centre.

Mrs. Charles Simpson, newly-elected president, reported that the theme of the recent provincial annual meeting in Surrey had included both reminiscences of past pioneer work of the Order and discussion of future efforts. The Order hopes these will be in the fields of mental health and more complete professional home care.

Guest speaker, Dr. G. D. Cameron, retired federal deputy minister of health, also stressed that nurses attracted to service in the VON had a special integrity and devotion to their profession not easy to find.

"Cherish your nurses," was his advice.

Member passed a sincere vote of thanks to the auxiliary for all its work in convening the recent successful rummage sale which realized a total of $1,100.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Let Daughter Feather Own Nest

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My 21-year-old daughter is moving into her own apartment, and she claims that the furniture in her bedroom, the piano, and some other items are hers to take along because I bought them for her—like her clothes.

I feel guilty not letting her take take these things, because although I did buy them for her, they were for her convenience and comfort only as long as she lived at home.

Abby, if all my other children decided to move out and take their bedroom furniture, desks, etc. with them, I would be left with an empty house, and I certainly can't afford to refurnish right now.

Have times changed so much in 25 years? When I left my mother's home, it never would have occurred to me to take anything but my clothing.

Please answer this in your column for other parents who must have been faced with this same problem.

B. B. J.

DEAR B. B. J.: You have no reason to feel guilty. Any mother's "child" who is old enough to leave home, should not expect to take half of "home" with her.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my sister had the flu, so I went to her house to help her out. I did her laundry and when I went to put it in her linen closet, I couldn't help but notice an unusually large supply of soap and toothpaste. The were "free samples"—the kind I recently got in the mail, addressed to "occupant."

My sister's husband is a postman, so this might give you a clue. Another thing I noticed, they have every magazine under the sun and they all have little square "holes" on the covers where the names and addresses have been cut off.

If these magazines and all those free samples of soap and toothpaste are undeliverable, I'm sure there are plenty of institutions that could use them.

If my brother-in-law is typical of all postmen, they must be the cleanest, sweetest-smelling men in town.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: I smell something — and it's not your brother-in-law. Ask your sister if she can explain the "free goods."

DEAR ABBY: for "Likes 'Em Real." who got in such a flap over foam-rubber fannies, etc., and suggested "truth in packaging," or verification cards for the ladies, may I suggest one for the gentlemen, too? One might read:

Hair: Natural color—Gray. Uses hair color. Also wears hair piece to cover baldness.

Eyes: Near-sighted. Wears contact lenses.

Teeth: Dentures (lost his own when hit in the mouth, after the "pinch test" for rubber fannies.)

Shoulders: Natural width—32". With padded shoulders in jacket—44."

Chest: Actual measurement—32". With abdominal belt—44".

Waist: Actual measurement—44". With abdominal belt—32"

Height: Actual—5'8". With elevated shoes—6'1".

Many men could be in trouble under the same law, if it were passed. Right? M.R.M.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

COOKING CAN BE FUN

By MARY MOORE

A Meal Designed for Beginners

At the beginning of each week in the first quarter of 1968 I have tried to give a cooking lesson here for the benefit of teen-agers and young brides. I hope you have clipped and filed them.

Moore

(Incidentally it has pleased us mightily to hear from experienced cooks saying they appreciate these refresher courses.)

Now I feel that you young people can prepare a complete dinner. On some bright Saturday morning tell your family you want to do it all alone and then give yourself plenty of time (at least two hours) to prepare this menu for four people. All necessary groceries should be bought in advance.

BEGINNERS' TEST DINNER

Chilled Vegetable Juice. Fried Chicken (March 18). Glazed Carrots (March 18). Apple Crisp (April 1). Creamy Gravy (March 18). Perfect Mashed Potatoes (Jan. 15). Pouring Cream, Tea.

First Step: Make Apple Crisp and put it in oven. (Note: If it is in oven longer than 45 min. no harm is done.)

Second Step: Prepare and dry chicken. After you have reduced heat and covered to simmer proceed with—

Third Step: Wash, pare and cook potatoes.

Fourth Step: Prepare glazed carrots.

Fifth Step: Make Chicken Cream Gravy.

Important Note: While you are presiding over the preperation of dinner, ask your brother or sister (or new husband!) to set the table, pour the juice, make the tea and light the candles.

Sixth Step: Mash potatoes.

Seventh Step: Heat platter, vegetable bowls, gravy boat and plates in warming oven or under hot water. Arrange chicken on platter, tip vegetables into bowls, pour gravy into gravy boat or bowl and carry all, including plates, to table where your expectant family should be politely waiting.

Eighth Step: Remove Apple Crisp from oven but keep it warm until dessert time.

Keep your cool. Consider yourself "One Of Us."

Introducing Entrance Floor Polish

Quite modestly, it's the best, clear, self-polishing, detergent-resistant floor wax—bar none!

How do we know? It took 2 million steps to prove it. People stepped on it in high heels, low heels, brogues and workboots . . . still Entrance kept its shine, resisted scuffing and marking. We tested Entrance Floor Polish commercially for one year before offering it to you. We proved it on office floors, lobbies and entrances to hardheaded businessmen. It was a tough test but Entrance came through looking great. One coat will give a higher gloss to your floor than any other wax and for better protection you can apply additional coats immediately. Entrance costs a little more than ordinary floor polishes but you'll use less of it, less often.

Next time you buy floor wax, make it Entrance. It's a better floor polish than any you've used before . . . bar none!

AT KHE SANH

VC Withdrawal Unchallenged

SAIGON (AP) — A senior U.S. officer said Wednesday American forces that lifted the siege of Khe Sanh made no effort to block the withdrawal of the North Vietnamese because "militarily it was unwise and a waste of troops."

"They had dozens of escape routes," said the officer. "They could always go around you. . . . We would have needed three divisions of troops.

"Our objective was to lift the siege of Khe Sanh."

Senior U.S. officers have said that air strikes, the most concentrated in any way, were the main factor in breaking the 77-day siege of the base near the demilitarized zone. The siege was declared lifted April 5 as a 20,000-man relief force drew close to the base and its marine defenders.

A U.S. intelligence memorandum is being circulated among top officers of Gen. William C. Westmoreland's staff giving a brief summation of the siege.

CLAIM 3,300 VICTIMS —

It says that by the end of March American ground forces had killed more than 2,000 of the North Vietnamese and an additional 1,300 were killed by air strikes.

The operation to lift the siege of Khe Sanh was begun April 1.

Military sources said that after the siege was lifted and ground troops began sweeping the area around the base, they uncovered nearly 1,000 North Vietnamese bodies, victims of air strikes and artillery.

The U.S. command announced today that U.S. marines and air Vietnamese troops in two weeks of April—during the lifting of the siege and the succeeding sweep of the mountains and valleys around the base.

U.S. losses were put at 92 killed and 667 wounded.

Roll Out Barrel At Home?

Attorney-General Robert Bonner says he has no objections to B.C. drinkers rolling out the barrel at home.

But so far no brewery has come forward with a proposal to market a home style beer barrel, he said.

At the moment only licensed premises can purchase barrelled beer.

Small aluminum kegs of beer are available for home consumption in the U.S. "but no one has come up with the idea in Canada yet," Mr. Bonner said.

"If somebody comes along with a proposal I see no reason why it should not be possible here," he added.

Mr. Bonner was queried on the subject just before departing for his Cariboo constituency for several days.

Boat Basin At West Bay Under Study

Victoria fishermen may get a new boat basin at West Bay to relieve the present overcrowding at Fisherman's Wharf on Erie Street.

Federal Public Works Minister George McIlraith says the new basin is now under study by officials of his department.

"It is still in the review stage," he writes, "and it will not be possible to proceed with the project during the current fiscal year. However, consideration of the proposed boat basin will be included in the department's future planning."

The minister was replying to a letter from R. B. Foster, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria local, Pacific Trollers' Association.

Last year the association sent a petition to the government in Ottawa drawing attention to "serious overcrowding" at Fisherman's Wharf and the fact many Victoria fishermen have to go to Sidney and Sooke to berth their boats.

"We also drew attention to the fire hazard involved by crowding too many ships into one wharf," Mr. Foster said. "The minister's letter gives hope that the situation will be remedied."

Taxi Rider Awaits Sentence

A man who took an $8 taxi ride, asked the driver to wait, and then left after paying only $2, pleaded guilty Wednesday to false pretences.

Court was told Gordon McKay, 2665 Florence Lake, took a cab from the downtown area to Brock Ave. and the Trans-Canada Highway Feb. 24. He gave the driver $2 and asked him to wait while he collected some clothing from his home before returning to Victoria.

After a half-hour wait, the driver called RCMP who located McKay in a nearby house.

Magistrate Ostler remanded McKay to April 24 for sentence.

Nematode Lab Gets High Commendation

A visiting U.S. scientist said Wednesday the federal department of agriculture soil testing and survey station at Victoria International Airport was the best he had seen for golden nematode work.

Dr. M. B. Harrison of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., was a member of a group of scientists from all parts of the world who were shown what is being done to control and eradicate the microscopic worm in Saanich.

Nematodes sap the vigor from potato and tomato plants.

The scientists were intrigued by the methods used here to remove nematode eggs from dried soil.

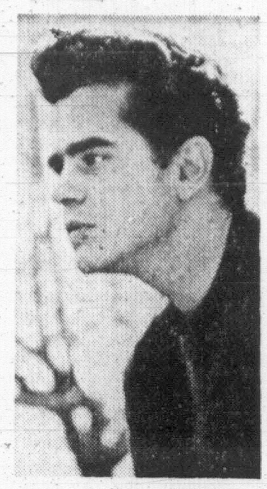

The group has returned to Vancouver where they will visit other research facilities.

WRONG MAN, RIGHT NAME, GOES FREE

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The wrong man used the right name and walked out of the Salt Lake City-County Jail.

Police Capt. Don D. Roberts said a jailer Wednesday called out the name of a prisoner to be released. James Nicholas Katros, 20, of Denver, Colo., identified himself as the man and was allowed to walk out of the jail, leaving the right inmate asleep on a cot.

Roberts said the department will use photographs next time.

CANADIAN artist - photographer-writer Roloff Beny, 44, knows what it is like to be suspended in eternity, after falling part way over 1,800-foot precipice in India. Medicine Hat-born Beny was in northeast India last week gathering material for a book when he slipped on a sodden lichen-covered rock on the gorge of Cherapunji Falls, 11 times higher than Niagara. He was stopped from plunging to the bottom when — still clutching his camera — he became tangled in vines up which he clambered to safety.

Brothers Admit Five Break-ins

Two Sooke juveniles, age 14 and 11, admitted five break-ins in the Sooke area when they appeared Tuesday in Family and Children's Court.

Sooke RCMP report the pair, who are brothers, admitted breaking into the Edward Milne Senior Secondary School March 23, March 30, and April 2.

They also admitted breaking into Saseenos Elementary School April 1 and the Sooke Catholic Church April 6.

The boys were remanded to April 30 for pre-sentence report.

SUPER ZAP MISSILE READY IN TWO YEARS

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The U.S. Navy is moving swiftly toward production of a new weapon nicknamed the Zap missile.

Zap is an acronym for zero anti-aircraft potential.

Details of the missile's planned capabilities are closely guarded but work is far enough along that officials are being allowed to discuss generally its mission.

The Zap, sources said, will be a solid-fuelled "hypervelocity" rocket that will fly at speeds around 2,000 miles an hour and detonate with shattering effect over flak sites.

Within two years the missile is expected to go aboard navy fighter-bombers and may also be used by the air force.

CONVENTIONAL WARHEAD

Industry expectations are that production of the Zap will soar to several hundred thousand a year by about 1972 with annual spending of about $50,000,000.

Zap will have a conventional explosive warhead of unspecified size designed to go off just before it hits the ground with a special high-fragmentation effect.

The weapon's fantastic speed is critical to the mission.

With Zap the pilot of a 1,400-m.p.h. Phantom jet, for example, will be able to launch his weapon almost point blank at a target while zooming at supersonic speeds.

With what sources called the missile's "instantaneous acceleration" there will be no danger the pilot might overtake his own weapon in flight. Instances of planes being shot down by their own missiles have occurred.

SOLID ROCK CRYSTAL

Ancient Skull of Death Star of 1968 Hobby Show

The world's largest rock crystal skull will be on display at the Victoria Hobby show, opening at the Curling Rink April 25.

The 35-pound skull, belonging to a Victoria man who wishes to remain anonymous, is one of three large specimens in the world, as indicated by the Lapidary magazine February 1967. The magazine lists the other two skulls, one in the British museum and the other property of Mrs. Michael Hedges of London, England.

The British Museum skull has been called the "Skull of Doom" and weighs nine pounds. It was fashioned over about 100 years by patient rubbing with some abrasive material.

The skulls, of Aztec origin, were a sign of death—a kind of death-god and were buried along with the corpses of nobles. Although there are many smaller rock crystal skulls, large ones are rare.

Most of the skulls date back to about 800 A.D.

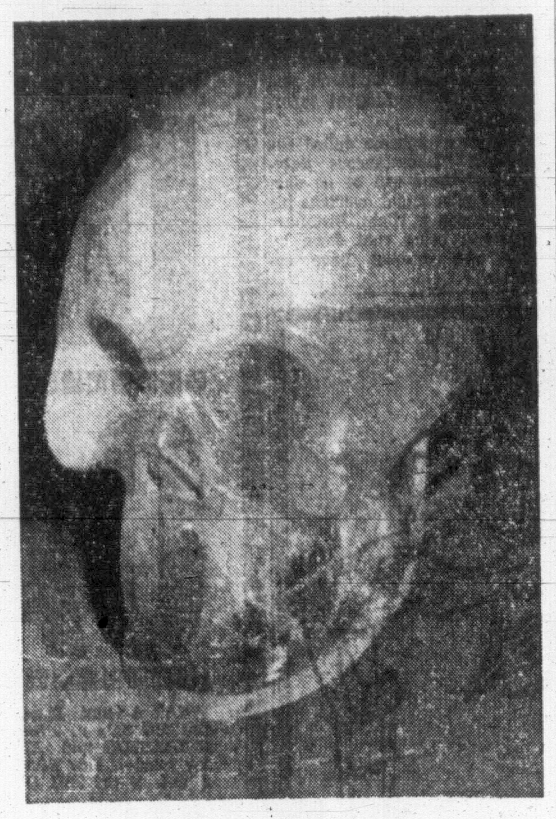

ALL NIGHT VIGIL

In present-day Mexico, the tradition is carried on by an all-night Halloween vigil by Mexican people at their family grave sites. Stores in Mexico sell model human skeletons fashioned of sugar and paper for Halloween.

A second feature of the display will be a Mayan "Corn Goddess," a clear crystal face about 11 inches long. Along with skulls and Goddesses will be about 33 other pieces of Aztec and Mayan origin.

Chinese jade artifacts will also be shown, among them a "God of plenty" who is supposed to bring good luck when his stomach is rubbed.

As well as the oriental variety there will be a display of British Columbian jade. Fraser Shepherd and Dr. Stuart Holland of the Department of Mines and Petroleum Resources have assembled a map and display to show people locations of native jade in B.C.

Polished Pate Worth a Fortune

Dr. Holland said "Most people know about jade around Lillooet and the Bridge River area."

NORTHERN JADE

"In recent years, though, jade has been found in the north country as well, in places like Stuart Lake."

The display will use a standard 4x4 wall map and a display case containing jade samples from various locations as well as Indian carved artifacts borrowed from the provincial museum.

The show, which runs from April 25 to 27, is organized by the Victoria Lapidary and Mineral Society though displays as not limited to geology. At least 55 displays will be shown, ranging from wood carving and sculpture to Indian beadwork and driftwood pictures.

Among the clubs represented are the South Vancouver Island Model Railroad Club, the Victoria Aquarium Society, the Victoria Natural History society, the World Ship Society, Royal Astronomical Society and the Victoria Short Wave club.

Included in the hobby displays will be an exhibit by the Occupational Therapy department of the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Items on display will be ceramics, copper pictures, mosaic, knitting and leatherwork. About 25 items will be shown, along with an explanation of therapeutic value.

The show will run three days from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Rock, Alpine Annual Show Starts Friday

The Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society's annual show opens Friday at 2 p.m. at the Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall.

The popular yearly exhibition of alpine and rock garden plants will be on display Friday till 10 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. and 9:30 p.m.

The society originated in Victoria in the early 1920's when a small of group of professional and amatuer growers met periodically to view and discuss alpine plants and ferns.

Interest grew and the society was officially formed in the early 1930's. Later the scope was broadened to include rhododendrons, woodland and bog plants.

The society is dedicated to the enjoyment and advancement of rock gardening in this wider sense, to the appreciation and conservation of native plants, and to showing the plants grown by members.

Members of the society number near 70 and 400 entries are expected in this year's show.

51 CLASSES

There are 51 classes in which members may exhibit including six children's classes.

Fees for this year's show are 50 cents for adults. Children may enter free if accompanied by an adult. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Judging the exhibition, which has an international reputation, are: Albert de Mesey, rhododendrons; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ahier, alpine; Mrs. Susan Watson of West Vancouver, Primulas; Miss Beatrice Palmer, woodland plants, R. G. Bellemare, ferns, and Mrs. David Barton, children's classes.

Prizes will take the form of certificates of merit with a large number of special trophies and cups to be awarded. Special prizes will also be given in the children's classes.

"The show is not going to be quite the same as in former years," says president Dr. Charles Watson. "Because we are holding it later in the year than usual, different plants are likely to be seen. The public can definitely expect to see unusual and rare exhibts."

Created Disturbance

Gordon Goeghegan, 59, of 23 Menzies, was fined $25 Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

Police said the accused was apprehended for shouting and swearing in the street near his home Tuesday afternoon.

Bad Credit Risk

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A man charged with executing and delivering cheques without funds pleaded guilty Wednesday and asked for time to pay a $100 fine. "This court does not generally lean to a credit policy," Municipal Judge Tom Moody told the defendant, "especially for somebody who writes bad cheques."

OSCAR WINNER EXAMPLE

Amazing Vitality In Czech Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At the Academy Awards ceremony last week, a young-looking man accepted the foreign-language award with faltering words: "I am very happy that Americans like Czech films."

The Oscar winner was Jiri Menzel, and there was good reason for his hesitant delivery: He doesn't speak English. He had learned the single sentence phonetically.

Menzel is 30 and looks younger. Slim and full of boyish energy, he symbolized the amazing vitality that has marked the films of Czechoslovakia in the last two years. His award-winning film Closely Watched Trains, was a highly personal work; he directed it, wrote the script and played a role.

With such success, you might expect him to be an apostle of film as today's prime medium of expression. Not so.

"I make films so I can make my name and I will be able to work in the theatre," he explained. "The theatre interests me much more."

LACKS ENGLISH

Interviewing Menzel is not easy, because of his lack of English. But he expresses himself well in Czech, somewhat less so in French. With the help of an Englishman who knew both, communication was made. The interview was conducted as Menzel was packing his bag at a Beverly Hills hotel before returning to Prague.

The director admitted that he had seen few films as a boy in the Czech capital. His love even then was the theatre, and he aimed for a career as a stage director.

"Happily or unhappily, I was not accepted in the school for stage directors," he remarked. "but I did have a chance to enter the school of film, so I took it."

Menzel studied for four years in the state-operated film institute.

After graduation, Menzel entered the Czech movie industry, also state controlled. His first assignment was directing one segment of a trilogy. Then he proposed his story of a teen-age boy's coming of age. The film collective allowed him to go ahead with Closely Watched Trains, and Menzel's reputation was established.

Then he was able to pursue his real love. He has directed three stage plays, including a verion of Mandragola that has been running in Prague two years. He has also directed another film, Capricious Summer.

COLLEGE SINGERS FROM CALIFORNIA

A famed choir from California now on tour in British Columbia will give a benefit concert in Victoria Saturday night.

The Allan Hancock College A Cappella choir will make only one appearance, to raise funds for the new G. R. Pearkes clinic for handicapped children.

The concert, at Victoria High School aditorium, starts at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1 and are available at the present clinic, 1937 Argyle St., or at current building fund campaign headquarters, 1136 Government St.

Ads Ruled Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay turned down Wednesday a proposal to permit the broadcasting of commercials in subways, even short ones, would be an unconscionable invasion of privacy that could not be justified as a revenue measure," the mayor said.

SHAPES TO SUIT EVERYONE

Bottles Don't Break . . . Their Word That Is!

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — When two men in a year handle 2,600,000 bottles they just have to be counted busy.

And it was sitting on an upturned beer crate I listened to the story of Jimmy LeQuesne and his business romance with bottles which has lasted almost 40 years.

Duncan Bottle Exchange sent 200,000 dozen bottles back to the breweries last year.

●

That represents a power of drinking by a population stretched from Ladysmith to Lake Cowichan.

Buying bottles dates back in Jimmy LeQuesne's life to 1929 when he started working with his father in a downtown location now occupied by a service station.

●

In those early days it was just a sideline as Mr. Lequesne Sr. was also a chimney sweep and secondhand dealer.

The bottles were packed and shipped by box car in wooden barrels.

At that time quart-size bottles were in use and they had to be carefully packed in excelsior or straw.

But even bottle fashions change and the breweries have progressed from quart size to the long-necked variety and now to today's stubbies.

Jimmy finds he can handle them pretty speedily using a pallette and fork lift . . . a change from hand-packing in barrels.

Jimmy spent the war years overseas with the Canadian Scottish and took over the business in 1959.

About the first thing he did was discontinue the secondhand business.

His reason, "I was fed up with people for a while. When you can no longer take people at their word it's time to give up, especially in the secondhand business."

●

Jimmy was completely disenchanted. He said, "As far as I'm concerned, a deal is a deal and people's word should be law, but today they say one thing and do another and I just don't go for that stuff.

"I'm not saying I won't go back into it but I had to have a break."

At the new Allenby Road premises, Jimmy has shelves of odd-shaped bottles. There a collection of bottles with labels from around the world, most of them coming from ships calling at Cowichan Bay or Crofton for logs or lumber.

Jimmy always has ladies inquiring for these for toilet water or to make into table lamps.

"Girls seem to like the teardrop-shaped bottles best," he says.

●

His lone helper is Cowichan native son Eddie Elliott, who does most of the dealing with the public.

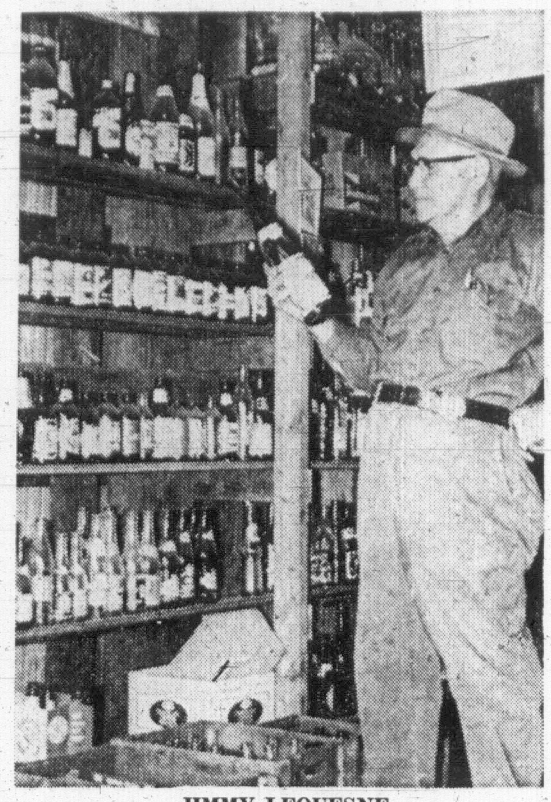

The bottle exchange is living proof of the growing popularity of local wines.

Jimmy says more and more people are adopting the habit of a glass of wine with a meal.

Eddie Elliott says, "It's a great business. I've made many friends since starting here."

Jimmy collects only from hotels and motels. About 90 per cent of the bottles handled by the exchange are brought to the loading shed by the public.

Jimmy recalls from the days when he did house-to-house collecting, one man jumping on his truck and nearly emptying it searching for a full case he had loaded by mistake!

DECISION 'SOON' BY EASTERN FIRM

DUNCAN — Manufacturing of paper making felts might be established here.

The prospect was held out to Duncan Chamber of Commerce directors at their Wednesday meeting by provincial commissioner for industrial development, Ray Kersey.

He said representatives of an eastern firm were in the Duncan district Tuesday "and might be making a favorable decision soon."

Mr. Kersey also tipped off chamber directors on a Winnipeg leather goods manufacturer who has indicated he wants to move his plant to the island.

He said, "This man has indicated he wants to make the move within a year. He mentioned Victoria but I told him to have a look over the whole Island, so go after him."

Mr. Kersey said research and promotion are the basic ingredients for initiating a successful industrial program.

His department has survey maps of each prospective industrial development area in B.C. and is continually sending out brochures of facts to companies across the continent and in Europe.

Mr. Kersey encouraged interest in production of furniture components and stressed the supply of alder on the Island.

He said, "There's a tremendous market in California alone for component furniture but there isn't a plant in B.C. fully automated enough at the present time to supply the market consistently."

A party of San Francisco industrialists is coming to B.C. shortly to investigate opportunities in this field.

Mr. Kersey said that as B.C. industry becomes more sophisticated it must maintain and increase quality control in production.

Mill Rate Down

NANAIMO — Council has adopted a record budget of $4,888,326 for the city, an increase of $285,000 over last year.

However, the tax rate dropped 3.3 mills to 71.2 mills.

A city official said an increase in the individual tax bill could come only from an increase in a property-owner's assessment or from a levy imposed by other authorities. School taxes were not known because the provincial government has not yet announced its formula.

'We're Being Plain Stupid'

Museum experts and historians said today something should be done to prevent a repetition of the commercialization of an historic site, such as the old Chinese mining town at Cumberland.

The mining town's property was leased Tuesday by Harry Lewis of Parksville from Weldwood of Canada. He is going to mine the site for old bottles and Chinese artifacts for sale to U.S. collectors.

"We are being plain stupid," said George Moore, museum adviser. "We have allowed this to happen when, in the United States, such a site would be fully protected.

Mr. Moore said an immediate survey of all historic sites should be made in the province for the purpose of protecting them.

"We could then excavate the sites and save the best artifacts for the people of British Columbia," he said. The remainder could be sold to collectors. Profits from these articles would go towards cultural grants.

He said profits made by U.S. dealers on B.C. artifacts amounted to more than the government's cultural grants.

"It's stupid, it's wasteful," he said.

SUPERVISOR HIRED

Gulf Island Teachers To Get Some Help

GANGES — School trustees of the Gulf Islands School District have learned that supervisory teachers will not be engaged for service solely among the islands.

Trustees have approved plans to engage supervisory personnel in conjunction with Saanich School District. The two districts work under the same district superintendent, R. S. Price.

The Gulf Islands district will pay the salary of one of four supervisors, an official who ranks between superintendent and teacher and offers information and guidance to teachers in various grades.

The Gulf Islands school trustees have joined with school trustees from coast to coast in a plea for income tax exemption on their fees. The trustees feel the payments are small enough without having to pay income tax on them as well.

A letter asking for exemption from the tax will be sent to Ottawa.

The trustees also were told that Gulf Islands secondary school has been given accreditation to recommend students for passing and promotion.

Under this system students required to write examinations are those who fail to come up to required standards or wish to apply for scholarships.

The trustees received notice that authority to borrow funds for increased classrooms has been approved. The classrooms are portable and one already is in use.

Action has already been initiated to raise funds to purchase five more classrooms, the trustees were told.

They were also told of the purchase of a microfilm reader for use by secondary school students and of several courses available to trustees and teachers at a three-day conference in Victoria next month.

The conference will discuss education in a changing society and the need for more recreational facilities due to increased leisure time.

Flood Control Plan 'Harmful' To Fishing

DUNCAN — A $1,800,000 provincial water resources branch plan for flood control on the Cowichan River would destroy valuable commercial and sport fishing.

Jack Fielden of Cowichan Fish and Game Club told regional district board members Wednesday that if the plan was implemented it would destroy, in the first year, 70 per cent of the fish.

He said this would represent a value of $700,000, including $400,000 in commercial business.

Mr. Fielden said his association supports the provincial fish and wildlife branch alternative plan.

He said, "Flooding could be controlled by the removal of one or two gravel bars, silt islands and removal of the railway bridge."

DON'T WANT DIKES

Mr. Fielden took his association's case to the regional district as it is investigating the possibility of assuming flood control as one of its functions.

He said, "We don't want the river dredged and diked as proposed by the water resources branch."

President or Vancouver Island Wildlife Association, Arnie Williams, said, "One aspect of this situation which is being overlooked is tourism.

"If we have no fish in the Cowichan the district can forget about tourism which at the present time is second only in importance to the district to the lumber industry."

Board chairman, Ald. George Whittaker, said a committee heared by Herb. Halliday, Lake Cowichan is evaluating the situation regarding flood control.

Bylaw Promoters Rapped by Mayor

NORTH COWICHAN — Mayor Donald Morton delivered a gentle rap to the joint municipal and city recreation commissions Wednesday.

The joint commissions have set up promotion campaign committees to push an $800,000 bylaw, and North Cowichan commission has urged a tentative bylaw plebiscite date of Sept. 21.

Mayor Morton said in council, "I think the commissions are getting a step ahead of us.

"We must not jeopardize the bylaw by passing up necessary steps.

"The councils must know what monies are involved and the probable mill rate.

KNOW COSTS

"We must not be involved in promoting a bylaw before it has gone beyond the present stage of being approved in principle by both councils."

He said the working out of costs and an equable cost-sharing formula is presently in the hands of the respective clerks. Once they come up with figures it will be the job of North Cowichan council to call a joint meeting.

Mayor Morton also questioned the wisdom of having representatives from the unorganized areas of South Cowichan on the promotion committees.

He said, "I wonder about our taxpayers' reaction to non-taxpayers being involved.

"If it's an indication that they are willing to participate and help pay for the facilities that's fine.

"But I would not like those paying being told by others what they should do and what they should pay."

Chairman of the municipal commission, Ald. Dennis Hogan said they would know long before September if the unorganized areas would participate."

Mayor Morton said, "If you push this too fast you may antagonize the voters, but I must say I have gradually been converted to the opinion that a great many people want these facilities and want us to put up bylaw."

Councils are presently considering three phases of the Sanderson development plan for Pioneer Park which call for a covered swimming pool, community centre building, improved playing fields and purchase of an additional eight acres of land.

At a meeting of the Cowichan Regional District Board Wednesday evening, chairman of the joint recreation commissions, Mel Massey, made a plea for the participation of the unorganized areas in the recreation bylaw.

H. A. Warner, Mill Bay, said residents of the unorganized areas would require to know cost figures first "or you won't get to first base."

George F. Bolingbroke. I especially wish to thank all the doctors and nurses who attended my father at St. Joseph's and Glenwarren Hospitals, the Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh and Sands Mortuary Ltd.—Marion Bolingbroke.

Our sudden loss, the death of our beloved wife and mother, Marie Rosalie Laure Laverdure, has left an emptiness in our hearts that can never be wholly filled, but the many kind words and acts of sympathy from our relatives and friends have helped immeasurably. We are deeply grateful to Dr. W. J. Bell, Rev. LeLane, the pallbearers and McCall Bros. Funeral Directors.—Mr. R. Laverdure and family, 2827 Shelbourne Street.

May I thank all my relatives and friends who were so kind at the time of my wife, Peggy James', sudden death. I would like to especially mention the Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh; Peggy's friends at The Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped; Sands Memorial Chapel of Chimes and the Hatley Memorial Gardens.—Mike James

I doubt (after many years in Real Estate), that there is another home, even remotely like it, that could be purchased for $46,500, with all the appointments offered here. Just read this, then call me for an appointment to view. (No drive-bys — no information). You'll love it!! There is a spacious living room overlooking a lovely garden, a large guest-size dining room, a cozy den with fireplace, a study with fireplace, a huge kitchen with big eating area. 5 large bedrooms (2 with bathrooms en suite). There is a games room, a rumpus room with fireplace and additional kitchen for entertaining, with stove and fridge included and door opening to the secluded large garden with an abundance of flowers, trees and lawns. This fine home, like an English country estate, was built to stand 100 years. Double garage. All this within 5 minutes to hospitals, stores and downtown, yet you may have to drive miles to find a home so completely "away from city noises". Ideal professional man's home. (A $20,000 mtge. at 6¾ per cent may be assumed at $130 mo., including taxes). If this is within your price bracket, let me take you on a "surprise tour" (two hours' notice required). Spy Charges Rejected By Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has rejected Soviet charges that a Canadian officer standing five feet, 11 inches acted as an "observation tower" to peer into Russian military matters.

Canadian embassy officials in Moscow "rejected charges registered by the Soviet ministry of foreign affairs," an external affairs department spokesman said here Wednesday in the wake of the "spy" incident.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported earlier Wednesday that Lt.-Col. J. V. Watson, Canadian military attache in Moscow, and five U.S. military attaches there were involved in spying on army and navy installations.

The newspaper account said the Americans used the Canadian officer as an observation tower, spying out objects suitable for photographing over high fences and walls. Records here showed the air force officer's height as an inch under six feet.

ONTARIO NATIVE

Izvestia accused Col. Watson, 45, a native of Lansing, Ont., and the Americans of taking "illegal photographs in a Leningrad shipyard. The newspaper also said the men swore at yard officials and refused to hand over their film.

The external affairs spokesman here said the embassy in Moscow reported the Canadian officer and three U.S. attaches were stopped outside the shipyard April 8.

"They were permitted to leave after denying charges of improper activity," he added.

It was the second time this year that Canadian military attaches have been accused of spy activities in Communist countries.

Lt.-Col. Kenneth J. Jefferson of Regina was arrested in Warsaw Jan. 4 and held for 11 hours. He and an American attache were accused of taking pictures in a restricted area.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

There's been so much emphasis on the personalities involved in political leadership races one might assume the prime minister runs the country himself. But we need have no worries like that on the local scene.

A new Saanich list shows 16 aldermanic committees, a nine-member council and a three-man police commission plus 22 appointments of one or more persons to supervisory boards. Same thing in Victoria except there are 30 appointees. In the seven incorporated areas of the capital region there are now 53 mayors and aldermen. Add up the salaries yourself. Then consider Vancouver where an 11-man council has jurisdiction over double the population. Makes you think, doesn't it?

We stole this item from the Sooke Mirror who stole it from the department of recreation and conservation.

We hate dogfish, but the fisheries people say we're just being intolerant because of their appearance, that in Europe this small shark is an important foodstuff, the meat being bonefree and white with a fine flakiness equal to haddock fillets. A test was made with fish sticks of dogfish and of other white meat fish and the dogs were rated first or second with all tasters.

If we can believe the scientists perhaps there's an untapped industry awaiting development here. (Just follow our boat in salmon season). Even if we spoiled west coasters won't eat the brutes, let's export them to Europe.

Last December 19 Mrs. Elizabeth Doucette moved from Whittier Avenue to Vancouver, storing her household goods temporarily with a moving firm. Two months ago she sought to collect her possessions but the firm was closed and had disappeared. Saanich police and Better Business Bureau were called in to no avail. We thought we had a new racket to report. The Times put a crew on the job.

After two days and a fortune in telephone calls, we traced a principal of the defunct firm through the provincial companies office. Then we found Mrs. Doucette's goods had been placed with another firm here, her address had been lost but there was no attempt at fraud. All that work for no story. But we sure made a satisfied customer. Oh well, that's newspapering.

A vacationing friend, recalling the recent row in the legislature over "road-runners" (the people who buy up public lands to make vast profits when new highways are built), sends a postcard from Arizona. It describes the Arizona road-runner which is a bird, a member of the cuckoo family. It doesn't fly but with a running start takes off and soars. It dines on nice fat lizards.

Not much similarity between the two types. Ours certainly aren't cuckoos. But they have been accused of getting a running start on the taxpayer.

★ ★ ★

Good citizens who lined up to donate blood at the Mayors' Day clinic recently were given plastic pins made to resemble a drop of blood. That gave us an idea which we pass along—why not a cross shaped sticker of red reflective tape for the rear bumpers of cars driven by donors. Nothing shows up so well. And besides giving the donor a ready recognition it's an added safety factor during night driving or when your car is parked with its lights off.

★ ★ ★

Incidentally, isn't it shocking when you consider that a blood clinic gathers only 262 pints of blood (and that was a good result) in a district of 180,000 people.

That represents one person in 7,000. Even when you discount those too young or too old to donate, it's astonishing that so many people can ignore, evade or fail to recognize their responsibility to each other. Any one of us may require blood tomorrow and there's only one place it can come from.

Here Is Detailed Tour Of Income Tax Return

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Let's take a trip with your tax return.

We'll follow its travels through Canada's taxation data centre and watch human and computer minds take it apart.

And we'll presume you have filed a T1 Short return. Most taxpayers do.

If your pay cheque deductions are more than your taxes, you will be expecting a refund and you have probably fired your return into the mail long ago.

If you owe the government money, it's a good bet you will just beat the April 30 filing deadline.

In any case, the processing job starts at the doors of the data centre on a flat stretch of land two miles west of Parliament Hill and known as Tunney's Pasture.

When the data centre is busiest, and that is now, its staff expands to 3,000 from 700 and it takes in five or six tons of returns a day through two loading bays within view of the Ottawa River.

A long-haired teen-ager rolls the mail bags by cart to an upstairs room dotted with blue-smocked clerks.

SPLIT INTO REGIONS

Lining 30-foot tables, these men and women break returns down into seven regions—Maritimes, Quebec, Montreal, Ontario, Toronto, West and Vancouver—by envelope colors. You may have noticed the colored piping on the envelope enclosed with your personalized return.

A regional pile of returns including yours now goes to the operators of two slicing machines, where three edges of the envelope are neatly peeled off, leaving it ready for a "primary examination" in another work section.

On the lower left side of your return, one of 150 women staples your enclosed T4 slips showing income paid and deducted for tax purposes, and any receipts or explanatory material you may have sent along.

Now, if you are expecting a refund, your return goes directly to a first manual audit in one of Ottawa's so-called "temporary" buildings—this one 27 years old and several blocks away.

The absence of a cheque with your return makes the procedure less complicated, and this gives you a jump of a few days right off the bat.

If you still owe money and have enclosed a cheque, it is also stapled to the return and the bundle goes to a "cash" section in the building instead of to the audit centre.

At the cash section, a validating machine records the amount of your cheque on the return itself and sends the cheque on its way to government coffers.

Your return then gets put back in the stream, following the others to the audit centre where clerks spot and reject most of the returns completed improperly.

If vital information is needed, the return is sent back to the district taxation office nearest you. Most answers are supplied by your past returns, on record there.

If the answer isn't there, and for every fifth return it isn't, you can expect a letter asking you to supply it.

But if all looks well in the audit centre, your return is on its way back to the data centre, where one of 900 operators of key punch machines takes the first step to translate your letters and figures into computer language.

The operator punches a series of holes in several cards. Another verifying operator does the job over again as a complete second check of accuracy.

Another step in the translation process follows. The information on the cards is fed onto magnetic tape in much the same way as music is tape-recorded.

GIVES TAPES

This takes place in an air-conditioned, humidity-controlled room and yields a series of tapes ready to be channelled into the computer system itself.

The heart of the computer operation is next—a two-day "run" or "cycle" in which the computer assesses 250,000 returns and performs these functions:

—Records details of your record as a taxpayer on a tax master file, which stays indefinitely in its memory.

—Checks your calculations, passing the return on if it is correct or kicking it out with instructions or clues to help pin down errors.

—Produces information on a magnetic tape which in turn can be translated into a refund if you have one coming.

—Produces the balance you owe the government and compares the amount earlier credited to you with your remittance claim.

—Produces information on another tape which will result in an assessment notice to you, stating whether you are square with the government or whether you or the tax collector still owes the other something.

Coded instructions turned out to help locate errors are the basic guide for error analysts, a highly-trained staff of 218 men and women.

Nurses' Submission Was Misconstrued

A report carried in Wednesday's edition of the Times erroneously attributed work duties of hospital housekeeping staff to orderlies and nursing assistants.

It incorrectly reported that the Victoria Registered Nurses' Association had told the royal commission on the status of women that orderlies and nursing assistants mop floors, clean bathrooms and empty garbage.

The Nurses' brief, in fact, said those were duties of housekeeping staff, but this was misconstrued in the report.

The brief, complaining of differences in pay scales for men and women doing what it said was essentially the same work, said one hospital started orderlies at a salary of $404.50 and nursing assistants at $306.

A second hospital paid $364.50 and $260 respectively for similar jobs, it said.

Reporter Recalls Critical 1939 Conversation With Edna Ferber

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

In Vancouver, soon after the start of the Second World War, I was assigned to interview a distinguished visitor — the U.S. novelist Edna Ferber, who died in New York Tuesday at the age of 82.

She was a rather frightening person with piercing brown eyes under snowy white hair and she asked me to explain Canada's participation in the war.

I told her we could be drafted for home defence, but not for service overseas. Only volunteers actually participated in the war with Germany.

Miss Ferber's eyes glinted.

"Is Canada in this war or isn't she? I personally think we (the U.S.) should be in it. But, if Canada is with Britain, why isn't she in it altogether?"

"There's a problem in Quebec," I explained.

Miss Ferber would have none of these evasions.

"I've no use for wishy-washy politics," she snorted.

Her views were quoted in the Vancouver Province of that day and they brought in a stream of letters from loyalists who were angry over the Ottawa government's appeasement of Quebec as regards military service.

Others said Miss Ferber should keep her nose out of Canadian affairs.

Right or wrong, she was a fearlessly outspoken critic and many times her attacks were directed at the White House in Washington. Her novel, Giant, contained criticisms of Texas which infuriated Texans. But it sold more than 3,000,000 copies.

I talked to Miss Ferber about newspapermen becoming authors and she said:

"They have a natural advantage because they see life at first hand and learn to write about it in a hurry. They have a disadvantage because it's much harder to write when you have no deadline and no assured market for what you write."

Miss Ferber worked as a reporter on the Milwaukee Journal and the Chicago Tribune and wrote her first novel, Dawn O'Hara, between newspaper assignments.

"You have to give up all thought of recreation and slave at it night and day," she said.

"My advice to most people is — don't take up creative writing unless you feel you must. It's mostly sweat and worry and sometimes it's heart-breaking."

Miss Ferber's best known work was the novel, Show Boat, which became a musical play featuring the ever-popular song, Old Man River. She wrote 23 novels and six plays.

Unions Want Pair Home From Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver and District Labor Council Tuesday night voted to send a telegram to Prime Minister-designate Pierre Elliott Trudeau demanding the release of two jailed trade unionists.

Paddy Neale, secretary-treasurer of the council, said a high-pressure campaign will be needed if Steve Stavenes, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, and secretary Homer Stevens are to be released.

The two men are serving one-year jail terms imposed last June for contempt of court in connection with a UFAWU strike.

Mr. Neale, who served a six-month jail term in 1966 for contempt of court following the Lenkurt Electric labor dispute in suburban Burnaby, said he was freed after four and a half months "because of pressure exerted by the trade union movement."

"It seems to me that only this kind of pressure will result in an amnesty for Stevens and Stavenes."

Lady Marine's Sentence Eased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A marine commander Tuesday eased the sentence of Mary Elizabeth Burns, the 21-year-old Colorado marine court-martialed last week for disobeying orders in her protest against the Vietnam war.

Col. Oscar T. T. Jensen, commander of the marine headquarters battaliion at the Pentagon, lifted a sentence of 45 days restriction to quarters but let stand a $20 fine and a reduction in rank from corporal to private.

The case will now be sent for further review to Brig. Gen. John Antonelli, commander of the marine education centre at Quantico, Va., who can reduce but not increase the revised sentence.

UN Group Won't Enter SW Africa

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (Reuters) — The United Nations council for South-West Africa appeared today to have at least temporarily abandoned any attempt to enter the South African-administered territory and establish a UN presence there.

It was learned that the entire council and secretariat were booked to fly to Rome Thursday night, presumably on their way back to New York.

South Africa made it clear it would not allow the council into South-West Africa. Various airlines were approached to take the council into the territory, but none was apparently prepared to defy South Africa's refusal of landing rights.

The 11-man council was set up to introduce UN administration in South-West Africa in line with a General Assembly decision to revoke the mandate granted to Pretoria by the old League of Nations after the First World War.

South Africa refused to accept the UN decision and went on administering the huge former German colony.

Child Dies When Struck By Golf Club

BOSWELL, B.C. (CP) — An 11-year-old Cranbrook girl was killed Wednesday near this southeastern British Columbia community when struck on the head by a golf club swung by a young companion.

Police said Jerri-Ann Dixon and a friend were playing with the club in a field near the summer home of the girl's grandparents. They described the death as accidental.

Pensioners Love Live Performers

More than 350 pensioners crowded into the auditorium at Victoria Silver Threads Centre Wednesday afternoon for a concert given by the Marie Maggiora Ballet School and teenagers from the Lilian Ingram Smith Musical Arts group.

"It was the biggest attendance we've ever had," said Don Gray, who is master of ceremonies at the weekly concerts.

Next Wednesday the Silver Threads kitchen band will give a concert starting at 2 p.m. Lorna Robbins will lead a sing-song at 1:30 p.m., with Elsie Bullough at the piano.

This afternoon a Silver Threads concert party, organized by Mr. Gray, put on a show for residents at Kiwanis Villa, 3035 Cook Street.

"Old-timers always enjoy live entertainment," Mr. Gray said, "and we are deeply grateful for an invitation to attend the dress rehearsal of Brigadoon at the McPherson Theatre on April 29."

A Bonus in Every Shrub

By HILDA BEASTALL

Some of the more permanent shrubby herbs are attractive enough to find a place in sunny corners where their fragrance can be appreciated.

While only one or two have flowers considered showy, a few of the herb-like perennials (as Mondard or Bee-calm) can be added to extend the season of interest in the area.

Hilda

Rosemary is perhaps the most attractive of all shrubby herbs. The masses of small mauve flowers in early May and narrow dark green leaves all year are visual attractions. The bonus of spicy leaf fragrance is an extra. Clipping of branches as flowers fade is only pruning neeessary.

The various kinds of lavender add a nostalgic note to a grouping—pink, purple, lavender-colored, or the rarer white flowers—each has its interest and slightly different appearance and perfume. Considerable clipping back needs to be done each year in July when flowers are cut.

Sage, while well known, is not a long-lived shrub. It needs annual spring clipping and twice again during summer, but even so new growth finally refuses to appear. A few new plants can easily be grown from cuttings or from seed.

Thyme is a variable plant. In a sunny corner, silver variegated thyme will be a bright little mound; golden thyme, lemon thyme and the ordinary culinary thyme add variety. All require hard clipping in spring and again by early July.

★ ★ ★

One plant of the shrubby Artemisia abrotanum (Southernwood) will soak up sunshine and give off a pungent spiciness. To keep it within bounds, cut stems down to about nine inches in spring just as green buds appear. Remove a few of the oldest stems at ground level each year.

Hyssop has not made much of a shrub for me yet, but its fresh green leaves add a new note, and I await its flowers this year. They are said to be gentian blue.

All these fragrant plants require well-drained fertile soil.

THEY SELL THEIR OWN THINGS

Advertisers Lack Fails To Halt Student Paper

KINGSTON (CP) — Nine public school pupils with the gold crisis and civic affairs on their minds this week will publish the second issue of their newspaper The Students' Journal.

William Jenkins, 10-year-old editor, expects a sizable profit this week — "about $3 I think."

★ ★ ★

Last week his grandmother, Mrs. H. K. Davey of Toronto, pulled the paper out of the red by donating 55 cents.

The first issue included a story on the death of Dr. Martin Luther King, an original comic strip character, Zot the Zombee, and classified advertisements.

The ads were a problem, Billy said, because "we didn't have any advertisers so we had to sell our own things."

A survey of opinion on the April Liberal leadership convention professed amazement at the lack of student political knowledge.

"Eighty per cent, approximately, were not yet aware that it was even happening," said a story in capital letters.

Editor Jenkins wants wide news coverage: "The gold crisis and municipal affairs."

He hopes some hard news stories will break at the school. A student injury in a school game would provide a story for an on-the-spot reporter, he said.

The six-sheet Journal — one page is a subscription form — sold for five cents to about 75 subscribers. It was typed by a family friend and mimeographed at Billy's father's office.

This week, the Journal will switch from bond paper to more economical newsprint. Billy hopes to publish about 150 copies.

★ ★ ★

The nine staffers are in grades 3 to 6. More staff may be attracted by last week's ad:

"Keen, aggressive boys and girls required for many exciting assignments. Profit sharing pay-plan."

FIERY END FOR UNIVERSE BUT NOT IN OUR TIME

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy researchers report they've obtained evidence the universe is a curved, closed system—and therefore inexorably doomed to fiery destruction some 10,000,000,000 years from now.

They said the new findings, gleaned from the flight of an Aerobee rocket, appear to provide a possibly definite answer to a great cosmological question that has plagued scientists for generations:

Will the now-expanding universe, with its millions of star-filled galaxies, grow forever—or is it a closed system whose expansion will gradually slow to a stop, with catastrophic results?

Dr. Richard C. Henry of the naval research laboratory, who reported the findings Wednesday on behalf of a five-man research team, said the rocket-gathered evidence "indicates strongly that the universe is closed."

UNIVERSE WILL 'FALL'

He said such a system, would "fall inward until all the galaxies condense again to one great fireball of matter and radiation."

Henry, 28, a research fellow, amplified in an interview:

The Aerobee rocket, in a 100-mile-high flight above the White Sands, N.M., missile range last September, detected the measured certain cosmic x-rays coming from galaxies beyond the Milky Way.

That evidence indicated there may be 100 times as much matter dispersed in the vast reaches of space between galaxies as there is in all the mass of all the galaxies combined.

Henry explained that a closed universe—with a curved-space boundary—contains a certain amount of material within it. The amount is vastly greater than that of an open or ever-expanding universe.

"These observations of the Aerobee," he said, "indicate that there's enough matter in the universe to produce the complete curvature required for a closed universe."

Town Fool Application By Striker

NELSON (CP) — Jim Jarvis, a striking woodworker, has applied to city officials for the job of town fool.

In a letter to city council, he says a town fool is not merely an eccentric loudmouth but is an observer, thinker, and a satirist of social ills.

"For this position I believe I am duly qualified, and I leave the salary classification to your discretion," he says.

Nelson council lightheartedly accepted the letter, though not planning to hire a fool. Councillors suggested instead that Mr. Jarvis might file a nomination for city council.

In Vancouver, self-appointed town fool Joakim Foikis applied last year to city council for an official post, but was turned down.

Recently, however, Mr. Foikis was awarded a $3,500 grant by the Canada Council, to continue his fooling.

Manitoba Hopes For Change In Medicare

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Manitoba government believes the federal government will change the national medical care insurance program, Welfare Minister Jack Carroll told the legislature Tuesday.

Speaking during debate on a Liberal resolution asking that the province participate in the federal program, which starts July 1, Mr. Carroll said the province hopes the federal government will revise the program to make it "better tailored to the economic and health needs of the nation."

One of the reasons Manitoba thinks the federal program will be changed, said Mr. Carroll, is because some federal cabinet ministers "have openly" questioned the scheme.

Eight of Canada's 10 provinces have indicated they do not plan to participate in the program this year.

40,000 To March In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Downtown Ottawa may be in for one of its biggest traffic jams in years Saturday as the 40-mile Oxfam Walk For Millions gets under way from Parliament Hill.

Pulbic relations officer A. R. Kirby said Tuesday his organization has received applications from 40,000 persons who want to take part in the walk.

Led by Prime Minister Pearson, the walkers are scheduled to leave Parliament Hill at 9 a.m. sharp.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Robert McGowan, age 9, of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, for his question:

How can a magnet run a compass?

If you have two small bar-shaped magnets to help you, you can figure out part of this puzzle for yourself. But the part you figure out leads you to an even bigger puzzle. This second puzzle goes back to the people who invented the compass many ages ago. They made a slight mistake.

An experiment is a sort of test. It can prove whether an old idea is true or not. It can prove a brand new idea to be true or false. And an experiment often can help you to solve a tricky problem for yourself. No young science student is too young to do experiments to help him brighten up his brain power. You need to try one of these test games to understand the tricks of the magnet in a compass. Find two small bar-shaped magnets and a quiet table where you can use them to do some thinking. Chances are, each magnet has a letter N on one end and a letter S on the opposite end. The letters stand for North and South.

Place your magnets on the table top and slither them around a bit. You may notice that they push and pull each other, almost as if they are alive. If you place them in a line end to end, they may cling together. Or they may pull apart. If they cling, you can bet you boots that the S end of one magnet is touching the N end of the other magnet. Attraction is the right word for this kind of clinging. In magnets, opposite ends attract each other.

Now notice what happens when you touch together the two N ends of the magnets. They pull apart from each other with a little jerk. They repel each other. The two S ends also repel each other and spring apart. The N and S ends are poles and every magnet has a north and south pole. Its north pole is attracted by the south pole of every other magnet. Bigger and stronger magnets have more power to attract and repel. And the biggest magnet in our world happens to be the planet earth itself.

Made Mistake

The earth also has a North and a South Magnetic Pole. If you hang a little magnet on a string, the earth pulls it around so that one of its poles points toward its strong North Magnetic Pole in the Arctic. This end of your magnet acts like a compass and points to the north direction of the earth. The other end, naturally, points to the earth's South Magnetic Pole. People discovered this trick and made compasses ages ago. Some hung a think sliver of magnet on a string. Some floated a small magnet on a cork raft in a dish of water. The magnet must be fixed so that it can swing around freely. Nowadays, we fix a magnet needle to swivel around on an upright pin.

And nowadays we know that the early compass makers made a mistake. Remember, the oppostite poles of magnets attract each other. Ages ago, people thought that the earth's North Pole pulled the north pole of a magnet. They called this point of the needle the north pole of the compass magnet. And we still do. But people in the know remember that the earth's North Magnetic Pole really makes the south pole of the compass point north. These people also know that the big earth makes the little compass needle work, whether our name for the end of its magnet is right or wrong.

Some people, however, are very fussy about sticking to the scientific facts. They cannot abide calling the poles of our magnets by their wrong names. So they invented a sneaky way to get around it. They call the point of the compass needle the north-seeking pole of the magnet. This is true, because it does move around to seek out the north direction. The opposite end of a compass needle is the south-seeking pole of the magnet, which is also true.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Kristen Baker, age 10, of Duluth, Minnesota, for her question:

How fast can an ostrich run?

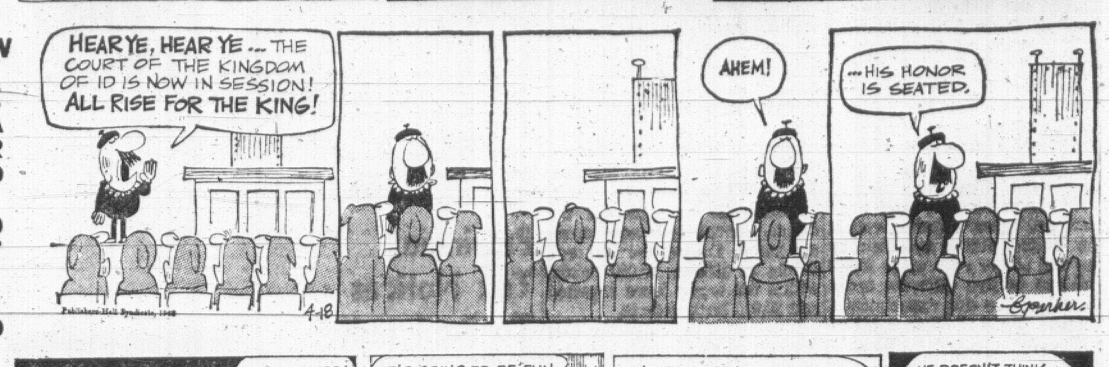

A large ostrich may stand eight feet tall and tip the scales at 300 pounds. And the giant of the bird world is a mighty powerful animal and very fast on his feet. At top speed his long, strong legs cover the ground in strides from 12 to 15 feet long. He can pace a fast race horse and speed twice as fast as an expert human runner. He can run twice as fast as a bat or a blue jay can fly, faster than an owl or a sea gull or many other flying birds. Wild ducks, eagles and a few other birds on the wing, however, can outdistance him as he runs on the ground.

Many ostriches have been clocked at 40 or 45 miles an hour. Faster records have been make by ostriches racing at 50 miles per hour.

German Measles Vaccine Tested

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A scientist says mothers of child bearing age may be able to get protection within a year against the birth damaging defects of German measles. The next epidemic of the disease is due about 1970.

That was a report on a new live virus vaccine against German measles given today by Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research at West Point, Pa.

Hilleman said large-scale tests are already under way in the United States and that by the end of the year up to 20,000 children in five different areas would receive this experimental vaccine. Tests of other vaccines will cover another 20,000 children.

The virologist said the vaccine successfully passed pilot tests with mothers and children in two suburban Philadelphia communities.

Hilleman couldn't say how many people would have to be given the vaccine before the Federal Food and Drug Administration rules on its safety and effectiveness.

In the case of ordinary measles vaccine 10,000 were tested, and in mumps only 5,200.

TESTS CONTINUE

At least three other vaccines using different strains of the virus are undergoing tests in the United States and abroad. The manufacturers also hope to get them on the market within the year.

German measles is a relatively mild disease that strikes mostly children and young adults. Until recently there seemed to be no need to prevent it, but now doctors have proven that it causes serious congenital defects in children whose mothers were infected in the first trimester of pregnancy.

Worldwide epidemics of the disease normally occur every six years. During the last epidemic in 1964-65, 20,000 deaths within the womb were reported and 20,000 birth defects.

Hilleman, in reporting his findings at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, said the pilot study involved 527 children and their mothers in Havertown and Broomal, Pa.

Hilleman said 97 per cent of the vaccinated children developed high levels of antibody against the disease. None developed fever or other reaction attributable to the disease, he said.

The researchers also found that the vaccinated children excreted the live virus from their throats but so little of the virus was involved that none of the unvaccinated members of their families were affected.

GREEK SENT INTO EXILE

ATHENS (Reuters)—A former leading Greek politician was deported for a year to a tiny Aegean island Wednesday after being accused of being dangerous to public security, a member of his household said.

He is Angelos Angeloussis, 51, a former deputy of the Centre Union party.

He was arrested by security police Monday — a few hours after former premiers George Papandreou and Panayotis Kanellopoulos were placed under house arrest.

Provincial Tax Notices To Panhandle

Residents of the View Royal area recently absorbed by Esquimalt will receive this year's tax notices from the provincial government.

Esquimalt treasurer Peter Cairns explained the ratepayers concerned will be taxed at the current general mill rate and the province will turn the appropriate funds over to the municipality.

Next year, the View Royal residents will receive tax notices from Esquimalt

Mr. Cairns said the provincial government is set up to send the notices and the method makes the transition easier.

Provincial Gasoline Taxes 'Unfair'

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank M. Dawson, president of Texaco Canada Ltd., Wednesday described as "inequitable and unfair" the provincial tax on gasoline which he said was higher than tax on other non-luxury commodities.

Addressing the company's 40th annual meeting, Mr. Dawson said that during the last few weeks seven of the 10 Canadian provinces announced gasoline tax increases.

The time had come when each provincial government should "give careful study to the economic impact" of the levies on gasoline and diesel fuel before increasing the rates any further.

It was unfair to the motoring public for the provincial governments to continue to tax gasoline at a "higher and more rapidly accelerating rate" than other non-luxury commodities.

Provincial taxes across Canada now range from 15 cents to 25 cents a gallon. The federal tax ranges from two to 2.6 cents.

Mr. Dawson said gasoline marketing is one of the most competitive fields in Canada, adding the competition is not only in prices but also in the quality of products and services.

His company estimated net earnings in the first quarter of 1968 amounted to $5,457,000, equal to 56 cents a common share, compared with $4,786,000 or 49 cents a share in the corresponding period of 1967.

No Bargains On Dogs In Oak Bay

"It costs more in Oak Bay to keep a dog six months than it does for a year," Magistrate Ostler said Wednesday.

He suspended sentence against a man charged with having no licence on his dog.

Robert Burrows, 1216 St. Patrick, pleaded guilty to the charge and to permitting his dog to run at large.

Mr. Burrows produced a set of regulations he said his wife obtained at the Oak Bay municipal hall. The document said dog licences cost $4 if purchased before April 1, but $5 if purchased later.

The document did not say licences had to be bought before April 1.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said licences had to be purchased by Jan. 1 and that the dollar off before April 1 was a "reduction."

"I don't see how you can call that a reduction," said the magistrate.

Mr. Burrows was fined $10 on the second charge.

Shirley Cormack, 2554 Bowker, was fined $10 for letting her dog run at large March 23; Kenneth Larsen, 1392 St. David, was fined $10 for letting his dog run at large March 21.

Impaired Driver Pays $400 Fine

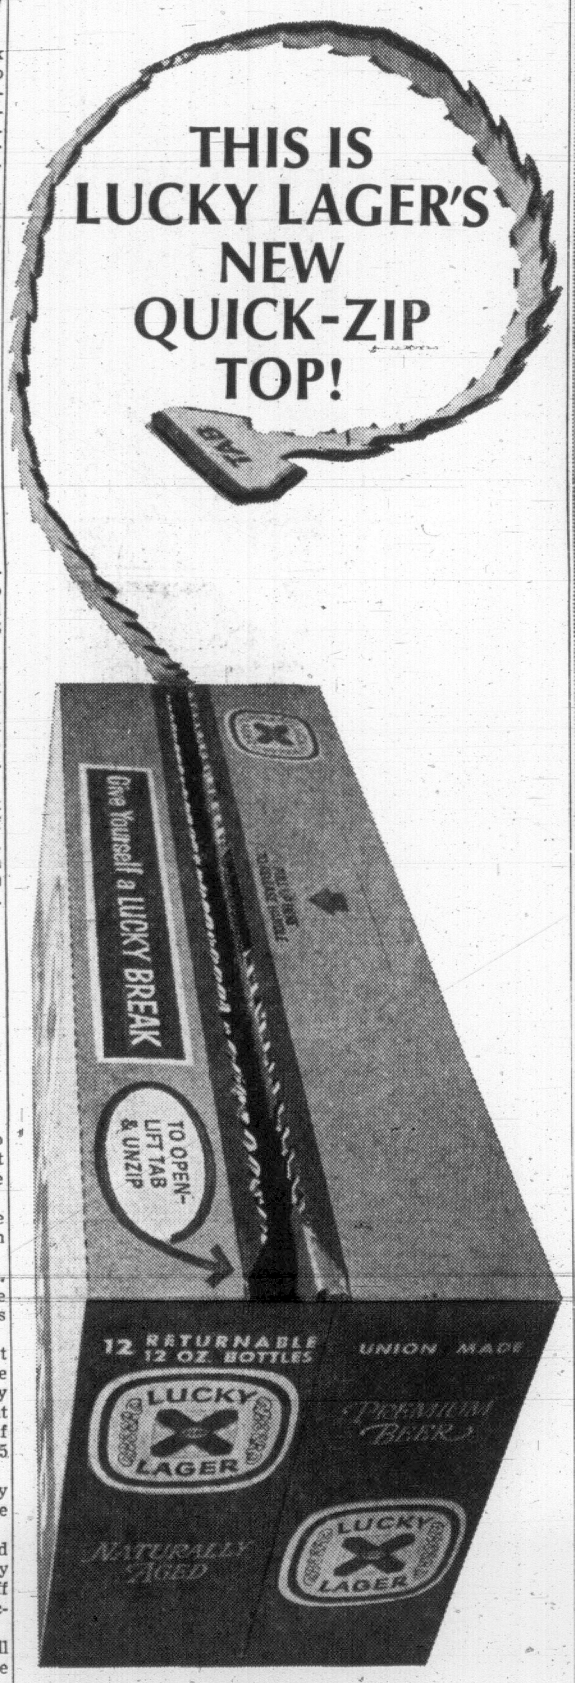

Robert Tulloch, 56, of 2846 Austin, was fined $400 Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police said Tulloch was the driver of car southbound on Douglas St. Tuesday which collided with the rear-end of a car stopped at Herald St.

Wade Burns, 3498 Lovat, was fined $300 after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police said Burns was apprehended after he drove his car into a ditch on the Trans-Canada Highway March 9.

Sterilize All Young Men —Temporarily

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The women's commission today heard a plea for compulsory, temporary sterilization of young men.

In one of nine briefs presented at the public hearing, Dr. Norma Ellen Verwey of Vancouver said that at age 16 all males should be given a free compulsory vesectomy, a sterilization procedure she said takes 15 minutes and is reversible.

In other briefs, the five women and two male members of the royal commission on the status of women were called on to recommend upgrading of the status of housewives, day care centres for children and retraining programs for older women.

Dr. Veywey said the male response to her suggestion of compulsory male sterilization will be "violent indignation."

But it was time men assumed responsibility for birth control. She was of the opinion that vasectomies have fewer side effects than female contraception.

REVERSE PROCEDURE

The procedure could easily be reversed to make a man fertile again whenever he decided he was ready "to shoulder the social responsibilities of fatherhood."

The commission's first nighttime hearing Wednesday brought about 150 women and seven men crowding into a small downtown meeting room.

They heard Mrs. W. E. D'Altroy of Burnaby, B.C., recommend all abortion laws be removed from the statute books and women be left to decide for or against such a measure "in privacy and dignity."

Mrs. D'Altroy said the House of Commons committee on abortion is "made up mainly of middle-aged men still trying to tell women what to do with their bodies."

Presenting a brief for 700 women students over age 25 taking courses at the University of British Columbia, Mrs. Arnold Saba asked the federal government to extend its system of student loans to include part-time students.

UNTAPPED RESOURCES

"Vast resources of wisdom, skill and training lie untapped as married women are still subtly discouraged from entering educational and employment fields unless they can assume full-time responsibilities," she said. "Can you call Canada a fully-developed country when its social attitudes and laws keep women in an inferior position?"

Another brief from the University Women's Club of Vancouver suggested university courses be scheduled to take into account the needs of women students with children.

The commission, the first to hold nightime sessions or hearings in public places like shopping centres and libraries, moves next week to Calgary and Edmonton. It terminates its 18-day Western Canada tour in Saskatoon May 3.

MAKING first official visit to Vancouver next month is Governor-General Roland Michener who will arrive May 28 for a three-day stay and to receive honorary degree at University of B.C.

Who Would Give Away The Men?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Can you picture a demure bridegroom being paraded down the aisle and the clergyman asking "who gives this man in marriage?"

The question was put Wednesday to the seven members of the royal commission on the status of women by Iva Conboy, a lawyer from Chilliwack with a light-hearted approach to women's problems.

White-haired Mrs. Conboy told the commission's second public hearing women are no longer held back by laws but by attitudes of mind common to women as well as men.

"If a woman is not a chattel why give her away in marriage?" she asked to chuckles and cries of "hear, hear" from an audience of 75 Vancouver women and about six men.

"Many of the customs that go with marriage were invented when Abraham was a nomad."

She said women should stop "obliterating their identities" by taking their husband's names in marriage and called for an end to distinctions between Miss and Mrs.

IMAGINE JUDY

"Can you imagine Judy LaMarsh getting married and giving up her own name?" the lawyer asked.

Mrs. Conboy's remarks brought delighted approval from commissioner Elsie MacGill, an aeronautical engineer from Toronto who is married to business executive E. J. Soulsby.

"I carry my maiden name and I always have," Miss MacGill said. "I never use my husband's name."

Mt. Rainier Crash Kills 2

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—A T33 jet courier plane carrying two U.S. air force officers from nearby McChord Air Force Base was found crashed Tuesday high on 14,410-foot Mt. Rainier.

The pilot of the search plane which spotted the scattered wreckage on a steep and almost inaccessible slope at the 10,500-foot level said there was no sign of survivors.

Housing Proposal For Vancouver Area

VANCOUVER (CP) — A scheme to provide public housing for 12,000 Greater Vancouver residents was unveiled by Bill Graham, Vancouver city planning director.

The proposal would scatter 3,000 units among the 16 municipalities in the Fraser-Burrard Regional District at an annual subsidy cost to the district of $1,000,000 of which Vancouver would pay half.

The proposal will be discussed by district representatives early next month.

Discussion will centre on methods of meeting the cost and whether the regional district will assume public housing as one of its functions — a role advocated for it by the provincial government.

Mr. Graham's report estimates the capital cost of the project at $48,000,000 paid 75 per cent by the federal government and 25 per cent by the province under the National Housing Act.

Rental subsidies estimated at $2,300,000 a year are expected because most tenants are considered likely to be on welfare or old age pensions, the report said.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF ZEEBRUGGE RAID

Victoria Veteran Will Lead Marines Parade

LONDON (CP) — A spry, 67-year-old retired warrior, now living in Canada, will lead the parade when 75 Royal Marine survivors of the historic First World War raid on Zeebrugge march through the Belgian port Sunday.

...nest (Beau) Tracey of Victoria said today his old buddies decided he should take charge of the church parade, part of 50th anniversary observances of that daring strike against German submarines.

"We will be guests of the Belgian government and I understand we are to receive special medals from the government," said Tracey who has lived in Victoria for the last 20 years.

Tracey was a Lewis gunner during that raid, part of an assault party which drew heavy fire while blockships were sailed in to be blown up, trapping a dozen submarines and 23 torpedo boats for six months.

Heavily-defended Zeebrugg was stormed from the sea April 23, 1918.

Tracey said he received "a slight itch"—a small shrapnel wound—but otherwise escaped to fight again in the Second World War. He retired from the marines in 1946 in the rank of color sergeant.

Three other Royal Marine survivors living in Canada are not expected to attend. They are W. J. Thomson of Nanaimo, B.C., J. F. Thompson of East Wellington, B.C., and R. Collier of Oldcastle, Ont.

Fugitive Charged As King's Slayer

Galt Eludes Vast Dragnet

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The mysterious Eric Starvo Galt has been charged with conspiracy and murder in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

The FBI said in a fugitive warrant issued Wednesday night in Birmingham, Ala., that Galt, 36, conspired with a man "whom he alleged to be his brother" to violate King's civil rights.

The state charge of first-degree murder was filed against Galt in Memphis where King, 39, 1964 Nobel Peace Prize-winning civil rights leader, was shot to death on a motel balcony April 4 by a sniper who fled from a nearby rooming house.

DEATH PENALTY

First-degree murder in Tennessee carries the death penalty although the electric chair has not been used in the state since 1960.

The maximum penalty under the federal charge of conspiracy to violate a person's civil rights is a $5,000 fine and 10-year prison sentence.

There was no further mention in the FBI statement about the alleged brother and no charge was filed against him.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced in Washington that the conspiracy to "injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate" King began "on or about March 30" in Birmingham.

The FBI statement said a .30-.06 rifle, equipped with a telescopic sight and found near the rooming house shortly after King was slain, was purchased March 30 in Birmingham.

The statement did not connect Galt directly with the rifle.

The FBI released a photograph of Galt and solicited public aid in finding him. Whether this appeal meant the trail had become cold was unclear, but U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark told a reporter in Washington that he felt this was not the situation.

The FBI started hunting Galt a week ago.

WITNESSES VAGUE

The picture — which had to have the eyes "opened" by an artist brought uncertain responses from witnesses who were acquainted with Galt or saw the fleeing sniper.

"Unless he was wearing a wig or had had a face lift or something, it's not the man I saw," said Charles Q. Stevens, who lives at the rooming house from which the fatal shot apparently was fired.

A source in Birmingham said the photograph was taken within the last three months, although the FBI did not specify when it was made.

"It's very near, but I'm not sure," was the reaction of Peter Cherpes, owner of a Birmingham boarding house where an Eric Galt stayed from Aug. 26 to Oct. 7 last year.

The FBI, relying on witnesses apparently, said the fugitive had been described as a white man, five-foot-eight to five-11, weighing 160 to 175 pounds, with brown hair in a brush cut, blue eyes, straight nose.

Persons who have met Galt, the FBI reported, described him as a loner with a "rural" speech and little schooling, fond of vodka, beer and hillbilly music.

"Galt should be considered armed and dangerous," the FBI release warned.

Galt has used the names of John Willard and Harvey Lowmeyer, the FBI said. The assassin registered at the Memphis rooming house under the name of John Willard.

DETAILS SKETCHY

Details of the alleged conspiracy were missing from the FBI release, as were vital statistics, such as Galt's birthplace, formal schooling, employment. The statement said Galt said he has been a cook on Mississippi riverboats, a merchant seaman and "is said to be an avid dancer."

Galt, the FBI said, is the owner of a 1966 white Mustang with Alabama licence plates abandoned in Atlanta the day after King was shot to death.

Two white Mustangs were parked near the rooming house shortly before the shooting, witnesses have said, and both disappeared minutes later.

The FBI said Galt's car travelled more than 19,000 miles between Aug. 30, 1967, when he bought it in Birmingham and its abandonment last week in Atlanta. There were trips to Los Angeles, New Orleans and Mexico, the FBI said.

While in the Los Angeles area early this year, Galt took a course in bartending and graduated March 2, the FBI said, but refused a job.

New Brunswick Seeks Envoy At Paris Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick wrote to his Quebec counterpart proposing that an Acadian representative also be present at the French-language education conference opening in Paris Monday.

The newspaper says in a Quebec story that the letter, written two weeks ago, reminds Premier Daniel Johnson that Quebec is not the only Canadian province interested in developing the status of its French-language population.

It says Mr. Johnson telephoned Mr. Robichaud last week, expressing sympathy for the Acadians desire to adhere to their French culture but adding that Quebec is a guest at the Paris meeting and has not the right to hand out invitations to international conferences.

CLAIMS SAME RIGHT

La Presse quotes Mr. Robichaud's letter as saying that since New Brunswick proclaimed French an official language equal to English the province had the same right to be represented in Paris.

Mr. Robichaud then proposed that Acadians, descendants of French-speaking settlers of the Maritimes, should have equal representation at the meeting.

Mr. Johnson replied that he hoped some agreement could be reached with the federal government on questions of international relations in field under provincial jurisdiction, the newspaper adds.

Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal is scheduled to leave Montreal tonight for Paris. He has said he is representing the province since education is a provincial right.

Mr. Cardinal said today he does not believe Quebec's participation in the conference will lead to a confrontation between the provincial and federal governments.

The minister told a press conference:

"Things seem to be going all right. I don't think there is going to be any confrontation. I hope not. I believe there is a solution to this problem, if a problem exists at all."

The Paris meeting is the second round of talks initiated by 17 French-speaking countries at a conference in Gabon in February. Mr. Cardinal represented Quebec at the Gabon meeting and his presence precipitated a

END NEAR TO WOODS STRIKE?

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said today he is "hopeful" of an imminent settlement in the seven-month-old strike by forest company employees in the southern Interior of B.C.

The 5,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America have been on strike since Oct. 4 in an attempt to get parity with coastal woodworkers.

Mr. Peterson said provincial conciliation officer Jack Sherlock had been mediating the dispute for the past two days in meetings with representatives of both sides in Vancouver.

"The parties agreed that Mr. Sherlock should make recommendations for settlement of the dispute.

"At the present time Mr. Sherlock is drafting the recommendations and they will be submitted to the parties later today in Vancouver," Mr. Peterson said.

MUST TAKE VOTE

"This is the first major breakthrough that we've had in this lengthy dispute," Mr. Peterson said. "I'm hopeful that this will bring about a settlement and enable an early resumption of operations in the southern Interior."

Both employees and employers will have to vote on whether to accept Mr. Sherlock's recommendations, Mr. Peterson said. It would not be a government-supervised vote but a department official will be on hand as an observer in both cases.

Mr. Peterson said neither party's representatives will be aware of the actual recommendations until they receive them at the meeting.

N. Viets Insist Site Be Cambodia or Poland

U.S. Suggests Pakistan

RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Pakistan today said the U.S. state department has asked if it would be willing to be the site of preliminary peace talks on Vietnam between Washington and Hanoi.

An official government spokesman here said Pakistan expressed its willingness to be the site in reply to the American query.

Paris Wants to Be Host

PARIS (UPI) — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville today offered Paris as a site for eventual Vietnam preliminary peace talks.

The French cabinet reported it had not been approached by either Hanoi or Washington to offer a place in France for the site of the talks.

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam demanded today that the United States "agree without delay" to Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland, as the site for preliminary peace talks and also stop all attacks on North Vietnamese territory.

The demand, in the official Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan, repeats the charge that the United States is insincere in its talk of peace efforts.

"Once again," it says, "we demand that the U.S. government give up its attitude that shows a lack of goodwill and agree without delay to either Phnom Penh or Warsaw for the site of contacts."

"We demand that the United States stop definitively and unconditionally its bombing and other acts of war on the whole territory of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam so that talks may begin."

HANOI TO BLAME

Nhan Dan says Johnson, in his speech in Honolulu Monday, attempted to blame North Vietnam for the delay in the start of the preliminary talks.

"This is clearly a complete reversal of truth aimed at coping with public opinion which is protesting against the U.S. government," the paper says.

Diplomats in Washington from some of the countries allied with the United States in Vietnam said the U.S. government had objected to Phnoo Penh and Warsaw because it had promised the preliminary talks would be held, if possible, in a neutral Asian country to which South Vietnam and its Asian allies could send observer delegations.

Johnson Back Home After Hawaii Talks

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — President Johnson took off for his Texas ranch today after a two-hour breakfast meeting with former president Dwight D. Eisenhower that produced no immediate statement from either. They had talked about war and peace in the Pacific.

Johnson arrived at this Strategic Air Command base in the middle of the night, slept aboard his plane and, not long after dawn, welcomed Eisenhower for a breakfast meeting aboard the presidential jet.

Their talk followed a Hawaii summit meeting with South Korean President Chung Hee Park, who got Johnson's assurance that South Korea will have a voice in any Vietnam peace negotiations and that the United States will stand by its commitments to help defend South Korea against any Communist incursions from North Korea.

Eisenhower flew in from his winter home at Palm Desert to be briefed by Johnson on the Hawaii talks.

Johnson interrupted a Texas Easter vacation to fly to Hawaii Monday for discussions of Vietnam strategy with his Pacific military commanders and then Wednesday's meeting with Park.

A 1,000-word joint communique and a warm embrace by Johnson of his important Asian supporter climaxed the meeting which grew out of a strain in U.S.-Korean relations following last January's North Korean assassination attempt against Park and seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

South Korea has nearly 50,000 troops with the southern allied forces in South Vietnam, and

Goldberg Said Ready to Quit

By ROBERT H. ESTABROOK

UNITED NATIONS (UP) — Arthur J. Goldberg's resignation a United States permanent representative to the United Nations was reliably reported Wednesday to be "very imminent."

Sol M. Linowitz, ambassador to the Organization of American States, and Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco are said to have been under consideration by President Johnson as possible successors.

Linowitz, 54, was chairman of the board and general counsel of the Xerox Corporation when the president appointed him representative to the OAS in the summer of 1966.

Sisco, 48, heads the state department bureau of international organization affairs.

It is thought that President Johnson intends to announce the change soon after his return from Hawaii.

Goldberg, however, is expected to remain at his post through the General Assembly's consideration of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty. The resumed session of the assembly starts April 24 and may run longer than the scheduled three weeks because of opposition to the treaty.

A former associate justice of the Supreme Court and secretary of labor during the Kennedy administration, Goldberg, who is 59, is said to be planning to enter private law practice in New York. Presumably, he would be available for reappointment to the Supreme Court, if a vacancy should occur.

Although he has differed with some aspects of administration policy on Vietnam, Goldberg has remained close to the president as a member of the cabinet. He has been eager to avoid causing any embarrassment to Mr. Johnson.

He intendedd to leave his UN assignment earlier this year but was asked by Mr. Johnson to withhold his resignation so it would not coincide with the departure of former defence secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Bombers Blast Cong

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of U.S. B-52s hit South Vietnam's A Shau Valley with more than 1,500 tons of bombs Wednesday and today in the war's heaviest aerial blows for a 24-hour period.

At least 60 of the eight-engine Stratofortresses streaked over the valley from bases in Thailand and Guam to bomb North Vietnamese truck parks, storage areas and troop concentrations.

'Poor Campaign' Set

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Dr. Martin Luther King's successor, announced today that King's planned "poor people's campaign" on Washington would begin May 2.

Pearson Resignation Handed to Gov.-Gen.

OTTAWA — Government House formally announced today that Prime Minister Pearson had submitted his resignation and Liberal Leader Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be sworn in Monday afternoon as prime minister.

The statement said:

"The Rt. Hon. L. B. Pearson has tendered to the Governor-General his resignation as prime minister which the Governor-General has indicated he will accept when Mr. Pearson's successor is ready to assume office.

"Accordingly the Hon. Pierre Trudeau, minister of justice and recently-elected leader of the Liberal party of Canada, has been summoned and invited by the Governor-General to form a government which he has undertaken to do.

"Mr. Trudeau has indicated that he hopes to be in a position to take office on the afternoon of Monday, April 22."

Teachers Fight School Bill Despite Peterson Warning

Times News Services

PENTICTON—Tom Hutchison, president-elect of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, said Wednesday teachers are prepared to risk a clash with the provincial government on education issues.

His statement followed a speech earlier in the day by retiring president Robert Buzza who defended a federation campaign to oppose new provincial education financing legislation.

"We have a legitimate right to tell the public what is best for education, and election time is a good time to do it," said Mr. Hutchison, vice-principal of Invermere's David Thompson School.

"Education should get more play as an election topic.

"It is difficult to avoid the label 'partisan' and delegates fear that the aims of the federation may be identified with the aims of one of the parties campaigning before the next election," Mr. Hutchison said.

"We feel, however, that the teachers have a legitimate right to tell the public how it is.

"If I find that the federation becomes partisan, mine will be the shortest presidency on record," said the new president.

Unlike the press, teachers do not have a vested interest in conflict, he said.

Mr. Hutchison criticized the tendency of the news media to "wait around for blood." It is improper for the media to play up conflicts, he said.

LABOR ATTACKS 'INTIMIDATION'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor Wednesday branded as intimidation a hint by Education Minister Leslie Peterson of legislation against militant teachers.

"In response to a decision by the B.C. Teachers' Federation to launch a public campaign against recent changes in education financing in the province, Mr. Peterson has threatened . . . with reprisals in the form of legislation to weaken the organization," the labor federation said in a statement.

Mr. Peterson, who doubles as labor minister, said in an interview at the teachers' convention in Penticton that the government would act if teachers opposed financing legislation on a partisan political basis.

He said legislation could take the form of not compelling all teachers to belong to the federation.

The interview followed a resolution passed at the convention that called for $57,000 to launch a campaign against school financing methods in use.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1968—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

One morning at breakfast on a day when Victoria's unique dewfall was bouncing about three inches off the driveway, we noticed that the water wasn't gurgling down the storm drain as it should.

"Hey," I said, "quite a little lake out there." Then, carefully skirting the edge of the overflow, I got into my car and went off to work.

It was still raining when I came home, but the lake was gone.

"Drained itself, eh?" I said to my dear one.

"Well, not exactly," she replied.

Later, I found a curious contraption in the garage. It looked to be a primitive sort of ladle, made by lashing an empty soup can to a yard-long stick with a length of string.

It wasn't the sort of rig a man would whack up, so I took it indoors and asked Win if she knew anything about it.

"You know our lake," she said. "It kept spreading, so I phoned a plumber. He waded around for a while, then said we might have to take up some blacktop and maybe a strip of lawn to get at the trouble."

"So?" I asked.

"So I fixed up a dipper and dipped out a lot of mud and fir cones and twigs and stuff, and the lake drained in no time."

Me, I'd have grumbled, growled, and finally agreed that the blacktop must come up.

It's nice to have a woman around the house, and all the more so if, like me, you happen to be a man who has never mastered the practical approach to life's problems.

The other morning, for instance, I spent several minutes wrestling with a ketchup bottle top.

"No use," I said. "Wait while I find my lock-grip pliers."

The pliers had gone walkabout from their usual place in a kitchen drawer. I finally located them in my car trunk and returned to deal with the ketchup top.

It was off, and my partner was pouring a neat little dab beside my scrambled egg.

"I think you'd loosened it," she said with nice diplomacy. "All I had to do was hold it under hot water, then give it a few taps."

She had done the tapping with the handle of what used to be one of my screwdrivers. It's a milk can opener now, and has been since the day Win asked me if I would file it to a point for her.

She has several other improvised tools of this sort, and all have one thing in common . . . they work.

★

There are times—quite a few of them, in fact—when man's projects stand to benefit from the built-in practicality of his opposite number.

To her, no plan, procedure or detail is sacred. The end, not the means, concerns her.

Off and on for years, we discussed putting in a basement room-and-bath but never got to the point of action. Our basement wasn't shaped right, I insisted. The windows were in the wrong places, the idea wouldn't work. Finally we called in a smart builder. He took one look around, said, "No problem," and proceeded to do a bang-up job.

But there was one little problem, and it didn't show itself until the construction was well along.

The size of the bathroom was dictated by the space we had at our disposal . . . and to squeeze a tub that would accommodate anyone larger than a midget into it seemed entirely impossible.

The builder, frowned, muttered, and drew frantic sketches on a handy scrap of lumber.

I stood around making foolish suggestions, like couldn't we maybe tilt the tub up at one end.

There was a way, but we didn't see it until female ingenuity, unconcerned with male planning but determined on results, trotted downstairs.

Why not, said she, just borrow a couple of feet off the end of the clothes closet?

We did, and it worked like a charm.

HEIGHT GIVES A HAUGHTY LOOK to Mr. Pickwick as Esther Leyden of Village Fair's Treasure Chest admires the sculpture. (Times photo).

Gentle Old Man Has Found a Home

By ALAN WHITE

Mr. Pickwick has come home. That indomitable old gentleman of fiction a century old is in his final resting place.

He stands serenely on a brick ledge overlooking the entrance to the Village Fair in Bastion Square. The concrete gentleman's dignity is unruffled despite his unceremonious treatment at the hands of city officials.

Left mysteriously at night in the doorway of city hall two weeks ago, the sculptured Dickens character was hauled straightaway to a city storage yard.

There he sat amidst machinery and dust, while city hall debated his fate. The sculptors at first declined to come forward.

Then Jerry Boultbee and Clinton Hull, students at the University of Victoria, disclosed their identity.

They had left Mr. Pickwick, a work of diligence and 1,200 pounds of concrete, because they didn't know how to present him to the city.

No one at city hall wanted the work. A motion to place it in Beacon Hill Park was also turned down — officials were afraid vandals would poke holes in the concrete, spread over a wire mesh frame.

Finally officials of London Wax Museum, who operate the Village Fair, decided they would take the vagrant gentleman.

The sculptors were happy to have a place for their work at last.

John Cockrill, sales manager for the firm, made the arrangements.

"We bailed him out of hock." (Cost of hauling and storage charges to the city yard—$25.)

"Then we had a neat job moving him," Mr. Cockrill said.

This morning a cartage firm brought the statue from its storage place. Workmen built a huge wooden platform in the lobby of the building and raised the work five feet to its shelf with a hydraulic lift.

At 11 this morning Esther Heyden of the Treasure Chest was vacuuming the last of the concrete dust from the floor.

Now Mr. Pickwick stands with his portly mien gazing over the pool below.

LOOK AROUND ALL YOU WANT BUT LEAVE CAMERAS AT HOME

It will be "open gangway" for the public who wish to visit the Australian missile-armed destroyer Brisbane Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m.

But no cameras will be permitted.

Brisbane, newly built at Boston, Mass., at a cost of $45 million, will arrive at Esquimalt base at 9 a.m. Friday.

Many social and sports events have been arranged for the 333 crewmen under Capt. A. A. Willis, prior to sailing time 9 a.m. Monday.

Subsidized High Rise Rents Needed by Area Pensioners

Many pensioners are going short on food so they can pay rent increases, Mrs. Catherine Horn, executive director of the Victoria Silver Threads Service, said today.

"It is terrible that the pioneers of our country should have to starve themselves in order to live."

A high-rise apartment building for senior citizens with rents subsidized by federal and municipal governments would answer the problem, she suggested.

It should be downtown because old people like to be near the centre of things and don't want to take long bus journeys every day.

Mrs. Horne said the average pensioner lives on $120 a month and can't afford more than $50 for a room. Yet many today are paying $70 and $80 for inferior accommodation.

After this situation was reported in the Victoria Times recently, three families offered spare rooms to old people at less than $50 a month.

"We are most grateful for their generosity and we only wish there were more of them. But most people are out to make money these days."

"It would be wonderful if some imaginative statesman could get this going," she said of a down-town highrise for the elderly.

"It would have to be subsidized so that no room would be rented for more than $50 and no apartment for more than $70."

One 74-year-old widower, a member of the Silver Threads Centre, put it this way:

"The rent for my room has gone up three times since I retired nine years ago and I'm eating less than half of what I used to — mainly toast and cornflakes.

"But don't use my name — I've still got my pride, y'know."

City Firemen 'Highest Paid' In Canada

Eight Per Cent Increase in Pay

Victoria city firemen are now the highest paid firefighters in Canada.

But in gaining a close to 8 per cent pay hike they also lost $31 a month in statutory holiday pay.

City manager Dennis Young told the city's personnel committee this morning that a binding decision of a majority conciliation board award would boost the city's budget by $54,000.

"This award (6.76 per cent effective Jan 1. 1968 and 1.24 effective July 1) results in Victoria firemen being at this time the highest paid firemen in the whole of Canada," Mr. Young said.

But the high award will not mean a complete cash increase to firemen.

TAKE TIME OFF

In an attempt to hold costs in line Mr. Young said a $30,000 saving could be made this year and a $42,000 saving in subsequent years by forcing firemen to take time off in lieu of statutory holidays rather than receiving pay in lieu of official holidays.

"To date the city has chosen to pay the firemen for statutory holiday time, but as the cost to the city is extensive this approach can no longer be justified.

"The statutory holiday pay for 1967 amounted to $31 per month per man."

Mr. Young added that by cutting off statutory holiday pay as of April 1 the $54,500 wage increase would be reduced by $31,000 this year and $42,000 next year.

REDUCE STRENGTH

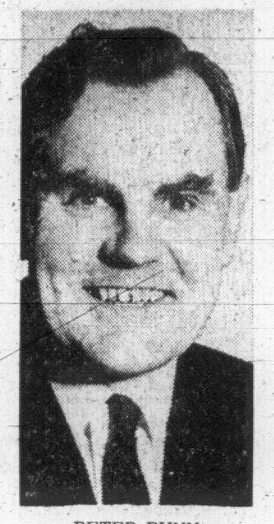

The holiday pay-cut would reduce the number of men on shift by 1.5 men said Mr. Young but he stressed that such a reduction would not reduce the efficiency of the fire department.

With the pay increase versus the statutory holiday pay cut the actual increase in this year's fire department wage budget will be $23.500.

In making his report to the committee Mr. Young urged that in future years Greater Victoria municipalities exercise greater co-operation in wage negotiations.

"I cannot but stress the absolute necessity of co-ordinated wage negotiations if the interests of the taxpayers in the Greater Victoria area are to be adequately protected and the vicious practice of playing one municipality against another is to be prevented," Mr. Young said.

Saanich settled its labor negotiations with its fire department ahead of the city granting a 6.76 per cent increase to fourth year firemen and a considerably reduced award to ranks below fourth year.

PETER BUNN
. . . 'must know soon'

Public System Would Get 1,500

Roman Catholic church and school authorities here are considering the curtailment of separate school operations in Victoria.

The most drastic result—closure of existing Catholic elementary and secondary schools—could mean the diversion this September of up to 1,500 pupils into the already crowded public schools system of the capital area.

However, although this step is being mooted in some church circles, Monsignor Michael T. O'Connell today said the matter is still an open question and beyond official comment.

"The whole thing is being discussed this week and next. We're studying the whole situation and we've been working on it all week."

Msgr. O'Connell, speaking in the absence of Bishop Remi de Roo, who is in Montreal, said he anticipates a decision may be made "within two weeks."

He said he regrets necessary delays in broaching the matter with local school board officials, who could be faced with a need for emergency provincial assistance. He thought full closure should still be regarded as a "remote possibility."

Backgrounding his comment are these reports from other sources:

Two weeks ago the parent-teacher association at Sacred Heart, one of the larger separate elementary schools, voted to close the school after pupils are released for summer holidays. Parents said the school is costing more money than they can afford.

(Under the B.C. school system, church and private schools receive no government subsidies. Government grants and local property owners, including Catholics, support construction and operation of public schools.)

'Decision in Hands of Senate'

A school spokesman, Jim Wood, would not confirm the outcome of the vote and said the whole matter "is in the hands of the senate."

It was also unofficially learned that plans, announced last year, for renovation of St. Louis College, have also met difficulty.

Bishop De Roo announced one year ago that a new high school for 500 boys would be created on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy and the student body from St. Louis would transfer there.

The 16 to 20-room school would cost $500,000 in its initial stages, the money to be raised by voluntary donations. St. Louis, which has operated here since 1864, would assume a new role, as St. Andrew's Cathedral elementary school.

But donations have been slower than anticipated and it is now thought unlikely that either project would meet the target date for opening in September.

Some church people believe that if Sacred Heart and the St. Louis-St. Andrew's projects are dropped, there is a likelihood that St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's, St. Ann's and St. Andrew's (an earlier school using that name), also would close.

The Catholic school system here now instructs 1,000 children in elementary and about 400 in high school classes.

The possibility of full closure was mentioned also today by Michael J. Griffin, chairman of St. Andrew's Cathedral board of directors.

This week it was decided that all church schools should come immediately under a regional authority in hope that by sharing services and consolidating space, Sacred Heart might be retained, he said.

He said a new financing formula has been established with regard to the St. Louis project.

He added, "Should this new financing formula be unacceptable to the Diocesan Senate, and soon, then indeed the grim prospect of closure must be faced up to and our children forced to find other accommodation."

Sufficient to Warrant Proceeding

He said the St. Louis building fund campaign was now drawing to a close and "while not as successful as had been hoped, has been of sufficient substance to warrant proceeding.

"The architects' working plans and specifications are practically complete and the vast majority of the Catholic people want us to get on with the job.

"To abandon St. Louis College and with it (experience) the departure of the Christian Brothers of Ireland, is unthinkable."

He said St. Andrew's Cathedral has over the years acquired sufficient acreage to permit the contemplated school expansion and the board has every intention of lending full financial and moral support to the school. Much depends on acceptance of the board's financing formula by the senate, he indicated.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn today said that District 61 trustees had been aware of the decision reached by parents at Sacred Heart. But the possibility of a complete closure of separate school facilities was a new consideration.

"If such a possibility exists there would have to be immediate high level discussions with the department of educations," he said.

He described the local public school accommodation situation as "tight as a drum."

Administrators are anticipating an additional 800 pupils in the system next September resulting from normal growth. The provincial government's current slow-down on school construction has led the Greater Victoria district to predict it will be short 28 classrooms next fall.

Mr. Bunn said the board will not really know what it is up against until schools open in September because of population shifts over the summer.

"Our own situation is very much dependent on whether or not we get successful tenders on the 13 portable classrooms we have out to tender at this time."

The department of education has set a cost limit of $15,000 each on these and there is some doubt whether they can be built for this.

The board chairman said that in the event of a major influx from the separate school system, "the sooner we have some firm information to go on, the sooner we can act. Time is of the essence."

Initially the school board might talk in terms of renting the existing separate school facilities as a stop-gap measure. But it would be up to the board's senior administrators to assess the situation and make recommendations.

Her Wish Comes True In Colombia

Dr. Pauline Beregoff-Gillow, formerly of 3295 Beach Drive, Victoria, has established a preventorium at Colombia, South America, in memory of her late husband, Arthur Stanley Gillow.

Mr. Gillow died at their Victoria home in 1965.

Dr. Beregoff-Gillow, who was born in Russia, campaigned ceaselessly for the establishment of preventoriums in Canada, but was unsuccessful. She left here for South America in 1966, declaring she would carry on her mission there.

"They have had preventoriums in Russia for years," she said, "and they have more than proved their worth. They are clinics where people receive periodic check-ups, treatment and advice without the need for entering hospital.

"In other words, they are taught how to cure themselves."

Greater Victoria, she delcared should have preventoriums in every municipality to ease the load on the hospitals.

The preventorium which Dr. Beregoff-Gillow has established at Colombia will be opened by the president of the republic on May 5 at 10 a.m.

City May Sell Several Lots At 'Castle'

Tentative agreement to proceed with the sale of city-owned land to pave the way for a townhouse apartment development was made today by the Victoria city land's committee.

The property involved includes part of the Spencer Castle grounds and several city-owned adjoining lots.

Spencer Castle will remain intact if the development goes through.

Ald. Robert Baird said he shuddered to think of a garden apartment-type development on top of a mountain. (The area involved is close to the Smith's Hill reservoir.)

He described an artist's impression of the development as looking like "a pile of junk," and added that he would rather see high-rise towers built than a three-storey apartment block housing "cliff-dwelelrs."

ASKS GUARANTEE

Ald. Lily Wilson said she would go along with the proposal providing the city could be guaranteed a quality building.

"I would never agree to high-rise apartments in that area," she said.

Ald. Ian Stewart assured the committee that with the sale of city land involved the city could insist on standards of design.

"We are not talking about cheap accommodation here, but high-quality accommodation," he said. "We should not confuse this development with a row housing development — which many garden apartments turn out to be. This is an interesting type of living which is just coming to the west coast. The city can build in safeguards to make sure the design and the whole layout is of the highest quality."

Before the project can go ahead the city will have to conclude the land sale transaction and change the zoning for the area.

Inco Plans $31 Million Development

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. confirmed Wednesday that it will proceed with a $31,000,000 development of a nickel-copper mine at Lower Shebandowan Lake, 50 miles west of Port Arthur.

It will be the company's ninth new mine under development in Canada in Inco's current expansion program in Canada.

Company chairman Henry S. Wingate told the annual meeting that the new mine, to come into operation in 1971, will employ between 400 and 500 persons.

Plans call for a shaft to be sunk to a depth of 1,975 feet, with 14,000 tons of ore to be handled weekly. A concentrator is to be built at the site, with the concentrates to be shipped by rail to the Inco smelter at Copper Cliff, near Sudbury.

Housing for the employees will likely be built at the village of Shebandowan, 10 miles away from the property, officials said.

Mr. Wingate, who described the Shebandowan property as a small-sized operation but one with a long-life potential, said it is part of the company's plans in increase total output by 1971 to 600,000,000 pounds of nickel annually from the current level of 450,000,000 pounds.

Total capital investment during the next two years in Canada to help bring these new facilities to production will be about $320,000,000, he said. Another $80,000,000 would be spent outside Canada, primarily in Guatemala and New Caledonia.

The company's previously announced plans for new Canadian mines include five in the Sudbury district and three at Thompson, Man.

PROVIDES EMPLOYMENT

The new operations will provide an estimated 3,200 new jobs, the company said. Of these, 1,200 would be in Manitoba and 1,500 at Sudbury.

The rest would be needed for the Shebandowan project. The company indicated at last year's annual meeting that the property was economically feasible.

Allan Lawrence, Ontario mines minister, said the announcement was of major importance to all northwestern Ontario.

Mr. Wingate told shareholders that continued rapid expansion is needed to meet expected consumption demands during the coming years.

He said the company recently has reached agreements for exploration and possible development of nickel prospects in New Caledonia and Indonesia, as well as the company's nickel-copper leases in Minnesota.

Proposal To Split Shares

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. proposed Wednesday splitting the company's common stock to create 2½ new shares for each one now existing.

The proposal, by the company's executive committee, is to go before the board of directors at a meeting May 6. If approved there, it would go to a special shareholders' meeting in July.

Inco now has about 29,700,000 shares outstanding, held by 64,000 shareholders.

Announcing the proposal at the company's annual meeting, chairman Henry S. Wingate also said the executive committee was recommending the quarterly dividend of 70 cents a share be raised to 75 cents.

If approved by the board, the increase would be effective in the regular June payment. Under the proposed share split, the dividend would become 30 cents.

Mr. Wingate said earnings in the first quarter of this year are estimated at $37,000,000 or $1.24 a share, compared with $33,000,000 or $1.11 in the similar 1967 period.

UNDER PRESSURE

In announcing the proposed split, Mr. Wingate noted the company had been under pressure for some time to take such a step because of the high price of the stock.

Inco shares closed Wednesday on the Toronto Stock Exchange at $121.25, down 12 cents on the day's trade. Announcement of the proposal split, dividend increase and earnings was made after the market closed.

Mr. Wingate said Inco's shares were priced higher than those of any major Canadian company and that could be considered a deterrent to wider ownership in this country.

Ottawa Will Study Fish Industry Woes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Newfoundland fishing industry will have to live with its troubles a bit longer before getting federal help.

A delegation from the industry came away from a three-hour meeting with Fisheries Minister Robichaud and other officials Wednesday with assurance their woes are being studied but that solutions won't be forthcoming just yet.

The delegations' proposals for various forms of federal aid to the industry, hard hit by stiffer competition and surpluses of unsold fish, were set out in a 15-page brief which formed the basis of Wednesday's talks.

Mr. Robichaud said in an interview later: "I could not be expected to come up with definite answers as I must submit these proposals to the government."

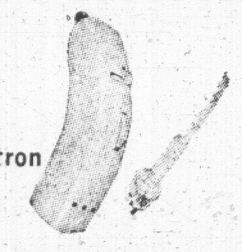

This didn't satisfy Pat Antle, general secretary of the Newfoundland Federation of Fishermen. His reaction:

"I had hoped for a straight yes or no to the points in the brief. But we were told to sit back and wait.

"However, we did get some assurance on the salted cod problem that measures are being taken now and that an announcement may be made in the near future, possibly by May 1."

The industry has proposed that the federal government purchase Newfoundland's backlog of salted cod left over from 1967 and dispose of it at reduced prices, or give it away under the external aid program. There has been an 80,000-quintal increase in the unsold surplus in Eastern Canada over the last 12 months — a quintal is 112 pounds.

Spring or Fall, Handicappers Find Fun in Figures

By BILL WALKER

Wednesday being a fine day and with little else to do but get to the job of picking winners, the story naturally evolves about Sandown Park, near Sidney.

This is where the current spring Thoroughbred racing meeting is being held.

It readily will be recalled that this is the same place where the annual fall meet used to be held, and much more successfully.

However, that is beside the point.

Who really cares, except the operators, the horsemen, and the punters.

The operators know it will be better in Vancouver. The horsemen may hedge, but they believe in the same principle; and the punters (the horse players if you like) don't really care. They'll be there, in the spring or in the fall.

Which brings us up to the subject of handicapping, or picking winners.

It is noticeable on occasion that various news and sports media will select for the patrons the probable order of finish of the competitors in certain events.

This is not an invitation to wager, it is explained, nor should it be, but rather it is the considered opinion of the by-line writer that he sees the result in such a manner as predicted.

★ ★ ★

Also it is a known fact that books on picking winners appear in the mails, and in the display ad section of your daily newspaper.

Everybody reads these selections, then attempts to beat the top one, also the odds board, goes home a winner and decries such amateurs as appear in the press.

So be it, or as the sinner, sitting in the sunshine, might say to the man in the shade, "I had six today."

Whereas the loser might remark: "They race again on Saturday, don't they?"

At any rate, this is not meant to be an epistle, be you in the sun or the shade.

The point is that, if you are a handicapper and can appreciate figures, you can have some fun to go with the running of the events.

Take yesterday's first race for example.

Beau Bunnie figured to win, by almost everyone, with Indian Puddin' ready to dispute the fact, and that's the way they ran.

★ ★ ★

Strictly handicapping, but no price: $4.90 to win and $6.00 for the quinella.

Then came the second race.

This was for mainden two-year-olds. There was no form until Trucy Star, a dark brown filly won at 4-1 and paid $10.30.

Trucy Star, it now can be recalled, was purchased for $100 at last year's yearling's sales.

So what price the cost?

Now to the third race.

The experts (that's fellow away from home) had Copper Eagle as the good thing, but a look at the workouts would have disclosed that first starter Simontime, by Simonworth (for the benefit of the old-timers hereabouts) had had a sharp work.

Copper Eagle went to the lead, but Simontime came well equipped and would have been going away by more at the finish except for the fact that he wanted to lug in.

That little bit of extra figuring was worth $15.90.

And now for the fourth:

This was the exacto.

Sandripples figured. Best bet on the handicap in the Times and a narrow loser in his debut.

★ ★ ★

No disappointment there for chalk players as the win price was $3.80, but on the other side of the coin was Jokellina a 6-1 choice who had slipped in for second and a $36.90 exacto.

For the purists, the indisputable fact is that Flying Dave, with Jack Phillips up, should have been there.

Phillips, not by choice, had nothing but trouble on the outside and with his horse lugging in . . . was a trifle shy.

And this is what we mean, this is handicapping.

The fifth, with favored Non Challenge declared, was a toss-up.

Could Chicago Mike take the lead and hold up?

Was Ellabhai good enough from the outside, or would Katsie Chief or Foxy Bud run back to their first starts?

It was close, but Katsie Chief got the nod through a strong ride by Phillips. The payoff was $9.30.

The sixth, at six furlongs, presented a slightly different picture.

★ ★ ★

El Tajo liked it on the lead. Prince Nagea and Glencar loved to run down the lane, while Little Bit of Sugar was also at home on the front end.

What to do?

It may not mean much, but one experienced handicapper worked it down to El Tajo and Prince Nagea, with El Tajo getting it because Prince Nagea's rider was two pounds over weight.

Who won? El Tajo. Glencar, with a surge, was second, The Sugar piece ran third and Prince Nagea was fourth, but closing fastest of all at the finish.

Then the seventh and the final race on the abbreviated card.

All selectors, but one, said Dark Bug. Most put Donmard as the most likely to succeed if Dark Bug failed, while the sentimentalists leaned towards Pils Friday, at age 11, a loved campaigner.

★ ★ ★

The chalk players had the right idea and Dark Bug and Donmaid emerged as the second favored quinella of the day at $13.00.

And now, more seriously, if you haven't absorbed what went before.

Here are some very good tips on handicapping if you would like the work of experts (and in this category we are immediately dissociated).

From a well qualifed expert, Bob Hebert of the Los Angeles Times, who has successfully published a book on the subject:

(1), If you are undecided between two horses, one with a good recent race, and the other with a good workout, take the one with a race.

(2) When you must decide between a speed horse and the come-from-behinder in a sprint, take the speed horse (Example: El Tajo as opposed to Prince Nagea).

(3) Don't let the consensus fool you. If 10 experts, instead of two, pick a horse to win it doesn't increase its chances of winning, it just lowers the odds.

★ ★ ★

And if you really are a member of the figure filbert society, perhaps this may be of some help:

Most racing secretaries figure that four pounds in weight is equal to one length in a sprint race. At one mile, three pounds equal one length at a mile and a quarter it is one pound to one length.

The other fundamentals in regard to speed are simple, until the race is run:

The length of a horse is equivalent to one fifth of a second, and so on until five lengths equal one second.

Or as the man in the shade said:

"Did you get the overnights?

They go again on Saturday in the Times Handicap.

IT'S MY VIEW . . .

It's hard to tell if Lew Matlin came unprepared, or if he was being polite. The cigar-chomping general manager of the Vancouver Mounties' baseball team was one of the guest speakers at Tuesday's beef-feed.

Matlin spoke well, but didn't steal the show from main-eventer Annis Stukus. Matlin has quite a reputation as a speaker, and it must be suspected he "lay low" out of respect to Stuke.

Most of the cash customers understood him, and that is not up to Matlin's usual standards.

About three years ago, Prime Minister Lester Pearson quietly slipped into a box seat at Vancouver's Capilano Stadium to watch a Pacific Coast League game. Few knew anything about it until Matlin dropped the hint:

"The old second baseman was in our store a couple of days ago to watch our troops in the first of a double-dip."

For the benefit of intellectuals and such, that means that Pearson, a good second-baseman in his youth, had been at Capilano Stadium to watch the first game of a doubleheader.

The next time Lew pops into the store, get in line and listen . . . but carefully. He gets a lot more wood on the ball than he did Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Stukus, the locquacious Lithuanian, batted at his usual average although Stanley Leonard insisted the main speaker disposed of his original speech upon discovering women would be present.

Stuke objected to Andy Stephen's introduction as "an ex-coach of the B.C. Lions' football team."

"An ex-coach," said Annis, "is one who is fired in mid-season.

"I am a FORMER coach.

"A former coach is one whose contract is not renewed at the end of a season."

Hitting a serious streak, Stukus, now the general manager of Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, predicted the lower mainland "will have an NHL franchise within two or three years."

He came, he said, "not to speak but to remind you . . .

"To remind you that Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle all have won the Stanley Cup. . . .

"To remind you that the first artificial ice arena was built right here in Victoria. . . .

"To remind you of the hockey history of this area. . . .

"They can't keep Vancouver out (of the NHL). . . ."

★ ★ ★

Leonard, a 12-time campaigner in the Masters, touched on the subject of Roberto de Vicenzo's scoring error last weekend that cost the Argentine a chance to play off, with Bob Goalby, for the coveted golf prize.

The mistake, said the Vancouver professional, "has to be one of the saddest things that has ever happened in sports."

"But rules are rules," added Leonard, "and it would be a greater tragedy to bend the rules."

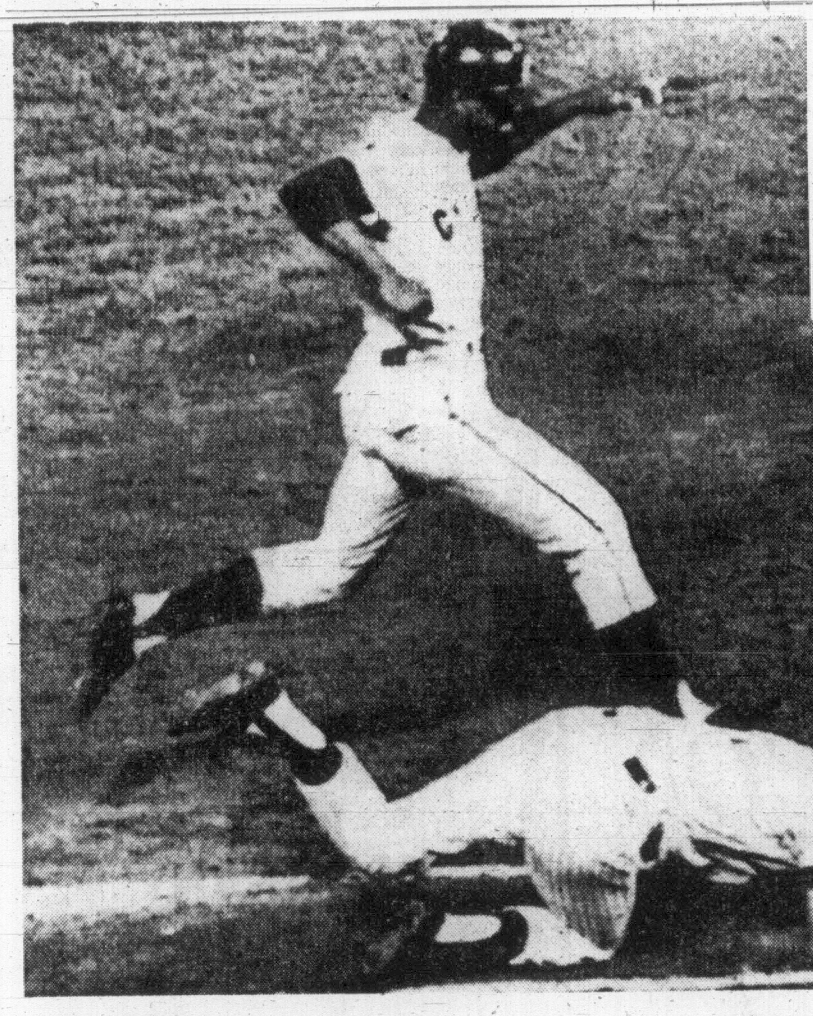

The best-kept secret of the evening was Leonard's illness. He almost passed up the invitation to visit Victoria two weeks ago and again Tuesday morning when he felt very poorly.

After delivering his speech, Stan quietly slipped out and retired to his room.

★ ★ ★

Finally, officials of the sponsoring Saanich Kiwanis Club and the Victoria Sports Council expressed a view that the dinner was a success. They bucked a Stanley Cup playoff game on television and encountered other unexpected problems, but seemed satisfied with the inaugural dinner.

It can be assumed another dinner will be held next year. It will probably include entertainment by performers who perform without the benefit of commercials. The singing group that started it off Tuesday would have been better received had it hummed its melodies and hawed the in-between commercials.

MAKING PUTOUT hard way is Atlanta first baseman Deron Johnson who crawls to base ahead of Chicago's Ernie Banks for putout after diving for low throw in National League game Wednesday night at Atlanta. Deron's dive helped snuff out attempted rally. Braves went on for 2-0 triumph.

Four in Six Is Too Much

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Billy Reay, of Chicago Black Hawks, yawned, threw his copy of the local newspaper across the room, stretched and yawned again.

"Four games in six days is too much even for the management," he said Wednesday night after arriving here for the start of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals against Montreal Canadiens tonight.

The Western Division semi-finals conclude tonight at Philadelphia and Los Angeles where the Flyers meet St. Louis Blues and the Kings are at home to Minnesota North Stars. Both series are tied 3-3.

Tonight's opening game of the Eastern Division final between Chicago and Montreal will be telecast on channels 2 and 6 starting at 5:30 p.m.

"And if you think I look beat, you can imagine how my hockey players feel."

Reay coached his club Tuesday night to its fourth straight victory over New York Rangers to win the best-of-seven quarter-finals 4-2.

LAUDS VETERANS

"There were so many factors involved," he said. "We got superior goaltending when we needed it from Denis DeJordy. We got great efforts from the big guns like (Bobby) Hull and (Stan) Mikita. And we got bonuses from others like (Gilles) Marotte and (Pit) Martin."

Ken Wharram, who missed the fifth game, is a questioned starter in tonight's game because of rib injuries.

Reay's skepticism isn't shared by the members of his club.

"From now on it's all the way," said Mikita, the National Hockey League scoring champion who leads the playoffs with three goals and six assists.

The Black Hawks are in much the same situation as Toronto Maple Leafs were at the same time last season. Montreal had defeated New York in four straight games to win the first series, while Toronto came off a third-place regular-season finish to topple the league champion Black Hawks in six games.

The Leafs retained that momentum and knocked over the Canadiens for the Stanley Cup in six games.

LACKS DEPTH

"But those Leafs had a lot more depth than my club has today," Reay said. "The only thing I can count on is that anything can happen in this crazy business and I'm hoping it will."

Meanwhile, coach Toe Blake, who will not bring his team out of its mountain retreat until just prior to game time, isn't optimistic about his chances of disposing of the Hawks.

He says that the weeklong layover his club gained by knocking Boston Bruins over in four straight games has done nothing except aid his club.

Cookie's Clout Rescues Phils

By The Associated Press

When the wind shifts his way, little Cookie Rojas can blow up a big storm.

"I hit home runs only in hurricanes," said the slender second baseman, who cracked a game-winning, two-run homer Wednesday night as Philadelphia Phillies ended a six-game tailspin by edging Don Drysdale and Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2.

Rojas' fifth-inning shot off Drysdale enabled the struggling Phils to pull out of their home opener and snap their longest losing streak since 1964, when a ten-game September skid cost them the National League pennant.

New York Mets and Pittsburgh Pirates also captured their home openers in impressive fashion, the Mets trimming San Francisco Giants 3-0 behind rookie left-hander Jerry Koosman and the Pirates smothering Houston Astros 13-4 with a 17-hit barrage. Cincinnati Reds nipped St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 12 innings and Atlanta Braves blanked Chicago Cubs 2-0 in other National League action.

The Phillies trailed 2-1 when Tony Taylor stroked a two-out single in the fifth and Rojas slammed a 3-2 pitch into the lower centre field seats.

LIFTS FRYMAN

Manager Gene Mauch lifted southpaw Woody Fryman with two Dodgers on in the eighth after centre fielder Tony Gonzalez raced to the wall and gloved Lefebvre's 400-foot drive. Reliefer Dick Farrell then came on to preserve Fryman's first victory as a Phillie.

Koosman scattered seven hits and struck out 10 on the way to his second successive shutout before 52,079 Shea Stadium supporters.

A six-run uprising in the third inning keyed the Pirates' romp over Houston before a Forbes Field crowd of 30,779. Ex-reliever Al McBean, given a commanding early lead, went the distance for his second victory without a loss.

Maury Wills and Jerry May led the Pittsburgh atttack with three hits apiece.

Phil Niekro, the Braves' knuckleball artist, stopped the Cubs on four hits for his second triumph in as many decisions. Felipe Alou's third inning single drove in the only run Niekro needed and Hank Aaron provided insurance with a seventh inning homer.

All Stops Pulled In West Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League's Western Division playoffs have reached a showdown.

All stops will be pulled at Philadelphia and Los Angeles, where the Flyers are host to St. Louis Blues and the Kings entertain Minnesota North Stars.

For two clubs, the game marks the end of the current season. The two series will have gone the seven-game limit and tonight's winners enter the divisional final starting Saturday.

And the odds appear to favor Los Angeles and Philadelphia Flyers.

In the Minnesota-Los Angeles series, home ice has been a deciding factor. Added to this, the Kings will have Mr. Playoff back in goal for them after a two-game layoff.

Terry Sawchuk, who's been in more NHL playoffs than any other active goalie, sat out for two games while Wayne Rutledge handled goaltending chores for the Kings. Sawchuk was suffering a bout of the flu.

And the Flyers have the edge in momentum, having won their last two games after trailing St. Louis Blues 3-1 at one stage of the playoffs. And tonight's rubber match is in the Flyers home Spectrum.

Both the Flyers and the North Stars went into overtime Tuesday to extend their series, Philadelphia winning 2-1 on a fluke goal by Don Blackburn at 11:18 of the second overtime.

The North Stars won 4-3 when Milan Marcetta scored at 9:11 of the first overtime in their game with Los Angeles to send the deciding game back to the coast city.

Both Philadelphia and St. Louis were comparatively subdued in their Tuesday encounter after the clubs had been assessed a total of $3,800 in fines following a 20-minute free-for-all Saturday.

POILE OUT

The heavy fine led to manager Bud Poile of the Flyers tendering his resignation in protest. Of course it was refused out of hand by Philadelphia management, but is an indication of the high feeling between the clubs.

National League May Make Expansion Leap

CHICAGO (AP) — National League baseball club owners will meet Friday, apparently intent on selecting two new franchises and deciding whether to catch up with the American League on start of a 12-club circuit.

The American League last fall approved expansion to 12 clubs in 1969, reviving a Kansas City franchise to compensate for the Athletics' switch to Oakland this season and adding Seattle as a second new member.

Warren Giles, National League president, earlier this week said the meeting was aimed only at setting down ground rules to five cities seeking the two new franchises for operation not later than 1970.

But one NL club executive said "there could be some definite action because time is getting short."

MONTREAL BID

The franchise applicants include Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal and Buffalo.

Although Giles said he expected no major action by the NL club owners, urgency could be prompted by the fact the American League has a special meeting scheduled in Chicago next Thursday. Approval may be given then to a proposed controversial divisional split of the 12-club lineup in 1969 with a championship playoff.

This would confront the National League with an overshadowing of its own pennant race by the AL playoffs and mess up of scheduling, particularly the World Series buildup, under the present 10-club NL lineup.

The National League previously voted to expand not later than 1970, but this could be reconsidered by the three-man expansion committee which will report to the club owners Friday.

GALA SOCCER SHOW . . . . . . STARTS SATURDAY

Caribbean Visit at Stake

Victoria entries from the Gorge Soccer Association set their sights on provincial championships, but the biggest reward of all will go to B.C.'s first division champions.

All honors will be at stake in the 16th annual "Tournament of Champions" — minor soccer's greatest show which draws the honor of being the first athletic event to be staged in the new Centennial Stadium at the University of Victoria.

The two-day gala gets under way Saturday at 11:30 a.m. and winds up Sunday with the parade of champions at 3:30 p.m.

Four games will be played Saturday and three on Sunday.

The Gorge teams, finalists in the second and fifth divisions, both will draw the benefits of playing before hometown supporters.

It is the Division I players who seem to have the most at stake however — a possible expenses-paid trip to the West Indies.

Vancouver Southern Slope faces North Shore Burdette Beavers at 12:45 p.m. on Sunday in the crucial tussle.

Winners become B.C. champions and advance to the Western Canadian playdowns. The western champs then play host to an eastern team in the Canadian final.

The Canadian juvenile champions have been extended an invitation from the West Indian government to visit the Caribbean.

SPECIAL STATUS VETO 'SHATTERING'

Trudeau Less Flexible Than PM on Quebec?

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebecers see Pierre Elliott Trudeau as "sort of inter-planetary, beyond being international," says nationalist Jacques-Yvan Morin.

Mr. Trudeau's "feet are not always down to earth" and his election as prime minister will probably make a Quebec constitutional consensus more difficult, says Mr. Morin, 36, president of the Estates General of French Canada.

A growing consensus toward a "moderate" solution on the basis of special status for Quebec was shattered first by the February federal-provincial conference and now by the Trudeau accession, in the view of Mr. Morin.

"We're entering a period of intense agitation and manoeuvring, probably a period of great instability in federal-provincial relations as between Ottawa and Quebec."

Mr. Morin was interviewed as the privately-organized Estates General opened a new "in-depth" study—a long series of meetings—to ascertain constitutional views in Quebec and throughout French Canada.

This could lead to the setting up of "sub estates general" in the minority French-language regions—the West, Ontario and the Maritimes, he said.

TOOK RADICAL LINE

Regional meetings of those groups would perhaps be held before another full-scale national assizes here in the late fall along the lines of last November's meeting, which amounted to a giant constitutional festival of nationalistic fervor. Many outside-Quebec French-Canadians were shocked at the radical tone of resolutions.

The Estates General is made up of French-Canadians elected from within the ranks of intermediary organizations such as school boards, professional groups, nationalist societies, trade unions, municipalities and chambers of commerce. The November meeting was attended by delegates from all provinces except Newfoundland.

The organization is patterned after the Estates General first established in France in 1302 to advise the government on various problems, particularly those dealing with planned changes in the constitution. Associate professor in law at University of Montreal, Mr. Morin is a former professorial colleague of Mr. Trudeau and retains a personal admiration of the new prime minister. They share a common interest, human rights, on which they both have written.

"Mr. Trudeau's bid certainly constitutes quite a challenge," said Mr. Morin. "He will try to rally around his ideas part of Quebec public opinion."

The new prime minister was trying to make the Quebec slogan maitres chez nous —masters in our own house— apply to the whole of Canada and "while of course this is an appealing idea, it is difficult to put into action."

"Probably the people in Quebec will be torn between the two ideas, building Quebec or so to speak, invading Canada. . . . What will be the outcome is hard to say. But I venture to say the difficulties encountered by Trudeau will be far greater than he expects. . . ."

Mr. Trudeau had to show Canada could be politically and economically independent of the United States. But "he is not alone in the game." He had to convince his cabinet colleagues and, anyway, Mr. Trudeau's own pronouncements were "ambiguous."

In the past it was sufficient to state that French and English were equal but "now he must not only state it, he must show it."

"English Canada is going to find that Trudeau will be quite a nuisance," said Mr. Morin.

'IN ORBIT'

Would a rejection of the new prime minister by English Canada have a profound effect on Quebec?

"It depends on whether he is accepted by Quebec," said the nationalist.

"He's regarded as not an average Quebecer or average Canadian. He's jet set, sort of inter-planetary, beyond being international, in orbit, feet not always down to earth.

"Personally I think he is profoundly French-Canadian, but one with means, financial and cultural, which the average Quebecer lacks. A wonderful specimen of an educated man. Perhaps this makes him a little impervious to the problems of the average man."

Mr. Morin said Lester B. Pearson was more "supple and subtle" than his successor The Ottawa conference in February, in which Mr. Trudeau played a leading role, resulted in the Quebec government adopting a toughening "let's-just-do-it" policy regarding matters in dispute with the federal government.

Examples included establishment of an immigration department and Radio Quebec, and the Gabon incident.

"These show a definite tendency to use unilateral measures," said Mr. Morin. "I'm afraid we're in for a lot of that. We're getting into an internal cycle of unilateral action followed by unilateral gestures."

Lecturer in international law at U. of M., Mr. Morin comes from a long line of lawyers.

Educated at U. of M. and McGill, he took post-graduate work at the Law School of the Americas, Dallas, Harvard and Cambridge. Having lectured at University of Paris in 1962 and 1967, he was the first teacher of law exchanged between Canada and France.

The lean lawyer with the neat, trimmed beard was becoming a familiar figure to Montreal audiences even before the emergence of the Estates General six years ago.

"This is the tragedy," he said. "English Canada is awakening under pressure, but it took so long that it's probably too late."

BACKS SPECIAL STATUE

French-Canadians would have been immensely grateful in long-past years for the new concessions on bilingualism and biculturalism but today the question is:

"What powers will Quebec need to become a strong centre of French culture?

"No amount of biculturalism will smother this issue. As the French saying has it, 'il ne faut pas laisser la proie pour l'ombre' —do not let go the prey for the shadow, the shadow being bilingualism."

To a direct question on whether he is a separatist, Mr. Morin replied that he has defended the special-status option for five years. He added:

"I see Canada now as reflecting two opposite tendencies and needs—the tendency of English-speaking Canada toward greater centralization, and French-Canada towards broader self-government.

"The only rational way to solve that short of independence is special status. I have the impression, however, that this solution requires more rationality and generosity than can be found in English Canada, especially at the federal level."

POLITICAL PRISONERS SET FREE

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek government today released 100 political prisoners detained on the islands of Yaros and Leros since the army takeover a year ago.

Panayotis Tzevelekos, minister of public order, signed a decree for their release to mark the Greek Orthodox Easter this Sunday.

A statement by Press Minister Michael Sideratos earlier this month said there were 2,437 prisoners, mainly avowed Communists, held on the two islands. They are considered dangerous to public security.

A total of 6,848 persons were arrested following the army takeover but many were subsequently released by security committees and the authorities.

Abduction Charge Dismissed

Magistrate Ostler Wednesday dismissed an abduction charge against an Ontario doctor.

The magistrate said evidence led in the trial of Dr. Glen Gold Stewart "in no way supports the charge."

Dr. Stewart was charged with unlawfully detaining Craig Stewart in Oak Bay betweeen Dec. 26 and Jan. 3.

Court was told Dr. and Mrs. Stewart were divorced this year. A court order earlier awarded custody of their four children to Mrs. Stewart.

Dr. Stewart was given visiting rights.

Mrs. Kathleen Stewart testified her former husband took the children from her Oak Bay home Dec. 26.

"I next saw the children in the London, Ont., airport March 29," she said.

Dr. Stewart now practises in St. Thomas, Ontario.

Magistrate Ostler said "the Crown might have drafted two or three charges which the evidence might have supported, but this is not one of them."

Dr. Stewart was represented by Alan Bigelow.

Job-Finders Kept On Local Payroll

HALIFAX (CP) — The federal manpower department has cancelled its plans to eliminate 10 field workers employed in its pilot project in the city's north end, William C. Stewart, Atlantic regional director for the department, said today.

The decision to replace the 10 local citizens with professional counsellors raised a storm of protest in the city.

The Halifax Neighborhood Centre, which encouraged the experimental project to find jobs for persons living in a low employment area, was organizing a citizen's mass protest meeting and planning representations to various levels of government.

Mr. Stewart said today there had been some misinterpretation of facts about the situation.

He said he was conscious that it is most important that organizations which serve the public recognize the views and needs of the public they serve and adjust services accordingly.

A department spokesman said professional counsellors would work along with the 10 field officers. Three counsellors were already at work in the area.

The project, first of its kind in Canada, was set up by Manpower last July on a six-month trial basis with the understanding that if it succeeded similar centres would be established in other cities.

Eight men and two women, living in the community where the project was set up, were chosen as field workers on the basis of their initiative in trying to find jobs, personality, intelligence and potential.

Their average educational qualifications were not above Grade 8 and they were unemployed. They were trained by Manpower counsellors.

The field workers first made a house-to-house survey of the community and found more than 1,000 persons unemployed, many of them deemed unemployable because they lacked education and skills.

Employers in the area were approached, and by the end of March the field workers had placed 1,011 persons in jobs. In the meantime the project was extended another six months.

Robert J. McCleave, Halifax Conservative MP, says the advantage of the field workers is that they speak the same language and understand the problems of people in the community.

Mr. Bourgeois says the personal touch will be lost if professional counsellors take over.

CANADIAN-BORN FLYER GETS HIGH U.K. POST

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian flyer with a fondness for skiing and bobsledding will be given a key position in Britain's new Air Strike Command April 30.

Air Commodare David George Evans, who joined the RAF as an airman in 1942, will be in charge of trials and tactics at strike headquarters at High Wycombe, about 40 miles west of London.

One of the youngest air commodores in the British service, Evans, 43, is a native of Windsor, Ont., where his father worked in an automobile plant. The family later moved to Toronto, where Evans got his schooling.

"My parents were British emigrants who decided to take up life in Canada," Evans recalled in an interview Wednesday. "Just before the Second World War they decided to come back to England and of course my sister and I came with them."
